Our history

Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Hachette, or the appropriate overseas agent.

Hosting Earth

Facing the Climate Emergency

Edited by Richard Kearney Boston College, USA, Peter Klapes Boston College, USA, Urwa Hameed Free Immigrations Services, USA

Series: Psychology and the Other

Hosting Earth is a timely and much-needed volume in the emerging literature of environmental philosophy, drawing upon art, science, and politics to explore alternatives to the traditional domination of nature by humans. Focusing on the central role that the human psyche plays in answering our current ecological emergency, Hosting Earth is for anybody invested in the future of our planet and how psychological, psychoanalytic, and philosophical thought can reorient the current conversation about ecology.

Conservatism, Past and Present

A Philosophical Introduction

Tristan J. Rogers Donum Dei Classical Academy

Conservatism, Past and Present: A Philosophical Introduction argues that philosophical conservatism is a coherent and compelling set of historically rooted ideas about conserving and promoting the human good. Rogers shows that conservatism has been defined differently at different times: as a loose set of connected ideas reacting against the French Revolution; as a kind of disposition or instinct in favor of the status quo; and more recently as any ideas opposed to the political left. But he also allows a set of questions to guide his argument for conservatism's merits. In his answers, Rogers paints a compelling and coherent picture of an aligned and attractive set of ideas.

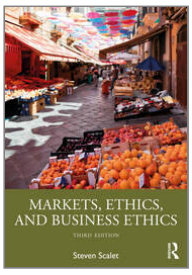
3RD EDITION

Markets, Ethics, and Business Ethics



Steven Scalet University of Baltimore

This book introduces a study of ethics and values to develop a deeper understanding of markets, business, and economic life. This Third Edition maintains the strengths of previous editions—short, digestible chapters and engaging writing that explains challenging ideas clearly. The material is easily adaptable with suggested course outlines, separable chapters, and flexible applications to case studies. This text is designed for interdisciplinary programs in philosophy, politics, and economics (PPE), as well as courses in business ethics.

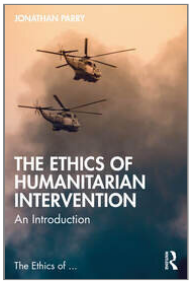
The Ethics of Humanitarian Intervention

An Introduction



Jonathan Parry University of Birmingham, UK

Series: The Ethics of ...

Few topics generate as much controversy and debate as armed humanitarian intervention. Military force involves death and destruction, as well as interfering in other countries' domestic affairs. But, crucially, non-intervention is also controversial. When confronted with humanitarian crises abroad, many feel that outsiders are not only justified in using force to halt the abuses, but that they must do so. The Ethics of Humanitarian Intervention: An Introduction offers a guide to these ethical debates. It is ideal reading for students and researchers in philosophy, applied ethics, politics and international relations.

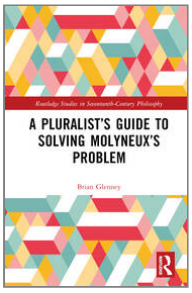
A Pluralist's Guide to Solving Molyneux's Problem



Brian Glenney Norwich University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Seventeenth-Century Philosophy

This book presents a novel pluralist strategy for answering Molyneux's problem. The author interweaves historical scholarship with contemporary philosophical work and empirical research on animal, infant, and adult human perception. Research in the cognitive sciences confirms that various kinds of blindness can co-occur. Therefore, the author adopts an explanatory pluralism for answering Molyneux's problem and provides a research-based answer using previously unheeded insights particularly from animal crossmodal perception studies to retell a more complex story of perception: its levels of explanation and integration.

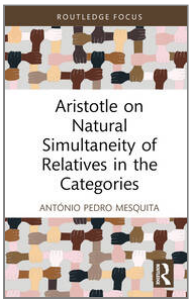
Aristotle on Natural Simultaneity of Relatives in the Categories



António Pedro Mesquita University of Lisbon, Portugal

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

This book addresses the issue of natural simultaneity of relatives discussed by Aristotle in Categories 7, 7b15-8a12. This issue is just one of the several that Aristotle considers in his discussion of relatives throughout this chapter. It is, however, a particularly relevant issue because it involves a number of puzzles, the analysis of which allows for a better understanding of the very notion of relativity in Aristotle. This is the first book to explore this issue from the perspective of illuminating the Aristotelian views on relatives. It will appeal to scholars and graduate students working on Aristotle, ancient philosophy in general, and metaphysics.

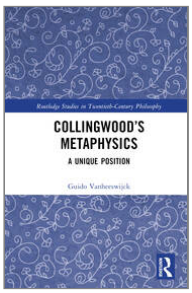
Collingwood's Metaphysics

A Unique Position



Guido Vanheeswijck University of Antwerp, Belgium

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Philosophy

This book explores R.G. Collingwood's concept of metaphysics. It traces the evolution of Collingwood's thought on metaphysics through his published work, posthumously published manuscripts, and recently discovered course notes. The author argues that objective idealism is the key to unraveling the true scope of Collingwood's metaphysics. This theory takes a mid-position between mainstream interpretations and forms the background to many of Collingwood's key ideas regarding metaphysics, the philosophy of nature and the philosophy of history. The book also compares Collingwood's concept of metaphysics to that of his predecessors, contemporaries, and followers.

Confucianism at War

1931–1945

Edited by Shaun O'Dwyer

This is the first book-length study of wartime Confucianism in any language, providing new insights into key developments in Confucian thought and ideology in East Asia in the 1930s and 1940s. This book will appeal to scholars and students of Asian studies, nationalism studies, postcolonial studies, religious studies and philosophy. In particular, it is essential reading for those interested in nationalism and modern Confucian thought in East Asia.

Cultural Domination

Philosophical Perspectives

Edited by Thomas M. Besch The University of Sydney, Harold Kincaid University of Cape Town, Tarun Menon Azim Premji University, Bengaluru, Raphael van Riel University of Duisburg-Essen

Cultural domination has received attention inside and outside of academia, but it remains under-explored in recent philosophical debate. To fill this gap, this book brings together ten original research contributions that engage the theme from a variety of different perspectives. The diversity of styles of analysis, theoretical commitments, and normative frameworks across the chapters makes this book ideal for advanced undergraduate and graduate students looking for an entry point into this complex issue, as well as for scholars in philosophy, social science, and cultural studies interested in the current state of the art.

Definition and Essence from Aristotle to Kant

Edited by Peter R. Anstey University of Sydney, Australia, David Bronstein University of Notre Dame Australia

This volume brings together twelve essays exploring the history of theories of definition and essence in Western philosophy from Aristotle to Kant. Its broad historical sweep also facilitates comparisons between different figures. It also reveals important connections between different subfields of philosophy as these were developed over the centuries – logic, metaphysics, epistemology, philosophy of language, and natural philosophy among them.

Disability Justice in Public Health Emergencies

Edited by Joel Michael Reynolds Georgetown University, USA, Mercer E. Gary Drexel University, USA

This book details how existing public health emergency responses have failed and still fail to address the multi-faceted needs of disabled people. The central claim of the volume is that the ethical and political insights of disability theory and activism provide key resources for equitable disaster planning for all. The chapters build upon the existing efforts of disability communities to articulate emergency planning priorities and response measures that take into account the large body of qualitative and quantitative research on disabled people's health, needs, and experiences.

Exophilosophy

The Philosophical Implications of Alien Life

Edited by Richard Playford Leeds Trinity University, UK

Interest in space, space exploration, and alien life has never been greater in popular culture. There has also been persistent interest in these topics amongst scientists with organizations such as NASA and SETI. Yet, the topic has received relatively little philosophical attention. Whilst certain aspects of these topics remain within the purview of the sciences, a host of philosophical questions are raised by the possibility of alien life and extraterrestrial intelligences, and the possibility of our coming into contact with them. This volume will examine some of these questions whilst laying the groundwork for future study in an as yet under researched area of philosophy.

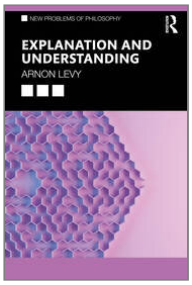
Explanation and Understanding



Arnon Levy Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

Science has multiple goals: to describe the world, as it is now; to predict the future and to make inferences about the past. But science also aims to understand the world – to explain why it is the way it is. But what does it take to explain a phenomenon? What philosophical questions are at stake? In this thorough and clearly written introduction to scientific explanation, Arnon Levy explores the following questions and more. Additional features - such as chapter summaries, suggestions for further reading, and a glossary - make this an excellent resource for students of philosophy of science, metaphysics and philosophy of psychology.

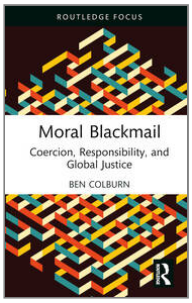
Moral Blackmail

Coercion, Responsibility, and Global Justice



Ben Colburn University of Glasgow, UK

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

Moral Blackmail: Coercion, Responsibility, and Global Justice explores a novel kind of forced action which occurs when someone is forced to do something because someone else has made its alternatives morally unacceptable. Ben Colburn explores moral blackmail by first examining existing theories of coercion, responsibility, and voluntary action, and argues that moral blackmail's significance is not limited to the interpersonal: it is also endemic in the structures of distribution and decision-making at the largest scale. It will be of interest to those studying and researching political philosophy, ethical theory, applied ethics and politics.

Naturalism and Its Challenges

Edited by Gary N. Kemp University of Glasgow, UK, Ali Hossein Khani Iranian Institute of Philosophy, Hossein Sheykh Rezaee Iranian Institute of Philosophy, Hassan Amiriara Iranian Institute of Philosophy

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This volume features new essays on the application and role of naturalism in philosophical inquiry. The chapters discuss how naturalism can be properly employed in different philosophical areas such as epistemology, metaphysics, philosophy of mind, philosophy of language, philosophy of religion, philosophy of time, philosophy of science, philosophy of mathematics, philosophy of memory, cognitive science, ethics, meta-ethics, and normativity. The book serves as an important update on current controversies about naturalism.

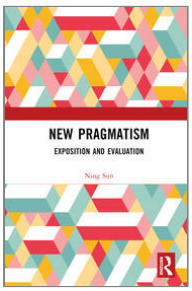
New Pragmatism

Exposition and Evaluation



Ning Sun

Through a series of case studies, the book thoroughly investigates the pragmatic elements of "new pragmatism", which inherits the legacy of classical pragmatism and combines the topics and methods of analytic philosophy. Exploring the continuity and heterogeneity of these two trends of thought, the author aims to compare them from various perspectives of new pragmatists, such as W. V. Quine, Wilfrid Sellars, Hilary Putnam, Richard Rorty, Donald Davidson, Robert Brandom, John McDowell, Nelson Goodman, and others. The book will appeal to students and scholars of pragmatism and analytic philosophy.

Phenomenologies of the Digital Age

The Virtual, the Fictional, the Magical

Edited by Marco Cavallaro University of Kaiserslautern-Landau, Germany, Nicolas de Warren Pennsylvania State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This volume explores the broad and rich spectrum of contemporary phenomenological engagement with digital technologies. By focusing on plural forms of the digital, it offers arobust and flexible framework for contemporary phenomenological investigations in the digital age. It contends that the impact of digital technologies on the lifeworld involves both the emergence of novel fields of lived experience in need of phenomenological analysis and the transformation of the method and attitude of phenomenologically oriented philosophers towards the world.

Philosophical Perspectives on Esotericism

From the 19th Century to the Present

Edited by Olli Pitkänen University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This volume offers the first systematic philosophical study of esotericism and late modern philosophy. It addresses fundamental philosophical questions related to esotericism and reveals that esoteric ideas have had decisive impact on countless important philosophers, even if this fact has been neglected in contemporary philosophy. Philosophical Perspectives on Esotericism will appeal to scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of religion, history of philosophy, and religious studies.

Philosophy Across Borders

Perspectives from Contemporary Theory

Edited by Emma Ingala Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain, Gavin Rae Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book brings into conversation geographically diverse theorists to question the meaning, purpose, and place of conceptual borders in philosophy. It shows how contemporary theory is constituted by a dynamic practice in which the boundaries created to define it are simultaneously overcome in their establishment. The chapters call into question the need to retreat behind demarcated boundaries that mark the domain of philosophy proper, to instead offer a performative account of how philosophy can creatively work across (geographical, cultural, linguistic) borders, without foreclosing that analysis conceptually.

Positive Duties to Wild Animals

Edited by Kyle Johannsen Trent University, Canada

Series: Routledge Environmental Ethics

This book further develops the interventionist literature on wild animal suffering using different theoretical frameworks, including some that have never previously been used to ground our positive duties to wild animals. The purpose of this book is to further develop the interventionist literature by bringing together philosophers who agree that we have significant duties to help wild animals, but who use different theoretical frameworks, or who disagree about the details. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Ethics, Policy & Environment.

Reading Kant with Sellars

Reconceiving Kantian Themes

Edited by Mahdi Ranaee University of Potsdam, Germany, Luz Christopher Seiberth University of Potsdam, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in American Philosophy

This book considers Wilfrid Sellars' engagement with Kantian philosophy—both theoretical and practical—in his exegetical work in reading Kant as well as in his own systematic development of Kantian philosophy. Despite the spate of new publications on Wilfrid Sellars' role in twentieth-century philosophy, a comprehensive book-length examination of his interpretation of Kant has been conspicuously absent. This volume fills that gap both exegetically and systematically by providing a thorough exploration of Sellars' engagement with Kant, and also a rich dialogue between Kant scholars and specialists in Sellars' philosophy.

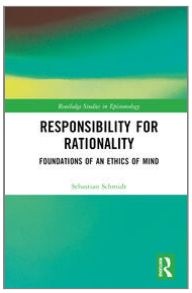
Responsibility for Rationality

Foundations of an Ethics of Mind



Sebastian Schmidt University of Zurich, Switzerland

Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology

How can we be responsible for our attitudes if we cannot normally choose what we believe, desire, feel, and intend? This problem has received much attention during the last decades, both in epistemology and ethics. This book develops the foundations of an ethics of mind by investigating the responsibility that is presupposed by the requirements of rationality that govern our attitudes. It argues that we are directly responsible for our attitudes by considering how we blame each other for being irrational and connects the most recent research on responsibility and rationality in a unifying dialectic.

Rethinking Informed Consent in the Big Data Age

Adam J. Andreotta Curtin University, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics

In the "big data age", providing informed consent online has never been more challenging. Countless companies collect and share our personal data through devices, apps, and websites, fuelling a growing data economy and the emergence of surveillance capitalism. As privacy self-management, through the mechanism of providing online consent, has become increasingly difficult, some have argued that surveillance capitalism, and the data economy more broadly, need to be overthrown. This book presents a different perspective. It departs from the concept of revolutionary change to focus on pragmatic, incremental solutions tailored to everyday contexts.

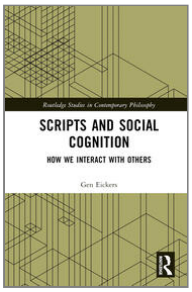
Scripts and Social Cognition

How we Interact with Others



Gen Eickers University of Bayreuth, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book argues that our success in navigating the social world depends heavily on scripts. It argues that we need to make contextual factors and social identity central when trying to explain how social interaction works, and that this is possible via scripts. Additionally, scripts can help us understand bias and injustice in social interaction. The author's approach combines several different areas of philosophy—– philosophy of mind, social epistemology, feminist philosophy—as well as sociology and psychology to show why paying attention to injustice in interaction is much needed in social cognition research, and in philosophy of mind more generally.

Subjective Agency and Poststructuralism

Edited by Cillian Ó Fathaigh Jagiellonian University Krakow, Poland, Gavin Rae Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain

This volume focuses on the works of Judith Butler, Cornelius Castoriadis, Gilles Deleuze, Jacques Derrida, Michel Foucault, Luce Irigaray, Jacques Lacan, and Catherine Malabou, to show that the question of the subject is a key one for many poststructuralist thinkers, that they are aware of the problematic status of agency that arises from their decentering of the foundational subject, and that they offer heterogeneous responses to it. It will be an invaluable resource for researchers and advanced students interested in philosophy, political theory, psychoanalysis, critical theory, history of ideas, feminist theory, and cultural studies.

The Aesthetic Legacy of Eduard Hanslick

Close Readings and Critical Perspectives

Edited by Lee Rothfarb UC Santa Barbara, USA, Alexander Wilfing Austrian Centre for Digital Humanities and Cultural Heritage, Vienna, Christoph Landerer Independent Scholar

Series: Routledge Research in Aesthetics

This book addresses the complex conceptual, historical, and philosophical questions posed by Eduard Hanslick's influential aesthetic treatise, On the Musically Beautiful. It covers many of Hanslick's overarching themes, such as the relationship between beauty and form, between music and emotion, and the role of imagination and performance in music, which has recently gained prominence in Hanslick scholarship. The chapters, divided into five thematic sections, will provide a better scholarly foundation for a deeper understanding of On the Musically Beautiful and its arguments.

The Expression of Emotion in the Visual Arts

Edited by Derek Matravers , Vanessa Brassey King's College London, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Aesthetics

The visual arts have long been held to have an intimate link with the emotions. Despite this, the topic remains underexplored; when the expression of emotion is discussed it is usually in relation to music. This volume corrects this and presents a variety of perspectives on the expression of emotion in the visual arts, and will be of interest to students and researchers in the philosophy of art and aesthetics as well as those interested in conceptual issues in the visual arts.

The History and Philosophy of Materialism

Edited by Charles T. Wolfe Université de Toulouse-2 Jean Jaurès, France, John Symons University of Kansas, USA

Series: Rewriting the History of Philosophy

Materialism - the view that facts are dependent upon or reducible to physical processes - is one of the most controversial of all philosophical theories. This major collection, the first of its kind, explores the fascinating philosophical history of materialism, from the ancient world to the modern day. Comprising 31 chapters it is ideal for those studying and researching the history of this vital philosophical movement, especially those with an interest in the history and philosophy of science, ancient and early modern philosophy and the Enlightenment.

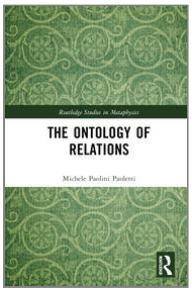
The Ontology of Relations



Michele Paolini Paoletti University of Macerata, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Metaphysics

This book provides an overview of the ontology of relations. It offers a detailed defense of the existence of irreducible relations in the universe and shows that entities such as powers should be better thought of as relations. The author defends the existence of irreducible relations against several objections, most notably three Bradleyan regresses. He also presents several problems that are typically taken to affect non-symmetrical relations and introduces the O-role theory to deal with them. Finally, the author explores essential dependence relations and causal dependence relations and defends the view that powers are relational modes.

The Philosophy of Environmental Emotions

Grief, Hope, and Beyond

Edited by Ondřej Beran University of Pardubice, Czech Republic, Laura Candiotto University of Pardubice, Czech Republic, Niklas Forsberg University of Pardubice, Czech Republic, Antony Fredriksson University of Pardubice, Czech Republic, David Rozen University of Pardubice, Czech Republic

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This volume presents new philosophical perspectives on environmental emotions. Part 1 discusses the conceptual and linguistic notions we use to make sense of our ecological predicament. Part 2 looks at the embedded dimension of our emotions: how we feel about the climate crisis as members of our communities and how our emotions are interconnected with what we do and how we work in and for our communities. Several chapters in this section explicitly discuss hope. Finally, Part 3 has a phenomenological and existential focus: it explores the nature of the rootedness and how it shapes our emotional experiences during the climate crisis.

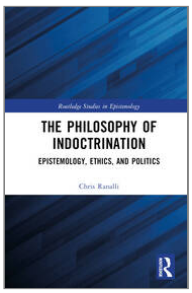
The Philosophy of Indoctrination

Epistemology, Ethics, and Politics



Chris Ranalli Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology

This book develops a social epistemological account of indoctrination. It answers questions about what indoctrination is, why it is epistemically harmful, how it can be practiced, and what should be done about it. The author argues that indoctrination is an epistemic phenomenon which results in closed-minded attitudes due to closed-mindedness makers embedded in the structure. He makes the case that indoctrination is always harmful because it disrespects agents in their capacity as epistemic agents. Finally, he contends that public indoctrination-ascriptions are political propaganda, which can breed the conditions for indoctrination rather than forestall it.

The Vienna Circle

The Story of Logical Empiricism

Sahotra Sarkar University of Texas at Austin, USA

In Vienna in the early 1920s a group of brilliant philosophers, mathematicians and scientists gathered to discuss the very foundations of science and mathematics. Known as the Vienna Circle, their motto was 'knowledge only from experience' and the movement became known as Logical Empiricism. Sahotra Sarkar tells the philosophical story of one hundred years of Logical Empiricism, from its inception in 1924 to its legacy today. A superb evocation of one of the most important intellectual movements of the twentieth century, it will be of great interest to anyone interested in philosophy, history, and the history of science.

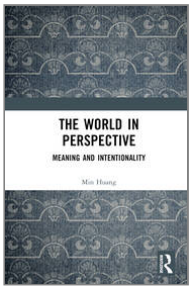
The World in Perspective

Meaning and Intentionality



Min Huang

This book aims to reclaim the significance of meaning within the philosophical thinking that has evolved from Descartes and Locke through Kant, Husserl, and Frege, focusing on intentionality—the mind's directedness toward the reality. Addressing key themes in the philosophy of language—truth, representation, propositions, predication, reference, and sense, the book presents a framework for a meaning-intentionality theory, which integrates key insights from Frege, Wittgenstein, Dummett, and Davidson. It will appeal to scholars and graduate students of epistemology, philosophy of language, philosophy of mind, theory of meaning, and theory of intentionality.

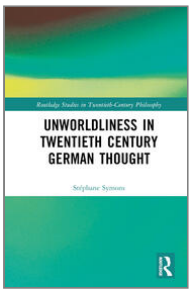
Unworldliness in Twentieth Century German Thought



Stéphane Symons KU Leuven, Belgium

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Philosophy

What happens when the world around us feels fragmented? How can a person continue to respond positively to their environment when it seems to have lost its internal coherence? These questions lie at the heart of this innovative interpretation of some of the most influential German philosophers of the twentieth century. The key figures in this study are Georg Lukács, Ernst Jünger, Ernst Bloch, Theodor Adorno, Max Kommerell, and Siegfried Kracauer. By establishing an intellectual dialogue among these otherwise diverse thinkers, this study identifies a common interest: the question whether an unworldly, fragmented universe can nonetheless elicit a creative response from individuals.

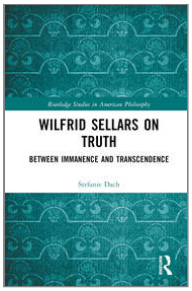
Wilfrid Sellars on Truth

Between Immanence and Transcendence



Stefanie Dach University of West Bohemia, Czech Republic

Series: Routledge Studies in American Philosophy

This book offers an innovative defense of Wilfrid Sellar's notion of ideal truth. Sellars is committed both to an immanent notion of truth and an ideal notion of truth. This book discusses these countervailing tendencies and tries to reconcile them. The author's defense of Sellars minimizes problematic commitments while still being recognizably rooted in Sellars's texts. Additionally, the author defends several innovative claims with respect to Sellars's thinking, for example, about the relative unimportance of his controversial concept of pictorial adequacy and about the neglected significance of considerations concerning context-sensitive expressions in his thought.

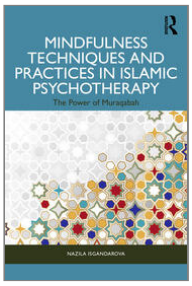
Mindfulness Techniques and Practices in Islamic Psychotherapy

The Power of Muraqabah



Nazila Isgandarova Emmanuel College of Victoria University in the University of Toronto, Canada

Mindfulness Techniques and Practices in Islamic Psychotherapy is a guide for Muslim spiritual care providers, psychologists, psychiatrists, psychotherapists, and others who use spiritual and religious concepts, values, and rituals as novel interventions to offer culturally appropriate mental health services. Chapters lay out the practice of muraqabah as a strategy for addressing mental and emotional disturbances such as depression, anxiety, personality disorders, attention-deficit disorders, and more. Using hermeneutical data, this book presents the processes and ethics of the muraqabah technique in Islamic spiritual care and psychotherapy.

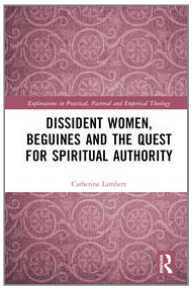
Dissident Women, Beguines, and the Quest for Spiritual Authority



Catherine Lambert

Series: Explorations in Practical, Pastoral and Empirical Theology

Dissident Women, Beguines and the Quest for Spiritual Authority focuses on the responses of a group of twenty-first century women to the lives and writings of thirteenth-century beguine mystics, and reveals how the struggle to discover their own inner spiritual authority connects two groups of women across centuries. The author explores the value of exemplars from the fringes, ushering Hadewijch of Brabant, Mechthild of Magdeburg and Marguerite Porete into the spotlight. It will be of particular interest to scholars of mysticism and spirituality as well as practical, pastoral, and feminist theology.

Faith, Spirituality, and Praxis

Exploring Dynamics in African Grassroot Theologies and Churches

Edited by Peter White

Faith, Spirituality, and Praxis: Exploring Dynamics in African Grassroot Theologies and Churches investigates topics such as black theology movements, African Initiated Churches, and the ecclesiologies that emerge from the experiences and struggles of African Christians. Questions addressed include how African grassroots theologies and churches reflect and respond to challenges and opportunities, how they engage with contemporary expressions of Christianity, and how they impact the function of the Church in Africa. This is an important volume for those studying interfaith dialogues, missionary work, and community development within African contexts.

Future Faith

Public and Practical Theologies for the Contemporary World

Edited by Graeme Smith , Andrew Todd

Future Faith: Public and Practical Theologies for the Contemporary World explores what is needed for theology to survive and thrive in the next generation given the current challenges it faces. As well as declining student numbers and pressures on university theology departments, churches are increasingly questioning the value of theological study. Focusing on the UK context, it brings together leading scholars in public and practical theology to argue that the future of contemporary theology lies in its ability to contribute to modern life in practical and public ways. This book will be of particular interest to scholars and students working in these spheres.

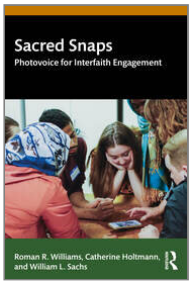
Sacred Snaps

Photovoice for Interfaith Engagement



Roman R. Williams , Catherine Holtmann , William L. Sachs

Sacred Snaps tells the story of a new approach to interfaith engagement. It is an invitation to see and engage religion, diversity, and inclusion through the lens of the mobile phone camera. To be more fully included in the cultural conversation about human flourishing, religion needs to be seen and heard in new ways. The old paradigm of interreligious dialogue is no longer adequate. A new paradigm focused on building relationships at the grass roots of daily life is emerging. This cutting-edge volume brings together Christians and Muslims in the United States and Canada to explore what their beliefs, practices, and values look like in everyday life.

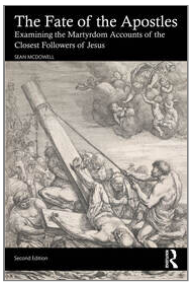
The Fate of the Apostles

Examining the Martyrdom Accounts of the Closest Followers of Jesus



Sean McDowell

This book offers a comprehensive, reasoned, historical analysis of the fate of the twelve disciples of Jesus along with the apostles Paul and James. McDowell assesses the evidence for each apostle's martyrdom as well as determining its significance to the reliability of their testimony. The willingness of the apostles to die for their faith is a popular argument in resurrection studies and McDowell offers insightful scholarly analysis of this argument to break new ground within the spheres of New Testament studies, Church History, and apologetics.

Theology of Work

New Perspectives

Edited by Gregorio Guitián University of Navarra, Spain

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

Theology of Work: New Perspectives emerges from the necessity to continue theological reflection on work in light of the challenges posed by our contemporary world. The contributions offer a global perspective of the meaning of work, drawing from Trinitarian theology, theology of creation, eschatology, theological anthropology, and Christology. The volume mostly develops the theology of work from a Catholic perspective, but Protestant and Orthodox approaches are also explicitly explored. Offering fresh and valuable theological insights on work, this book will be of particular interest to scholars of theology and religious studies.

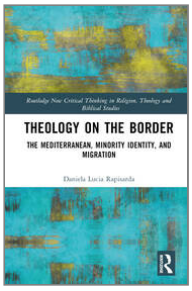
Theology on the Border

The Mediterranean, Minority Identity, and Migration



Daniela Lucia Rapisarda

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

Focusing on the Mediterranean, this book offers a theological hermeneutic from the perspective of the margin/border, and a theological hermeneutic of the border. At the core is a case study of the Italian Protestant minority and its engagement with issues of migration. The book proposes a contextual theological reflection on minority identity that is at its core inclusive. It offers a contribution to theology beyond confessional borders and is open to dialogue with other disciplines, particularly critical border studies.

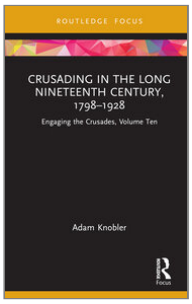
Crusading in the Long Nineteenth Century, 1798–1928

Engaging the Crusades, Volume Ten



Adam Knobler Ruhr Universität Bochum, Germany

Series: Engaging the Crusades

Crusading in the Long Nineteenth Century offers a trans-cultural examination of "crusade medievalism", that is the use of the symbolism and rhetoric of the crusades in the popular and political discourse of the long nineteenth century. By looking at the phenomenon of "crusade medievalism" from a multi-national perspective, this volume is of interest to medievalists, modernists, and those interested in the crusades in general.

Dante's Visions

Crossing Sights on Natural Philosophy, Theory of Vision, and Medicine in the Divine Comedy and Beyond

Edited by Cecilia Panti , Marco Piccolino

Series: Global Perspectives on the History of Natural Philosophy

This book offers a fascinating insight into Dante's engagement with the science of his time, particularly with visual perception and neurological disorders. The connection between soul and body and between human beings and their natural environment were relevant fields of interest in the medieval world. In Dante's Divine Comedy, as well as in his Vita Nuova and Convivio, these connections are enhanced to the fullest, expressing feelings and sensations, pain and ecstasy, physical and spiritual passions under exceptional psychological and environmental stimuli.

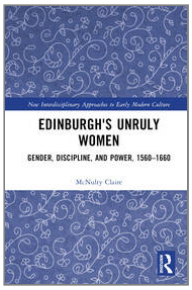
Edinburgh's Unruly Women

Gender, Discipline, and Power, 1560–1660



Claire McNulty

Series: New Interdisciplinary Approaches to Early Modern Culture

Edinburgh's Unruly Women examines experiences of church discipline across parish communities through Edinburgh and its environs. The book argues that experiences of discipline were not universal, varying according to any number of factors such as age, gender, marital status, and social rank. By placing female parishioners at the heart of the book, filled with individual case studies, Edinburgh's Unruly Women appeals to students and scholars of early modern women, religion, and gender more broadly, and to those with more specialist interest in both ecclesiastical discipline and the history of early modern Scotland in the localities.

Envisioning the Empress: The Lives and Images of Japanese Imperial Women, 1868–1952

Alison J. Miller

Series: Lives of Royal Women

Envisioning the Empress illuminates dynamic and powerful empresses who impacted not only women in their own time, but whose influence extended to later generations of royalty, creating a greater role for imperial women and elevating the status of women's roles at a crucial juncture in Japanese history. The central focus of this book is visual monarchy, exploring how the empress' biographies were primarily expressed in visual culture, and how their images worked in support of Japan's imperial policies in the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries.

Franciscans and Scotists on War

John Duns Scotus's Theology, Anti-Judaism, and Holy War in Early Modernity

Edited by Ian Campbell , Todd Rester

Series: Routledge Studies in Renaissance and Early Modern Worlds of Knowledge

Franciscan friars were everywhere in the early modern Catholic world, a world that stretched from the Americas, through Western and Central Europe, to the Middle East and Asia. While the political and imperial theories of Dominicans like Francisco de Vitoria and Bartolome de Las Casas, who took the theology of Thomas Aquinas as their starting point, are well-known, this has not been the case for Franciscan thinking until now. The availability of these primary sources for teaching and research will clarify the connection between religion, politics, and imperialism in the early modern world.

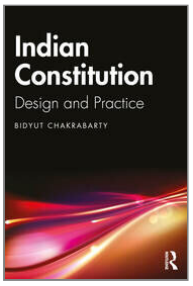
Indian Constitution

Design and Practice



Bidyut Chakrabarty Delhi University, India

The book deals with the making and unfolding of the Constitution of India, framed by the Constituent Assembly between 1946 and 1949. Superseding the conventional legalistic approach, it focuses on the politico-ideological priorities of the members of Assembly who played a critical role in preparing the provisions of the Constitution. Tailored to the academic requirements of a global readership, this volume would be useful to students, researchers and teachers working in the fields of Politics, Law, Public Administration and Public Policy. It would also be an invaluable resource for legal experts and policy makers.

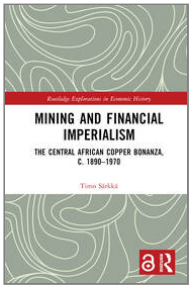
Mining and Financial Imperialism

The Central African Copper Bonanza, c. 1890–1970



Timo Särkkä

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

Mining finance houses were substantial public corporations with access to money markets in the City of London, the world's leading capital market for mining. These institutions became dominant at the inception of colonial rule and, in varying forms, remained so throughout the twentieth century.Drawing on a rich corpus of primary sources, this book analyses the Western colonial origins of the mining industry and its post-colonial legacies in the Central African Copperbelt. The book is a significant contribution to the economic, financial and business history of mining and extractive industries, Central Africa, the City of London and early forms of financial capitalism.

Queen Charlotte

Natalee Garrett

Series: Lives of Royal Women

This biography provides a well-rounded analysis of Queen Charlotte by considering her own perspectives on queenship and her role in Britain. It explores her relationships within the royal family and the court, how she was perceived in the British public sphere and in the press, during her reign as queen consort due to the 'madness' of her husband King George III. Queen Charlotte is essential reading for students of eighteenth-century Britain and its Empire and the history of queenship, women, gender studies and popular culture more broadly.

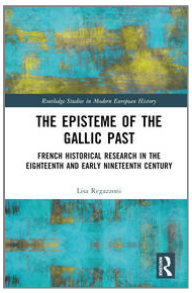
The Episteme of the Gallic Past

French Historical Research in the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Century



Lisa Regazzoni University of Bielefeld, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern European History

This book aims to reconceive the field of knowledge of the "Gallic past" in French discourse of the 18th and early 19th centuries by focusing on the monument as an object capable of underpinning insights into that past, the evolution of the concept, and the epistemic practices used to produce it. The volume offers a pioneering contribution toward new directions in a historical epistemology focused on the historicity of the "species" of evidence of each epoch.

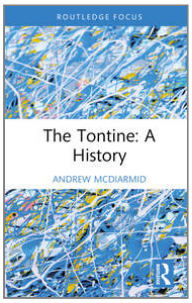
The Tontine: A History



Andrew McDiarmid University College Dublin

Series: Routledge Focus on Financial History

For almost 200 years, beginning in the late seventeenth century, the tontine – essentially, a shared investment fund with benefit of survivorship - was a ubiquitous financial instrument. From meeting rooms to libraries, public baths to theatres, from armies to medicine and on to religion, the scheme was everywhere. This book tells the real history of how it evolved from a state revenue-raising scheme into a popular private investment and infrastructure financing tool, before being displaced by other financial instruments. This concise and engaging book is an ideal introduction to the history of the tontine for all readers interested in financial history.

This book provides a significant contribution to our understanding of the Ottoman Empire's economic history, particularly through its exploration of local entrepreneurship, which brings new perspectives to the economic dynamics of the region. It will be of interest to scholars of Ottoman and Mediterranean History seeking to explore the nuances of economic and social change from within the Ottoman Empire. It will also appeal to a wider audience interested in the history of early entrepreneurial activities, and the complex interplay between cultural and economic dynamics in historical contexts.

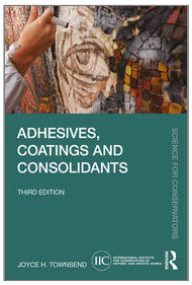
Adhesives, Coatings and Consolidants



Joyce H. Townsend

Series: Science for Conservators

This new edition titled Adhesives, Coatings, and Consolidants discusses the chemical, physical, and optical properties that influence the selection of adhesives, coatings and consolidants used in the conservation of cultural heritage objects. The structured text guides readers through the concepts that underpin the selection of the material to use for a given object, when making a join, applying a coating, or consolidating a fragile surface. Thoroughly updated to reflect the most recent research, the book remains a crucial resource for those beginning a course of study in practical conservation, and as a refresher for emerging and mid-career conservators.

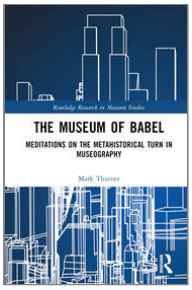
The Museum of Babel

Meditations on the Metahistorical Turn in Museography



Mark Thurner University of London, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Museum Studies

The Museum of Babel: Meditations on the Metahistorical Turn in Museography is an enlightening, transatlantic reading of contemporary exhibits of the museum's own past. Thurner argues that the ghosts of the museum's past evoked in these exhibits maps museography's future. In a word, The Museum of Babel is a meditation on the museum's true vocation. As such, it will be required reading for museologists, museum professionals, historians of art and science, anthropologists, and students in an array of fields, including museum studies, cultural studies, global studies, history, archaeology, anthropology and art history.

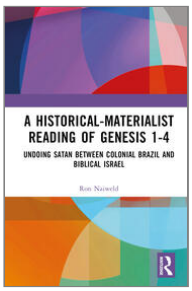
A Historical-Materialist Reading of Genesis 1-4

Undoing Satan between Colonial Brazil and Biblical Israel



Ron Naiweld

This book offers a historical-materialist reading of the opening chapters of the book of Genesis, in an attempt to revive their potential to engage people in truthful discussions about power and pleasure. It offers a method to explore the social and political meanings of its most theological content, by visiting two historical settings in which biblical modes of expression intersected with the demands of an economic-political process: Jerusalem and its province during the Persian period (5th-4th centuries BCE), and Brazil of the early colonial period (16th century CE). Suitable for students and scholars interested in the biblical symbolic universe and Jewish and Christian history.

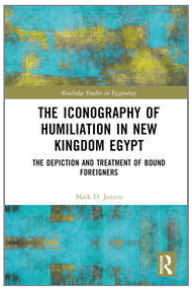
The Iconography of Humiliation in New Kingdom Egypt

The Depiction and Treatment of Bound Foreigners



Mark D. Janzen

Series: Routledge Studies in Egyptology

Depictions of foreign captives in humiliating or torturous poses are ubiquitous in Egyptian iconography and reflect the celebratory nature of royal ideology, in this case by degrading enemies. This volume analyzes the iconography of bound foreigners on New Kingdom monuments and artifacts in order to better understand Egyptian perspectives on foreigners and their treatment of prisoners of war. It provides a fascinating study of the subject suitable for scholars and students of Egyptology and ancient history, particularly that of New Kingdom Egypt, as well as those working on power, warfare, and violence in the ancient world more broadly.

Cardboard Ghosts

Using Physical Games to Model and Critique Systems

Amabel Holland

Series: CRC Press Guides to Tabletop Game Design

In this book, board game designer Amabel Holland explores both the capabilities and limitations of overtly political board games to model systems and make arguments. Two major approaches are considered and contrasted: one, built around immersion and identification, creates empathy. The other, applying the Verfremdungseffekt to distance the player from the game, creating space for reflection. Uncomfortable questions of player roles and complicity when modelling oppressive systems are examined.

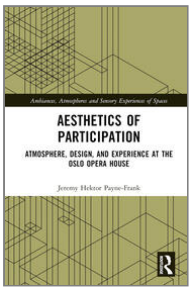
Aesthetics of Participation

Atmosphere, Design, and Experience at the Oslo Opera House



Jeremy Hektor Payne-Frank

Series: Ambiances, Atmospheres and Sensory Experiences of Spaces

This book explores the way people participate with the Oslo Opera house, Norway. As an iconic and culture-led building, these participations reveal the tensions between staged space and individual experience. Movement, materiality, light, and art are viewed through an atmospheric lens to demonstrate how architecture can shape people's engagement with, and understanding of, urban space. This book contributes to a growing literature on atmosphere in relation to our experience of the built environment.

Apocalypse in British Art and Visual Culture in the Early Twentieth Century

Some Revelation

Thomas Bromwell

Series: Routledge Research in Art History

This book is the first substantial study of the presence and relationship with the concepts of apocalypse, eschatology, and millennium in modern British art from 1914 to 1945, addressing how and why practitioners in both religious and secular spheres turned to the subjects. It will benefit scholars of early twentieth-century British art, demonstrating the intersection of art and religion in the modern era, and critically qualifies the standard secular canon and narrative of modern British art, and the general neglect of religion in existing art-historical literature.

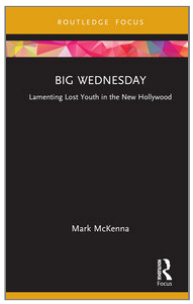
Big Wednesday

Lamenting Lost Youth in the New Hollywood



Mark McKenna Bournemouth University, UK

Series: Cinema and Youth Cultures

This book provides an examination of Big Wednesday as an unconventional film that employs a mythic sensibility in its representation of the loss of youth and young manhood. Over six chapters, the book considers questions of authorship, commerce, genre, stardom, and myth, and explores how these ideas intersect with the film's status as a significant youth movie and collectively how these ideas have contributed to its recent critical rehabilitation. In doing so, the book provides a reassessment of an overlooked entry in the New Hollywood canon and will appeal to students and scholars in film studies, popular culture studies, youth studies, sociology and media studies.

Documenting Industry

Photography, Aesthetics and Labor in India

Edited by Ranu Roychoudhuri Ahmedabad University, Ahmedabad, Gujarat, India, Rebecca M. Brown Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, USA

Series: Visual and Media Histories

Whether a smoky portrait of a coal mine or a sweeping shot of workers building an immense dam, photographs of established and emerging industries fundamentally shaped the visual culture and politics of South Asia in the decades after independence. This volume engages with the image of the labouring body against monumental machines, dams, and infrastructure and the ways in which photography engages with strands of modernist aesthetics to support new modes of seeing the changing industrial landscape and the human body.

Series: Routledge Research in Journalism

Building on the momentum of the recent "historical turn" in digital media and Internet studies, this volume explores how digital journalism has developed from a historical perspective. With contributions from established and emerging scholars from Europe, Asia, South and North America, the book investigates not only how established journalistic systems transformed in the early days of digital, but how the structural, technological and cultural changes induced by digitization have reconfigured the trajectory of journalism. As such, it will interest scholars and students of digital journalism, journalism history, digital media, Internet studies, and technology studies.

The Routledge Handbook of Craft and Sustainability in India

Edited by Rebecca Reubens Center for Environmental Planning and Technology, Ahmedabad & Rhizome, Ahmedabad, India, Tanishka Kachru Ahmedabad, India

Traditional crafts have been an essential part of Indian history, culture and life. This handbook looks at craft as both a cultural artefact that reflects people's worldviews, indigenous practices and traditions, as well as a source of income generation and development that is inclusive. India's rapid development has meant a break-down of traditional economies, and including craft production-to-consumption systems.

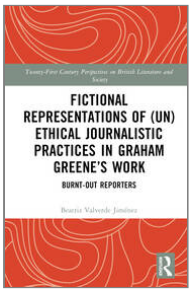
Fictional Representations of (Un)ethical Journalistic Practices in Graham Greene's Work

Burnt-Out Reporters



Beatriz Valverde Jiménez

Series: Twenty-First Century Perspectives on British Literature and Society

This book addresses a largely neglected topic in the academic discussion of Greene's work: the portrayal of journalism performance in his fiction. Greene's representation of (un)ethical journalistic practices informs our understanding of the phenomenon of information distortion and encourages a critical analysis of our trustworthy judgement as information consumers regarding media performance.

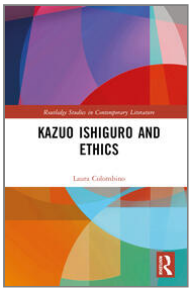
Kazuo Ishiguro and Ethics



Laura Colombino

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Kazuo Ishiguro and Ethics addresses the philosophical issues that lie at the heart of Ishiguro's fiction, shedding light on the moral condition of his characters – their sense of responsibility and pride in service, their attempts at self-determination, the value they assign to loyalty, love and friendship. Ethics in Ishiguro's work is structured around the tension between the limits of the characters' agency and their striving towards the good. Ishiguro's novels are shown to tackle fundamental questions posed by ancient Greek philosophers, especially Plato, and modern Western ones, from Adam Smith through Jean-Paul Sartre to Martha Nussbaum

Literary Materialisations and Interferential Reading

Making Matter Matter on Page, Stage and Screen

Edited by Ingrid Hotz-Davies , Martin Middeke , Christoph Reinfandt

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

This book traces literature's long history of repurposing representational language use for performative, 'material' effects. It brings this tradition into dialogue with the recent material turn in literary and cultural theory and proposes a methodology of Interferential Reading that is then brought to bear on examples ranging from Shakespeare to contemporary media art.

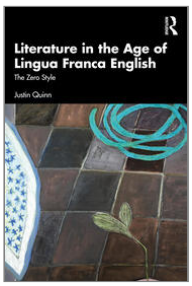
Literature in the Age of Lingua Franca English

The Zero Style



Justin Quinn

The English language is now a lingua franca spoken by about two billion people. This insightful study considers how a 'bridge language' affects world literature by analysing what it is, how it works, what are its themes, what it means for canons, and how it is mediated. Literature in the Age of Lingua Franca English: The Zero Style is an innovative and illuminating resource for students and scholars of global anglophone literature, comparative literature, and cultural studies.

Mapping World Anglophone Studies

English in a World of Strangers

Edited by Pavan Kumar Malreddy , Frank Schulze-Engler

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

This book explores core issues in the emerging field of World Anglophone Studies. It shows that traditional frameworks based on the colonial and imperial legacies of English need to be revised and extended to understand the complex adaptations, iterations, and incarnations of English in the contemporary world. Mapping linguistic transgressions and the transmigration of cultural tropes between Englishes, vernaculars, and beyond with a rich set of case studies, this volume will be essential reading for courses such as world literatures in English, postcolonial studies, anglophone studies, literature and culture, Indian Ocean worlds, Global Englishes, and Global South studies.

Myths of the Golden Age in European Culture

Edited by Stephen G. Nichols , Claudia Olk

Series: Literary Criticism and Cultural Theory

This volume explores the configuration presented by Hesiod and the history of its reception and transformation in European literature and culture. The chapters study how texts written in specific historical moments of European history reshape elements of the myth to explore contemporary issues of concern. The book addresses these issues of cultural hybridization, and, from a transhistorical perspective, provides new insights into the dynamics of epochal shifts. It also looks at similar configurations in non-Western civilizations (China), which complements the spectrum of contributions that covers periods from classical antiquity to the Age of Goethe.

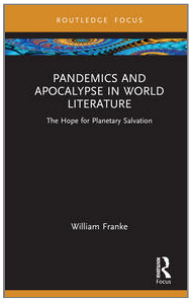
Pandemics and Apocalypse in World Literature

The Hope for Planetary Salvation



William Franke

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

Pandemics force us to confront an absoluteness of the real that transcends human manipulation and management. While Covid-19 focused attention on the hope of finding a techn(olog)ical solution, this book asks: Is there a different kind of hope in what is not within our own means and methods, a hope that breaks us open beyond ourselves into relation with something other and absolute, something perhaps divine or real beyond our control and comprehension?

Refractive Realisms

Literature, Culture and the South African Township

Megan Jones

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

By positioning the "township" as the lens to examine the South African canon, the book undertakes a reorientation towards a black creative archive that surfaces forms of literary and cultural expression that have been overlooked. This lens is focalized through discussions that engage a variety of textual and cultural forms, concentrating on how they reshape networks of meaning that have disregarded black South Africans. An incisive read, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of literary studies, identity politics, cultural studies, ethnicity and race, sociology, and African Studies.

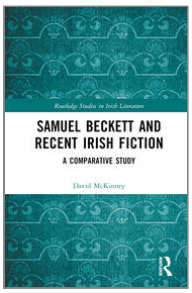
Samuel Beckett and Recent Irish Fiction

A Comparative Study



David McKinney

Series: Routledge Studies in Irish Literature

This volume considers Samuel Beckett's fiction and drama as major aesthetic and thematic influences on the work of Irish authors Eimear McBride, Keith Ridgway, Emma Donoghue, and Kevin Barry in the post-crash period of 2009-2015. Through cross-comparisons between the aesthetics and form of Beckett's Trilogy and those of a range of post-crash Irish novels, this book establishes Beckett's continuing influence on Irish fiction.

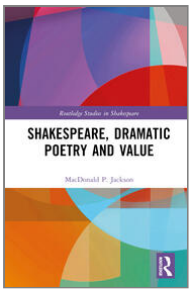
Shakespeare, Dramatic Poetry and Value



MacDonald P. Jackson

Series: Routledge Studies in Shakespeare

This book redirects attention to a truth largely ignored by recent criticism—that Shakespeare's excellence as a playwright is inextricable from his excellence as a poet. It explores the diverse means by which Shakespeare's poetry enriches his drama, illustrating how particular words in a particular order render his dialogue distinctive and create supreme literary and dramatic value. By examining many passages, long and short and from a variety of Shakespeare's plays—comedies, histories, tragedies, late plays—the author aids understanding of the poetic effects that make Shakespeare preeminent.

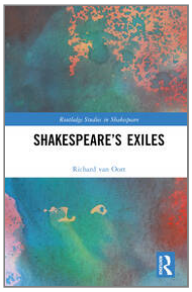
Shakespeare's Exiles



Richard van Oort

Series: Routledge Studies in Shakespeare

Why are human societies hierarchical? How did centralized political authority originate? Anthropologists tell us that foraging societies are egalitarian compared to their agrarian and industrial successors. So what prompted our foraging ancestors to submit to the authority of big men, chiefs, and kings? And how did the big man once installed in the center maintain his authority in the face of the resentment mobilized against him? Shakespeare's Exiles addresses these fundamental ethical, political, and anthropological questions by looking at two of Shakespeare's most eccentric big men.

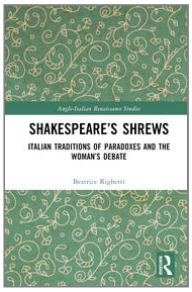
Shakespeare's Shrews

Italian Traditions of Paradoxes and the Woman's Debate



Beatrice Righetti

Series: Anglo-Italian Renaissance Studies

Shakespeare's Shrews investigates the echoes of two early modern discourses—paradoxical writing and the woman's question or querelle des femmes—in the representation of the "Shakespearean shrew" in The Taming of the Shrew, Much Ado About Nothing, and Othello. The interplay of these two traditions is complicated by their presence in the writing of early modern male and female authors. The focus on Shakespeare's appropriation of these traditions highlights two key findings: the thematic fragmentation of the woman's question and the evolving role of paradoxes, from figures of speech to "figures of thought", according to the gender of the speaker.

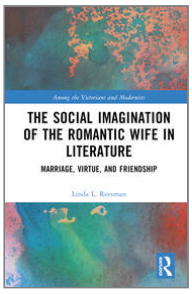
The Social Imagination of the Romantic Wife in Literature

Marriage, Virtue, and Friendship



Linda L. Reesman

Series: Among the Victorians and Modernists

The emergence of social change in the daily lives of English society appeared most noticeably through the Romantic-era response of human emotions to a period of reason that has defined the era of Enlightenment, scientifically and philosophically. The Social Imagination of the Romantic Wife provides biographical information as it relates to the literary works of four selected individuals on their social and professional roles as writers. This book is essential reading for those interested in late eighteenth and early nineteenth-century British literary lives.

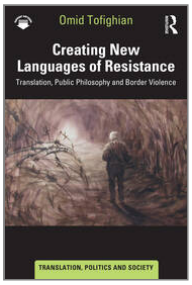
Creating New Languages of Resistance

Translation, Public Philosophy and Border Violence



Omid Tofighian

Series: Translation, Politics and Society

Omid Tofighian has been engaged in collaborative philosophical, artistic and political work with displaced, exiled and incarcerated peoples for twenty-five years. Creating New Languages of Resistance is an intellectual and personal reflection on creative resistance; it addresses critical issues pertaining to epistemic injustice, kyriarchy and border violence. Incorporating scholarship, different literary genres, exclusive interviews, media articles and notes on translation, this rigorous and accessible study examines the 'shared philosophical activity' Tofighian participates in with different collaborators.

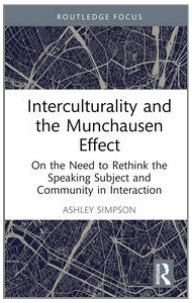
Interculturality and the Munchausen Effect

On the Need to Rethink the Speaking Subject and Community in Interaction



Ashley Simpson University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Studies in Language and Intercultural Communication

This book offers a conceptual intervention for Language and Intercultural Communication studies by advocating for a critical interdiscursive approach to research on interculturality. The volume addresses two interrelated theses in research on interculturality; namely, that the speaking subject in interaction reproduces the egocentrism and phonocentrism of the Munchausen Effect. This book will be of interest to scholars in intercultural communication, language education, identity theory, and philosophy of education.

Series: The IATIS Yearbook

Multilingual crisis communication is the first book to explore the lived experiences of linguistic minorities in crisis-affected settings in the Global South, particularly during the Covid-19 pandemic. China has been selected as a case of inquiry for multilingual crisis communication because of its high level of linguistic diversity. Taking up critical sociopolitical approaches, this book conceptualizes multilingual crisis communication from three dimensions: identifying communication barriers, engaging communication repertoires, and empowering communication justice.

The Translation of Experience

Cultural Artefacts in Experiential Translation

Edited by Madeleine Campbell University of Edinburgh, United Kingdom, Ricarda Vidal King's College London, United Kingdom

Series: Creative, Social and Transnational Perspectives on Translation

Experience is a multilayered, cumulative affair with transformation at its core. Its study, a necessary first step for its translation, requires an exploration of embodiment, the senses, and cultural and social environments. This book and its companion volume The Experience of Translation: Materiality and Play in Experiential Translation includes an international range of contributions from graduate students and early career researchers (ECRs) to tenured academics in translation studies, performance arts, fine arts, media and cultural studies, comparative studies, as well as educators, artists and curators.

Translating Indigenous Knowledges

Towards a Sensuous Translation

Mª Carmen África Vidal Claramonte

In this book, Vidal presents a new way of translating indigenous epistemologies. For centuries, the Western world has ordained what knowledge is, what it should be and has also been responsible for transmitting that knowledge. This 'universal' knowledge has traveled to the four corners of the globe. The examples given in this book show that translation is not only a process involving Western and non-Western languages. Knowledge is transmitted through objects, songs, sensations, and emotions as well as through words. This is timely, topical and transdisciplinary reading, of interest to advanced students and researchers in translation studies, anthropology and beyond.

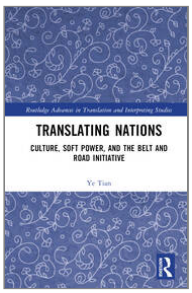
Translating Nations

Culture, Soft Power, and the Belt and Road Initiative



Ye Tian

Series: Routledge Advances in Translation and Interpreting Studies

This book critically examines the ways in which translation studies can offer a conceptual framework for understanding and researching international affairs, drawing on examples from China's Belt and Road Initiative. Tian explores the case study of the Belt and Road Initiative to show how nation branding and soft power can be understood through a translational lens if we rethink of translation as the means by which cultures communicate with and build relationships with each other while retaining their distinct dimensions. This book will be of interest to scholars in translation studies, cultural studies, international relations, and Asian studies.

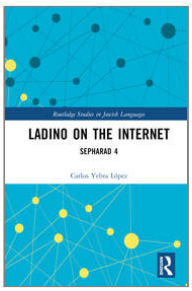
Ladino on the Internet

Sepharad 4



Carlos Yebra López University College London, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Jewish Languages

Ladino on the Internet constitutes the first critical and systematic account written in English on the online revitalisation of Ladino. This book conclusively demonstrates that nowadays the global Ladino-speaking community connects first and foremost online, which calls for a full, comprehensive examination of the web-based development of the Sephardic diaspora (including that of Ladino) as a qualitatively different stage, termed 'Sepharad 4' in this monograph. This monograph will appeal to scholars and postgraduate students seeking to familiarise themselves with the use of technological tools to further the revitalisation of endangered languages such as Ladino.

Shakespeare's First Folio Cue Scripts - Comedies

A New Window on Shakespeare

Patrick Tucker

Opening up a new window to see Shakespeare's words in a different light and gathering his intentions in a simple, clear way, this book presents the Cue Scripts from the Comedies in Shakespeare's First Folio. The book invites readers to approach Shakespeare's texts the way his actors would have – not studying the complete text and drawing conclusions from it, but working from a Cue Script, where all the lines and cues for a particular character are written. A practical and unique resource for students, teachers, performers, and directors, this book helps demystify Shakespeare's texts, provides new approaches to scene studies, and sheds new light on Shakespeare's most popular works.

The Routledge Introduction to Ballet, its Culture and Issues

Jennifer Fisher

As an introduction to ballet's history, culture, and meanings, this book draws on the latest ballet scholarship to describe the trajectory of a dance form that has risen to global ubiquity and benefited from many diverse influences along the way. Organized around themes, this book explains how the manners, style, and hierarchies of ballet became such a strong part of its DNA. This is the definitive introduction for anyone drawn to ballet or seeking to understand it, and those looking to develop a thorough understanding of how ballet developed, the cultures that formed it, and what it can mean for today's audiences, artists, and scholars.

Insubordinate Costume

Inspiring Performance

Susan Marshall

This book presents a comprehensive study of historical and contemporary examples of scenographic costume – the type of costume that creates an almost complete stage environment by itself, simultaneously acting as costume, set and performance. It provides readers with an overview of the costumes, designers, context and theory that have contributed to the emerging field of 'costume as performance'. It will appeal to professional costume designers, performance artists, dancers, directors, choreographers, fashion designers and theorists, teachers and students of these subjects. With its interdisciplinary focus, this book is relevant to a range of art, design and performance courses.

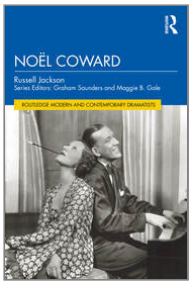
Noël Coward



Russell Jackson

Series: Routledge Modern and Contemporary Dramatists

Noël Coward combines a fresh appraisal of major plays by one of the twentieth century's most popular dramatists, with an account of critical and theatrical responses to his life and work. It explores the question of what Coward's work can speak to for today's modern audiences, assessing his standing in terms of how conditions have changed in the theatre and society more broadly since they were written. Noël Coward provides undergraduate students on Theatre Studies degrees and Modern Drama courses an essential and accessible guide to the playwright's work and illustrates the influence of his drama on what theatre can tell us about our society.

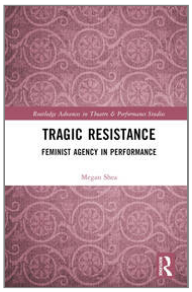
Tragic Resistance

Feminist Agency in Performance



Megan Shea

Series: Routledge Advances in Theatre & Performance Studies

This book analyzes playwrights, directors, and performers who shatter gender norms to gain agency within the patriarchal institutions restricting them. It examines the nature of these performances to interrogate how theatrical and performative resistance works and why performance might be a vehicle for altering patriarchal structures that withhold agency from women, trans, and genderqueer+ people.

Bee Gees, Process and Latent Elements in Music Production

Pat O'Grady

Series: Ashgate Popular and Folk Music Series

This book examines the creative process of the Bee Gees and the latent elements that shaped their sound. This book takes a unique approach to the musicology of music production. It analyses processual accounts and demo recordings to uncover what are defined as the latent elements of music production, such as instruments, lyrics, meanings, space, sounds, and recording techniques that are crucial in shaping the completed recordings but are absent from what we hear. It is a must-read book for music production academics and students, as well as anyone interested in the Bee Gees' creative process.

Taylor Swift

The Star, The Songs, The Fans

Edited by Christa Bentley , Kate Galloway , Paula Harper

Taylor Swift: The Star, The Songs, The Fans includes new work from interdisciplinary scholars who focus on Swift's star persona; the lyrics, themes and meanings of Swift's songs; and the ways that fans interact with Swift's work and with each other. Together, the essays evaluate Swift's career with attention to how her work has resonated in a changing global society, how she has navigated shifts in the music industry, and how she has negotiated changes in her musical transition from country to pop along the lines of her age, gender, and class identity.

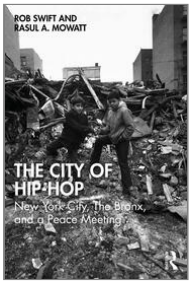
The City of Hip-Hop

New York City, The Bronx, and a Peace Meeting



Rob Swift , Rasul A. Mowatt

This book positions a unique conceptualization of the history of Hip-Hop, arguing that it was the political forces of the 1970s combined with economic forces of free market capitalism and privatization of public services, neoliberalism, and the deindustrialization of major cities, that led the cultural creation of the "Boogie Down" Bronx. Once those of us as fans of the culture zoom out to see such a bigger picture, a needed criticism and retelling of the culture and art of Hip-Hop emerges. This book is essential for students, scholars, and general readers interested in urban planning, urban geography, place-making, American Studies, Black Studies, and Latin American Studies.

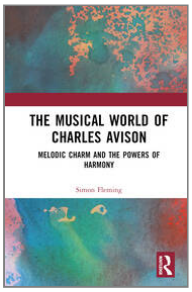
The Musical World of Charles Avison

Melodic Charm and the Powers of Harmony



Simon D.I. Fleming

This book explores the works and influence of the eighteenth-century British composer Charles Avison. It provides the first sustained examination of Avison's musical works and compositional techniques, and traces how his music not only drew on influences from European composers but reworked them and in turn influenced others. Reassessing Avison's contribution to British music history, this study makes the case for understanding him as an important figure in the development and spread of musical styles across eighteenth-century England.

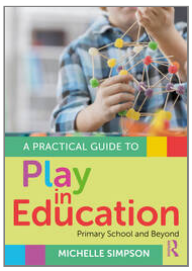
A Practical Guide to Play in Education

Primary School and Beyond



Michelle Simpson

A Practical Guide to Play in Education encourages teachers to reflect on their practice and consider how a play-based approach may enhance their teaching. It provides realistic, accessible ideas and resources to incorporate into practice while giving evidence to back up this approach. This unique and practical book highlights the importance of play in helping children develop skills to support their future and demonstrates how this approach can be seamlessly integrated into teaching styles across primary and early secondary.

Bringing Talk to Life: Thinking Through Dialogue in The Classroom

Paul Gurton , Meghan Tipping

This book is firmly grounded in classroom experience and research evidence and explores how a dialogic approach to teaching can improve students' confidence and agency and restore teachers' professional judgement. It outlines the social and linguistic barriers some students find in accessing knowledge through the school curriculum and identifies ways that teachers can help them become more confident and articulate by modelling different behavioural norms and introducing concept vocabulary in an accessible way. Designed to stimulate thinking and debate, and restore teachers' confidence in their own professional judgement, this book is intended for those training to be teachers.

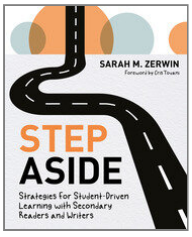
Step Aside

Strategies for Student-Driven Learning with Secondary Readers and Writers



Sarah M. Zerwin

All students can drive their own learning when we show them how. Humanized, equitable classrooms start with a commitment to building student agency. Step Aside offers clear, streamlined guidance for launching secondary students into high-level work that hinges on their ideas and insights. Especially when we notice our students are struggling, Step Aside reminds us we need to hold ourselves accountable for keeping out of the way of the most important work. Our students must read and write and think and discuss—on their own—to navigate the complexity of their lives.

The Long Game: How to Sustain a Successful Career in Teaching

Sustaining a Successful Career in Teaching

Peter Foster

Why do some teachers enjoy teaching whilst others find it an unrelenting slog? Using research from wide-ranging fields and experience from real teachers, The Long Game examines how teachers can sustain and enjoy successful careers in teaching. Divided into five parts, the book explores the persistent challenges of being a teacher by breaking them down into problems and solutions. To sustain a successful and enjoyable career in teaching, we need to embed strategies and approaches that will minimise the challenges and maximise our enjoyment. This book will help teachers to hold onto the joy in teaching by facing the challenges head on.

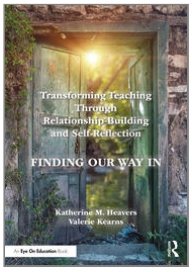
Transforming Teaching Through Relationship-Building and Self-Reflection

Finding Our Way In



Katherine M. Heavers , Valerie Kearns

Creating connections with and among students is at the heart of good teaching. In order to do this, we must identify and address the conscious and unconscious obstacles in the way. This book covers topics such as fostering trust, wielding language with intention, nurturing emotional safety, offering meaningful feedback, unearthing and confronting bias, and promoting student voice. The authors encourage readers to do their own inner work to embrace vulnerability, which can help them to grow personally and better nurture student growth. You'll feel supported on your journey as you strive to create meaningful connections that lead to lasting learning and empowered communities.

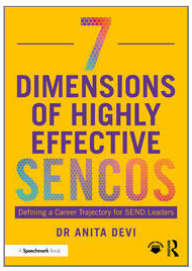
7 Dimensions of Highly Effective SENCOs

Defining a Career Trajectory for SEND Leaders



Anita Devi

This accessible and empowering book helps SENCOs and their line managers to define what leadership of SEND means in practice and how SENCOs can continue to grow and develop in their role. The book is divided into two parts, first examining the SENCO role and career trajectory before focusing on 7 'habits' needed to maximise effectiveness. With advice on leveraging agency and managing power to drive positive change, it is essential reading for both experienced and trainee SENCOs looking to build a successful career, as well as a useful tool for Head Teachers, MAT leaders and leaders with little experience in SEND who are line managing SENCOs.

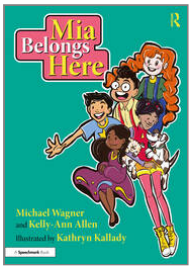
Mia Belongs Here: A Story About Family, Home and a Sense of Belonging



Michael Wagner , Kelly-Ann Allen Monash University, Australia

Series: Building Belonging and Wellbeing

Mia Belongs Here is a beautifully illustrated story book introducing five characters. Each character shows how they know they belong through their different senses, be it hearing dogs charging down the hallway, smelling a sister's incense candles or tasting fresh tomatoes from the garden. Children are encouraged to mindfully think of the sounds, smells, tastes, sights and sensations that make them feel like they belong, sharing the message that belonging is largely experiential and special to each person. By focusing on their senses during the fun, interactive moments, this book promotes a greater sense of belonging in children.

School is Where We All Belong: A Story About Building a Sense of Belonging Outside of Home

Kelly-Ann Allen Monash University, Australia, Michael Wagner , Kathryn Kallady

Series: Building Belonging and Wellbeing

School is Where We All Belong is an illustrated story book that helps to develop a sense of belonging in children, particularly at school. It narrates the different ways by which five characters identify their feelings of belonging to school through the five senses (hearing, touch, smell, taste and sight). Children are encouraged to share their own experiences at the end of each character's story which allow them to develop a better sense of school belonging, sharing the message that belonging is largely experiential and special to each person. By focusing on their senses during the fun, interactive moments, this book promotes a greater sense of belonging in children.

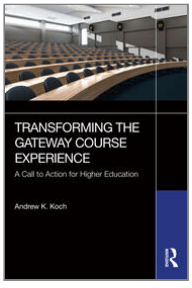
Transforming the Gateway Course Experience

A Call to Action for Higher Education



Andrew K. Koch

This book offers an evidence-based model for improving teaching, learning, and student success within the foundational college classroom. Using data and examples from his work with various colleges and universities, Andrew K. Koch highlights the systemic issues that perpetuate inequality in higher education. He examines how and why race and class divisions are reinforced through current practice and the impact that these courses have on students' sense of belonging. This accessible book is for any college instructor who wants to transform gateway courses into true opportunities for student success, ultimately advancing higher education's broader equity and social justice goals.

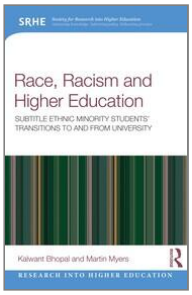
Race, Racism and Higher Education

Ethnic Minority Students' Transitions To and From University



Kalwant Bhopal University of Birmingham, UK, Martin Myers

Series: Research into Higher Education

Drawing upon current debates on inequalities in higher education particularly those of race and class, and based on a Bourdieusian discussion of the relational nature of different capitals and competition for such capitals, this must-read text explores how BME (Black and Minority Ethnic) students navigate university and the relational competition for capitals and status. Identifying that racism is not a new phenomenon in UK higher education but that it has adapted to changing socio-economic conditions, this is a must-read book for anyone working in higher education or with an interest in the experiences of BME students through the higher education system.

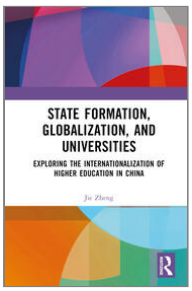
State Formation, Globalization, and Universities

Exploring the Internationalization of Higher Education in China



Jie Zheng

This book examines the policies and realities of internationalization of higher education (IHE) in China. Using a constructivist-interpretive qualitative approach, the author examines China's state policy on IHE between 1949 and 2019 and the reality of IHE at three universities in China. From a "policy into practice" perspective, the book highlights the tensions, challenges, and problems between the macro state policy narratives and the institutional reality. It will appeal to scholars of higher education, sociology of education, and comparative and international education.

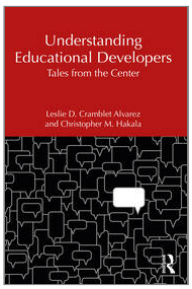
Understanding Educational Developers

Tales from the Center



Leslie D. Cramblet Alvarez , Christopher M. Hakala

Much has been written about centers for teaching and learning at the university level, but little about the professionals who work within them. This book gives educational developers the space to tell their stories and capture what it means to be in the profession. Readers will come away with an understanding of the nuances, challenges, and joys of working with both students and faculty to create outstanding learning environments. Understanding Educational Developers is a must-read for both new and experienced educational developers, as well as university administrators who are positioned to advocate for center staff.

Exploring Research Impact in Academia and Why it Matters

Perspectives on the Public Good and the Role of Research in Society

Andy Phippen Bournemouth University, UK, Louise Rutt University of Plymouth, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Higher Education

Posing fundamental questions around the worth of knowledge creation and the social value of in-depth research, this volume offers a novel approach by exploring why impact is important in academic research, rather than explaining how it should be conducted. The book will be of interest to academics and postgraduate students involved with research methods, research policy, and higher education more broadly. Despite the predominantly UK-based context of the research, the volume will have resonance in countries where knowledge economy concepts have impacted on higher education policy and practice.

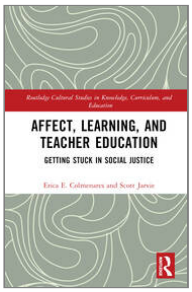
Affect, Learning, and Teacher Education

Getting Stuck in Social Justice



Erica E. Colmenares San José State University, USA, Scott Jarvie

Series: Routledge Cultural Studies in Knowledge, Curriculum, and Education

This book inquires into student teachers' moments of felt crisis as they occur within the context of a university-based social justice teacher education program. The book complicates the notion that these "stuck moments" are effects of a gap between theory and practice. Instead, the book reimagines SJTE in ways that are responsive to stuckness, disruptive of dominant discourses, and critical of the sometimes counterproductive affective workings of learning. This insightful text will appeal to scholars, researchers, and students interested in curriculum studies, affective approaches to education and social justice teacher education.

Critical Perspectives on Teaching in the Multilingual University

Edited by Ibrar Bhatt , Khawla Badwan Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, Mbulungeni Madiba

This book critically and reflectively engages with the 'Language Problem' in the contemporary multilingual university. It paints a complex picture of the lived multilingual realities of teachers and students in universities across geographies such as Pakistan, Timor-Leste, South Korea, Bangladesh, Somaliland, Afghanistan, Fiji, Colombia, and the UK (including Northern Ireland) and focuses on three overall analytic themes: language and colonial epistemologies, language policies and practices, and language and research. This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Teaching in Higher Education.

Gender Un/Bound

Traversing Educational Possibilities

Edited by Susanne Gannon Western Sydney University, Australia, Ampersand Pasley University of Auckland, New Zealand, Jayne Osgood Middlesex University, UK

This collection is focused on the possibilities for unbinding people from gendered expectations in and around educational spaces, and accounts for the ways gender is reconstituted in and through education. Alongside more familiar framings, the book incorporates decolonial and Indigenous contestations, theoretical innovations and methodological experiments that pry open the ways gender binds and limits individuals. Written to enrich reading for preservice teacher education students and to challenge researchers, postgraduate and doctoral candidates, this book provides essential new perspectives on gender, education, and the various ways in which they are un/bound together and apart.

Returning Learning

A Diffractive, Posthuman Exploration of Nature Perceptions and Pedagogies with Early School Years' Teachers

Simone M. Blom

Series: Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Research

Returning Learning explores early school years teachers' perceptions of nature and how this informs their pedagogy through a posthuman theoretical framework. The theoretical framework is purposefully designed to disrupt dichotomies and reject abuse to marginalised others. In doing so, this book offers a reconceptualisation of learning in environmental education, and education more broadly. Through a deep exploration into the intricacies of everyday classroom practices and happenings, this book privileges the voices of the teachers and the nonhuman, thus the response-ability of teachers to their students and the planet, is re-turned.

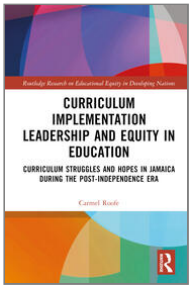
Curriculum Implementation Leadership and Equity in Education

Curriculum Struggles and Hopes in Jamaica During the Post-Independence Era



Carmel Roofe

Series: Routledge Research on Educational Equity in Developing Nations

Curriculum Implementation Leadership and Equity in Education takes a critical historical perspective on how curriculum is understood, tracing major national curriculum implementation efforts within primary and secondary schools in Jamaica from the 1970s to 2000s. It offers a unique analysis and synthesis of curriculum implementation and showcases how curriculum implementation leadership is linked to the achievement of equity in education. A valuable resource for students, educators, and policymakers, this fascinating historical account provides a new framework and key considerations for effective curriculum implementation leadership aiming at reducing educational inequality.

Teaching and Time Poverty

Understanding Workload and Work Intensification in Schools

Edited by Greg Thompson Queensland University of Technology, Australia, Anna Hogan Queensland University of Technology, Australia

As teacher shortages reach a global crisis point, this book explores how time poverty has become a critical factor in the working lives of teachers and school leaders. Arguing that we need to move away from framing the problem of teachers' work as simply workload, this book suggests that understanding time poverty is the first step in moving toward more manageable working lives. This book is essential reading for those interested in understanding how current education policy both produces time poverty and could better identify and respond to the complexities of teachers' work.

Up Your Teaching Game

Creating Story-Based Games to Engage K-12 Students

Janna Jackson Kellinger

Up Your Teaching Game offers K-12 teachers an intuitive and refreshingly fun pathway for creating immersive, story-based games that encourage students to experience the curriculum through play. In five actionable steps, this book prepares educators to design curricular games that teach instead of test, that are derived from content rather than divergent from it, and that motivate students to take ownership over their learning. Novice and veteran teachers alike as well as curriculum designers and school technologists will find a wealth of strategies and lessons learned, tips for avoiding pitfalls and time constraints, examples of quests and storyline advancement, and much more.

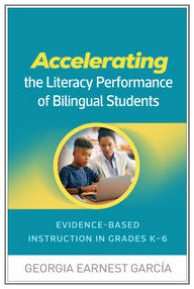
Accelerating the Literacy Performance of Bilingual Students

Evidence-Based Instruction in Grades K-6



Georgia Earnest García University of Illinois at Urbana–Champaign, United States

This research-based, highly practical volume presents ways teachers and schools can accelerate literacy achievement with bilingual students in both English and their home languages. The book shares innovative instructional strategies for students with different language backgrounds in bilingual/ESL classrooms, dual-language classrooms, or all-English classrooms. It explains key concepts, such as sheltered instruction and translanguaging, and discusses how the science of reading should be adapted for bilingual students. Teachers learn how to conduct unbiased assessments and build core domains of L1 and L2 literacy. The book includes helpful vignettes and downloadable reproducible forms.

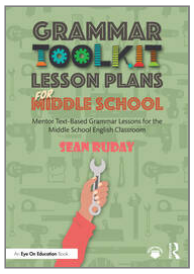
Grammar Toolkit Lesson Plans for Middle School

Mentor Text-Based Grammar Lessons for the Middle School English Classroom



Sean Ruday Longwood University, USA

This book contains detailed grammar lesson plans for teachers in grades six, seven, and eight. The lesson plans in this book incorporate the research-based best practices of grammar instruction. They present grammatical concepts in the context of effective writing through the use of mentor texts. These mentor text examples, which students read from a writer's perspective, deepen students' metacognition of the importance of these concepts and help them see the elements of grammar as tools for strong writing that authors use strategically to make their work as strong as possible.

2ND EDITION

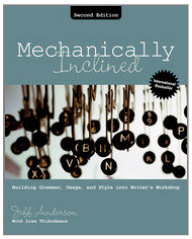
Mechanically Inclined

Building Grammar, Usage, and Style into Writer's Workshop



Jeff Anderson , Lisa Thibodeaux

Some teachers love grammar and some hate it, but nearly all struggle to find ways of making the mechanics of English meaningful to kids. As a middle school teacher, Jeff Anderson discovered that his students were not grasping basic grammar and mechanics, and that it was preventing them from reaching their potential as writers. He began researching and testing the ideas of grammar experts, finding successful ways of integrating grammar instruction into writer's workshop. This long awaited 2nd edition continues to merge the best of writer's workshop elements with relevant theory about how and why skills should be taught.

James Britton on Education

An Introductory Reader

Edited by Myra Barrs *DECEASED , Tony Burgess , John Richmond , Jenifer Smith University of East Anglia, UK., John Yandell

James Britton's work addresses central educational questions that are as relevant today as they were half a century ago. Britton was the architect of a theory of language and learning which has influenced the thinking and practice of generations of teachers across the anglophone world. This Reader helps teachers and students explore his theories of the relationships between language and thought, between thinking and feeling, the links between unconscious and conscious ways of knowing, and the symbolising nature of language. All those involved in teacher education and training, including researchers and scholars, will find this a rich and insightful text.

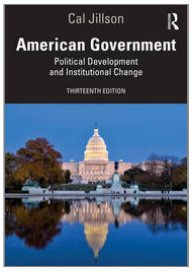
13TH EDITION

American Government

Political Development and Institutional Change



Cal Jillson

How politics in America works today, how it got that way, and how it's likely to change through reform—these are the themes that pervade every chapter of Cal Jillson's highly lauded American Government: Political Development and Institutional Change. Jillson uses political development and the dynamics of change as a thematic tool to help students understand how politics works now—and how institutions, participation, and policies have evolved over time to produce the contemporary political environment. In addition, Jillson helps students think critically about how American democracy might evolve further, focusing in every chapter on reform and further change.

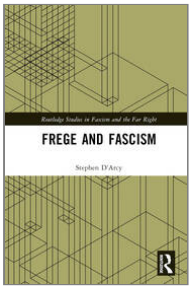
Frege and Fascism



Stephen D'Arcy Huron University College, Canada

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book is the first to examine in minutiae the politics of Gottlob Frege (1848-1925), and his connections with various traditions of far right and fascist thought. Frege was a philosopher of logic, language, and mathematics. But he also believed that one could reconcile the politics of the far right with a firm commitment to reason-guided inquiry and scientific objectivity. This book makes no attempt to vilify or demonize Gottlob Frege, nor does it try to rescue him from criticism. It simply seeks to tell the truth about Frege's descent into fascism. It will be of interest to scholars of analytic philosophy, intellectual history, fascism, and anti-democratic thought.

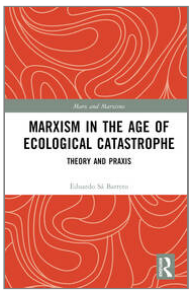
Marxism in the Age of Ecological Catastrophe

Theory and Praxis



Eduardo Sá Barreto

Series: Marx and Marxisms

Marxism in the Age of Ecological Catastrophe offers a stimulating discussion on the ecological unfeasibility of capitalist society. Divided into three parts, Eduardo Sá Barreto providing a reconstruction of Marx's theory of value and articulates it into a ecological critique of this society. Part Two and Three survey key debates, and explores political approaches to issues to see if they align with the gravity of the challenges facing humanity. At the intersection of the natural and social sciences, Marxism in the Age of Ecological Catastrophe will be of interest to scholars of political science, economics, ecology, climatology, demography, geography, and sociology.

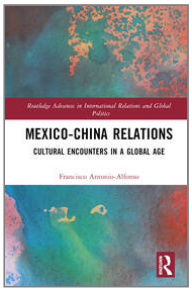
Mexico-China Relations

Cultural Encounters in a Global Age



Francisco Antonio-Alfonso

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

Through an unprecedented analysis of the discursive production of a series of diplomatic, media and academic sources, this book demonstrates how Mexico-China relations embodied a complex process of knowledge formation, confronting their socially constructed conceptions of time, space and otherness. Cultural Encounters in a Global Age contributes to the study of otherness construction and critical understanding of the non-Western world in international relations. It will appeal to researchers and students of IR theory, political theory, cultural studies, and studies of cultural influences on foreign policy, as well as professionals working on Sino-Latin American relations.

Migration, Cosmopolitanism and Civil Society

Fostering Cultural Pluralism through Citizenship Politics

Feyzi Baban Trent University, Canada, Kim Rygiel Wilfrid Laurier University, Canada

Series: Interventions

This book discusses the ways civil society initiatives open communities to newcomers and why, how, and under what circumstances some are more welcoming than others, exploring the importance of transgressive cosmopolitanism as a basis for creating more inclusive and pluralistic societies. The question of how to live together in increasingly multicultural, multi-ethnic, and multireligious societies is a pressing political and policy issue, particularly as we witness a rise in right-wing populism and anti-immigrant sentiments.

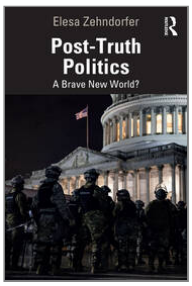
Post-Truth Politics

A Brave New World?



Elesa Zehndorfer University of Greenwich Business School, UK

In an age where politics run on emotion, not cognition, fake news continues to bolster levels of right-wing populism not seen since the 1930's. Post-Truth Politics: A Brave New World? empowers voters to fight back. It provides a complete view of the global disinformation ecosystem: who is targeting us, how we are microtargeted, and which evolutionary, technological, marketing, neurological and military approaches are being used to manipulate us. This non-partisan book will resonate with academics in fields as diverse as media studies, sociology, politics, marketing, military studies and creative writing.

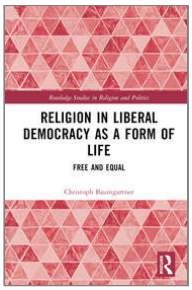
Religion in Liberal Democracy as a Form of Life

Free and Equal



Christoph Baumgartner Utrecht University, the Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics

Religion in Liberal Democracy as a Form of Life advances a theory to deal with the challenges connected to the liberal democratic ideal that all people are free to codetermine the future of their society and equally entitled to their religion and beliefs, given the historical bias towards Christianity in politics and culture within many European societies. This book will appeal to scholars of political theory, social and political philosophy, religious studies, sociology, and anthropology.

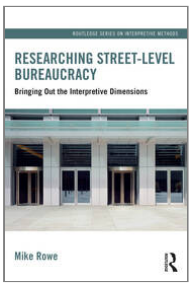
Researching Street-level Bureaucracy

Bringing Out the Interpretive Dimensions



Mike Rowe University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Routledge Series on Interpretive Methods

Using Michael Lipsky's idea of SLB and connecting it to contemporary debates, Mike Rowe argues for an approach to researching SLBs that focuses on dilemmas in practice. He places emphasis on the need to understand the ways SLBs respond to pressures in order to work with them and to understand what policy becomes in practice. Researching Street-level Bureaucracy is not just an essential resource for teachers and students of Public Administration, Public Policy, Social Work, and Criminal Justice, it is a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the structural pressures that bear on the individual and how change to the dilemmas confronted might play out at street-level.

Resisting Inter-Ethnic Violence

Community Approaches to Conflict Transformation in Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina

Valentina Otmačić

Series: Southeast European Studies

This book analyses the 1991 to 1995 war experiences of ethnically mixed communities who resisted identity-based violence and segregation in Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina. Challenging the prevailing view of these wars as ethnic struggles rooted in historical antagonisms, it expands our understanding by contributing new insights into local dynamics of inter-ethnic collaboration. It will be of interest to scholars in peace and conflict studies, political science, international relations, security studies, history, sociology, and social psychology, it will also be of great interest to policy makers and practitioners in conflict management, conflict transformation and local governance.

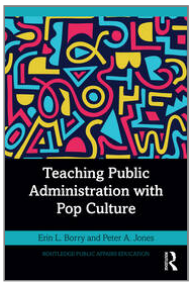
Teaching Public Administration with Pop Culture



Erin L. Borry University of Alabama at Birmingham, USA, Peter A. Jones University of Alabama at Birmingham, USA

Series: Routledge Public Affairs Education

This book offers faculty teaching in public administration and public affairs programs a playbook for using popular culture as a pedagogical tool in the classroom. Authors Erin L. Borry and Peter A. Jones build a pedagogical framework, detailing the richness and range of media through which pop culture can be accessed, and demonstrate how to integrate different forms of pop culture to achieve various learning goals. It is of enormous benefit to those teaching public administration to undergraduate and graduate students, as well as to those teaching in the areas of political science, civics, social studies, and government in higher and K-12 education settings.

The Effects of Wars

Lessons from the War in Ukraine

Edited by Pierre Bocquillon , Suzanne Doyle , Toby S. James University of East Anglia, UK, Ra Mason , Soul Park , Matilde Rosina

This book argues that war can have a much wider impact across layers of society that go beyond international boundaries. It presents a heuristic multi-disciplinary framework for analysing the ripple and backwash effects across five connected analytical layers around the world: material; human capabilities; economic; values belief and attitudes; policy and governance; and power. This volume will be of interest to students and scholars of international humanitarian law, security studies, peace and conflict studies, and European history. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Policy Studies.

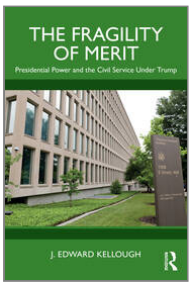
The Fragility of Merit

Presidential Power and the Civil Service Under Trump



J. Edward Kellough

The Fragility of Merit provides a detailed examination of the importance of a professionally competent and politically neutral public service. Illustrating the fundamental fragility of the federal civil service in the United States, J. Edward Kellough demonstrates how a view of presidential power grounded in unitary executive theory was used during Donald J. Trump's term in office. This book makes a persuasive case for protecting the civil service and for returning favor of merit in public employment. It will benefit researchers, academics, students, and others with an interest in public administration, public personnel management, government, and bureaucracy.

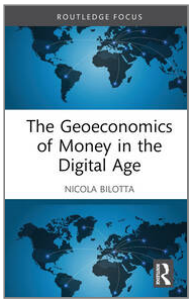
The Geoeconomics of Money in the Digital Age



Nicola Bilotta

Series: Trends and Perspectives in International Politics

The US dollar has reigned supreme, serving as a powerful tool of US foreign policy. However, history shows that currency dominance can shift with global power dynamics. Will China or another power rise to challenge the US-led system? Will the international monetary system experience a process of fragmentation, or will a new global order emerge? This book delves into the intricate web of how three forces - economic dislocation, evolving geopolitical relations and technology – could potentially foster transformations in the international monetary system.

The Polycentric Republic

A Theory of Civil Order for Free and Diverse Societies

David Thunder

The Polycentric Republic presents a compelling and innovative critique of modern social contract theory. It reveals how the social contract theory systematically neglects the interests and prerogatives of non-state associations and legitimates an imposing sovereign State that jeopardises the freedom and integrity of communities and associations under its rule. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in rethinking State-centric approaches to governance and civil order and exploring the merits of non-Statist, pluralist approaches, be they citizens, policymakers, or students of political science, political philosophy, law, or political economy.

The Security Dimensions of the Syrian Civil War

The Case of Türkiye

Edited by Serhat Ahmet Erkmen Altinbas University, Istanbul, Mehmet Emin Erendor

Within the framework of the topics addressed, the book provides a comprehensive reading of the security problems caused by the Syrian Civil War on Türkiye. We believe that this book will shed light on why Türkiye perceives what is happening in Syria from a security perspective. In fact, the main idea of the book is simple: Syria has always been a security issue for Türkiye since the 1930s and it is still a security issue now. After 100 years, the main idea has not changed. The only thing that has changed is how security is defined.

Windows into the Medieval Mediterranean

Edited by Jeanette Fregulia Carroll College, USA

This book reveals the medieval Mediterranean region as a richly nuanced space of places and peoples connected by a body of water, but far from unified – and seeks to challenge what we think we know about the medieval Mediterranean, and the world it influenced. Windows into the Medieval Mediterranean is simultaneously a scholarly and reader-friendly book intended to engage undergraduate and graduate students, scholars, and anyone interested in the Mediterranean of the Middles Ages.

Decolonial Sweden

Edited by Michael McEachrane , Louis Faye

Series: Routledge Studies on African and Black Diaspora

Decolonial Sweden exposes the social and political relevance of European colonialism to Sweden and its place in the world. It is a book that points to why and how Sweden is to be included in global decolonial struggles. Sweden is often displayed as an ethnoracially homogenous country without any colonial history: an open and tolerant human rights champion, anti-racist, anti-colonial and in solidarity with the Global South. This book is an essential read for Post- and Decolonial scholars and students of Critical Race Studies, Africana Studies, International Relations, Global Development, and Political Science, as well as for anyone interested in Sweden's place in the world.

Interrogating Marginalities across Disciplinary Boundaries

Colonial and Post-Colonial India

Edited by Anna Bochkovskaya , Sanjukta Das Gupta , Amit Prakash Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, India

This volume adopts an inter-disciplinary approach to rethink the multiple dimensions of marginality – political, societal, economic, cultural, legal, spatial. It explores their new representations in colonial and postcolonial India. Departing from extant analyses of experiences of marginalization in diverse social groups, it proposes to problematize the conceptualization of marginality, focusing on its evolution through space and time. A relational position, marginality, it is argued, presupposes a confrontation with centrality or the 'mainstream' within a common discourse of knowledge and power.

Nation, Region, Modernity

The Art of K. Venkatappa

Edited by Deeptha Achar , Pushpamala N.

This volume explores the Indian artist, K. Venkatappa's (1886–1965) life, his works and the political and cultural contexts that influenced and inspired his art. It looks at the artist's style and examines the question of modernity in Indian art through the interstices of the regional and the national. This richly illustrated book contextualizes Venkatappa's work in the milieu of Calcutta and the Mysore state at the turn of the 20th century. Tracing both western and traditional Indian influences in his art, it historicises modern art and modernity in colonial India, at a time when boundaries, horizons and identities were shifting and going through great upheaval.

This book outlines an analytical framework to understand power, influence, and statecraft in the Pacific Islands region. With contributions by scholars from the United States, Australia, China, New Zealand, and across the Pacific Islands region, it provides 'both sides of the story' of statecraft. Through case studies of key examples – such as economic assistance, defence diplomacy, scholarships, and strategic narratives – this book analyses how tools of statecraft are being deployed by a range of key partners and Pacific Island states, and how they are being received by Pacific Island countries. A vital resource for scholars and practitioners in International Relations and diplomacy.

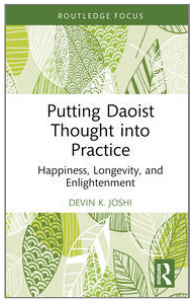
Putting Daoist Thought into Practice

Happiness, Longevity, and Enlightenment



Devin K. Joshi Singapore Management University, Singapore

This book contains reflections on how to achieve happiness drawing from the Liezi, a Daoist classic, and it explores Daoist views on consciousness and enlightenment in the Laozi and Zhuangzi and their close resemblance to some of the most influential "new age" teaching on the subject. It highlights the ethical character of a Daoist sage by drawing on the Daoist classic of the Wenzi and it enumerates lessons for transitioning towards a sustainable economy from the Daodejing A useful text for scholars, students and researchers of Asian studies, religion, and philosophy, and for those seeking self-improvement and personal wellness.

Reading Violence and Trauma in Asia and the World

Edited by Yiru Lim , Kit Ying Lye Singapore University of Social Sciences, Singapore

Series: Routledge Literary Studies in Social Justice

It casts the spotlight on Asia and its place in global studies on trauma to explore the ways in which violence and trauma is (re)enacted, (re)presented, (re)imagined, reconciled and consumed through various mediums in the region. The discussions revolve around the ethics of representing and discussing trauma as we negotiate the tensions between trauma and political, historical, literary and cultural representations in written, visual, digital and hybrid forms. It examines how perspectives about trauma are framed, perpetuated and/or critiqued via theories and research methods, and how a constructive tension between theory, method and experience is essential for critical discourse

Relationality across East and West

Edited by Jun-Hyeok Kwak , Ken Cheng

Series: Political Theories in East Asian Context

This book explores how the concept of 'relationality' can offer a strong basis for cross-cultural dialogue between Western and non-Western traditions of moral and political philosophy. Examining relationality in practical forms and culturally-situated contexts, rather than positing an essentialist view of the relational self, this book will be of interest to scholars in political philosophy, intellectual history, contemporary political theory and Northeast Asian regional studies.

Beyond Decolonial African Philosophy

Africanity, Afrotopia, and Transcolonial Perspectives

Edited by Joseph C. A. Agbakoba , Marita Rainsborough

Series: Routledge Studies in African Philosophy

Beyond Decolonial African Philosophy dives into decoloniality discourse, challenging some of its shortcomings and offering alternative perspectives on the nature of Africanity and Afrotopia (Africa's better future) from leading African philosophers. Beginning with an overview of philosophy in contemporary Africa, the first half of the book goes on to critically interrogate and rethink decoloniality's deconstructivist approach. Drawing on rich insights from African philosophers across the continent, this book challenges students and researchers to think beyond the concept of decolonization to alternative forms of African identities and African futures.

COVID-19 and Gender-Based Violence in Zimbabwe

Women's Pandemic Experiences and Lessons for the Future

Edited by Isaiah Munyiswa , Pauline Mateveke , Ezra Chitando University of Zimbabwe

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

This book investigates the experiences of women in Zimbabwe facing COVID-19 and gender-based violence, arguing that the insights from this extremely tough period could be used as a springboard for positive legal, cultural and policy changes. In 2020, COVID-19 caught the world by surprise, and often the socio-cultural factors impacting the treatment and care of those infected by the virus were not fully considered. The important lessons and discussion points raised by this book will be important to policymakers both within Zimbabwe and beyond, and to researchers working on gender, public health, philosophy, sociology, and politics in Africa.

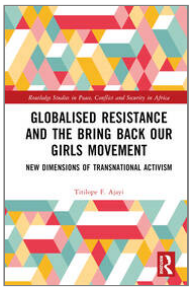
Globalised Resistance and the Bring Back Our Girls Movement

New Dimensions of Transnational Activism



Titilope F. Ajayi

Series: Routledge Studies in Peace, Conflict and Security in Africa

This book uncovers how women's movements in the Global South are changing the face of transnational activism in their mobilisations against militarism and conflict-related GBV. Drawing on the case study of the Bring Back Our Girls (BBOG) movement established by Nigerian women for the rescue of Nigerian schoolgirls abducted in 2014 by violent extremist group Boko Haram, the book argues that BBOG is one of several emerging forms of transnational resistance in Africa that are breaking old moulds and forging new directions for social movements globally. The book will interest researchers of international relations, decolonisation, social movements, and transnational human rights activism.

Marketing Communication in African Languages

Edited by Abiodun Salawu North-West University, South Africa, Kehinde Oyesomi

Series: Routledge African Media, Culture and Communication Studies

While some academic attention has been paid to the impact of new digital technologies on African media in the colonial languages of English, French and Portuguese, there is a dearth of research into African language digital communication. This book analyses the online presence of African language media. The chapters in the book focus on the speed, structure, content, navigation and interactivity, operations and performance, and audience of the online media. Examining the ability of the African language press to adopt new technologies, this book will be of interest to scholars of media, journalism, communication, social media and culture in Africa.

Marriage in Contemporary Zimbabwe

Identity, Community, and Change

Edited by Manase Kudzai Chiweshe

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

The book provides a social analysis of marriage in contemporary Zimbabwe, highlighting how the institution is changing and evolving in the face of societal factors such as globalisation, technology, increased migration, religious plurality and shifting cultural systems. Marriage has always occupied a profound cultural and social significance in Zimbabwean society, but the forms and meanings attached to marriage have changed in recent decades. Students and scholars of Zimbabwean history, culture, gender, and the family will find this book essential for understanding the continuities and evolutions of the marriage institution in Zimbabwe.

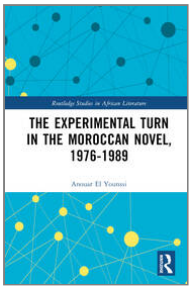
The Experimental Turn in the Moroccan Novel, 1976-1989



Anouar El Younssi

Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature

The Experimental Turn in the Moroccan Novel, 1976-1989 examines the trajectory of the Moroccan experimental novel and makes a link between its emergence in the early-mid 1970s and the Arab defeat in the six-day war with Israel in 1967. This book will be an important contribution to debates around Moroccan/Arabic/Maghrebi literature, as well as the field of literary experimentalism more broadly.

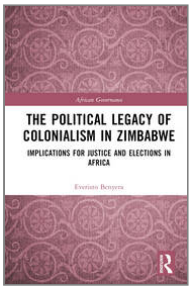
The Political Legacy of Colonialism in Zimbabwe

Implications for Justice and Elections in Africa



Everisto Benyera

Series: African Governance

This book investigates the political legacy of colonialism in contemporary African institutions. Using the case study of electoral and justice institutions in postcolonial Zimbabwe, the book investigates how those in postcolonial states relate to and with institutions which were originally designed to oppress them and remain structurally and systematically colonial. This book will be an important read for African policy makers and researchers working on African politics, governance, and international relations.

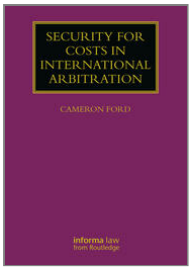
Security for Costs in International Arbitration



Cameron Ford

Series: Lloyd's Arbitration Law Library

This is the first comprehensive guide to security for costs in international arbitration, providing a text which will be the key resource for those considering, making and ruling on applications for security for costs. It is the first and only work to consider the 40+ factors informing the discretion to award security for costs. This book is written for all arbitration practitioners around the world, including arbitrators ruling on applications. The work would be incidentally useful to litigation practitioners as it necessarily considers applications for security for costs in litigation.

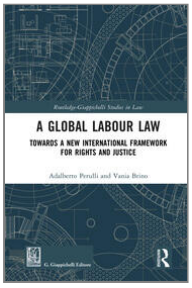
A Global Labour Law

Towards a New International Framework for Rights and Justice



Adalberto Perulli , Vania Brino

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law

This book explores the prospects of a global labour law system. It considers both international labour law and regulatory instruments of different kinds, such as social clauses in international trade treaties or corporate codes of conduct, transnational collective bargaining, and EU directives on due diligence. This complex normative "system" is reconstructed and subjected to critique. The elements of normative knowledge are accompanied by problematic reasoning about the forms, contents and purposes of a possible global labour law. The work will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in Labour Law, Employment Law, International Human Rights Law and Social Justice.

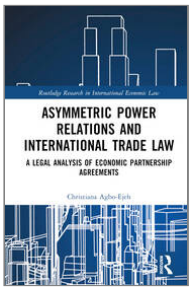
Asymmetric Power Relations and International Trade Law

A Legal Analysis of Economic Partnership Agreements



Christiana Agbo-Ejeh

Series: Routledge Research in International Economic Law

This book offers an analysis of the contradictions between theory and practice in the trading system. It contextualises the colonial legal structure and its impact on the peripheral countries and their participation and gain in the multilateral trading system. The book's core argument effectively situates Economic Partnership Agreements in the 'systemic' asymmetry, which characterises the relationship between developed and developing countries in global trade. The volume is an invaluable resource for scholars, postgraduate students, government officials, and policymakers, as it offers a comprehensive understanding of the complexities of trade negotiations and agreements.

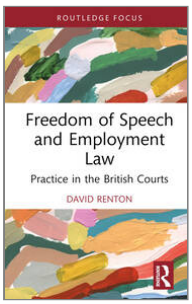
Freedom of Speech and Employment Law

Practice in the British Courts



David Renton Independent Scholar, UK

This book explains the overarching principle of employment and free speech law. The law relating to freedom of speech has grown faster than any other area of employment law over the past decade. Press controversies over online speech, disputed claims to the Equality Act, and allegations of no-platforming have all had the effect of making this the most dynamic area of workplace law. This book provides detailed case studies of specific examples that most commonly come before the courts. It will be an essential reference for students, academics and professionals in Employment Law, Human Rights Law and Criminal Law. The British example will be of interest to an international readership.

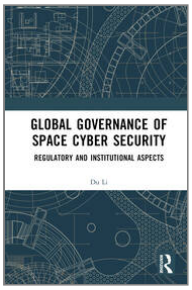
Global Governance of Space Cyber Security

Regulatory and Institutional Aspects



Du Li

The book explores the regulatory and institutional aspects of global governance of space cybersecurity. Focusing on the regulatory aspects, Part II of the study argues that the current international law cannot handle the threats posed by malicious cyber and space activities, as regulatory gaps exist owing to terminological ambiguities and legal loopholes. A law-making process in the space field is proposed in Part III with a focus on developing soft law instruments through multistakeholder platforms. The book will attract international law scholars, especially those studying space law and cyber law.

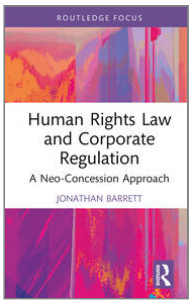
Human Rights Law and Corporate Regulation

A Neo-Concession Approach



Jonathan Barrett Victoria University of Wellington

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book argues for an intensely humanist engagement with the company and presents a model of company regulation that is compatible with the protection, respect for and fulfilment of human rights. Dr Barrett provides a theoretical framing for corporate regulation in the context of human rights states. He argues that states which have ratified the fundamental human rights instruments should, on principle, exclude bodies corporate from the human rights ecosystem, except to the degree necessary to respect property rights of humans and human rights in business. It outlines and recommends principal features of a company under a neo-concession model.

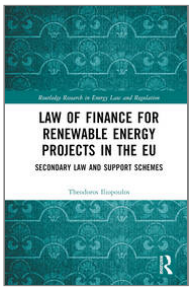
Law of Finance for Renewable Energy Projects in the EU

Secondary Law and Support Schemes



Theodoros G. Iliopoulos

Series: Routledge Research in Energy Law and Regulation

The book delves into the nascent field of renewable energy support law, with a focus on the EU. It critically interprets and analyses the rules and the legal system that govern the finance of renewable energy projects in the EU. The volume scrutinises the different types of support schemes and elucidates how they work, what effects they generate, and how they have been applied in practice. The book fills a gap in the study of the law governing the finance of renewable energy projects, and is a valuable companion for jurists, both practitioners and academics, professionals and students, who wish to decode the law of finance for renewable energy sources.

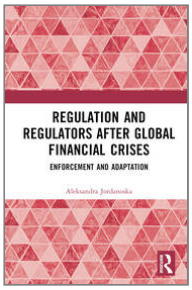
Regulation and Regulators after Global Financial Crises

Enforcement and Adaptation



Aleksandra Jordanoska Keele University, UK

This book provides an original theoretical and empirical analysis of regulatory enforcement activism in post-crises periods and the ensuing regulatory interactions. It critically addresses the 'more regulation' enforcement agenda relating to financial misconduct in the aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis. It documents a more interventionist and punitive post-crisis enforcement agenda and challenges current thinking in 'scandal and reform' literature. It argues that it is not necessarily true that power has tilted more towards the regulator. It will appeal to academics, researchers, regulators, and policymakers working in regulation across law, criminology, sociology, and politics.

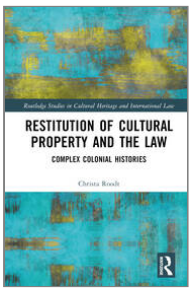
Restitution of Cultural Property and the Law

Complex Colonial Histories



Christa Roodt

Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural Heritage and International Law

This book adopts a novel approach to the social question of restitution and repatriation of sacred cultural property and heritage acquired unethically during the colonial era. It uses an approach premised on better integration of law, ethics, history, anthropology, and provenance research. To bridge the material and the sacred world in adjudication and policy formulation, a common definition of what 'sacred' denotes in the context of colonial legacies is adopted as a methodology. It will be helpful to researchers interested in interdisciplinary work across the social sciences, including public and private international law, cultural property law, heritage law, and provenance research.

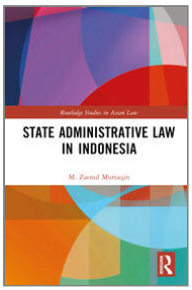
State Administrative Law in Indonesia



M. Zaenul Muttaqin

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Law

This book covers the historical evolution of state administrative law in Indonesia, the political and legal acceptance of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in Indonesia as well as the ratification of the 2020 Omnibus Law reforms. It evaluates both the benefits and drawbacks of establishing law through the omnibus law model, and the challenges of its adoption by the Indonesian statutory system. State administrative law in other Southeast Asian countries is also examined to provide a more nuanced understanding of how human rights implementation occurs in respective legal regimes. A useful resource for scholars of state administrative law and constitutional law.

The Legal Legacy of the Reformation

Catholic and Protestant Approaches to Law

Edited by John Duddington

Series: Law and Religion

This book argues that Christianity has something of value to say about various issues which are of direct relevance to contemporary society, such as the place of human rights and individual claims of conscience. It takes as its starting point the sundering of Christendom at the Reformation which, it claims, led in many cases to divergent patterns of thought about law and its place in society. However, as this book shows, in many cases Catholic and Protestant thinking on areas such as natural law is not as divergent as it is often thought. It will be of interest to canon lawyers as well as academics and students of law and religion.

Uncertainty in Comparative Law and Legal History

Known Unknowns

Edited by Andrew J. Bell , Joanna McCunn

Series: Transforming Legal Histories

This book explores what happens when the law's rules for establishing facts do not—because they cannot—produce a satisfactory answer. It explores the law's understandings of and responses to such situations from a comparative historical perspective. It investigates how the law has framed these problems of uncertainty; dealt with uncertainty's often unclear boundaries; and developed a broad range of responses to solve or avoid it. It examines key uncertainty problems across private law as elements of a singular uncertainty issue endemic in legal systems. The analysis will be of interest to historians and comparatists, and doctrinal, theoretical and other scholars and practitioners.

Women, Agency and Religion

Social and Legal Issues in the Mediterranean Public Space

Edited by Ilaria Valenzi

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Religion, Law and Economics in the Mediterranean Space

This book applies a multidisciplinary approach to the theme of women's agency, in which law, sociology, theology and philosophy interact with each other. It focuses on the role of women believers in the processes of transformation of political contexts of the North African and Euro-Mediterranean area, and on the role of women within religions, questioning the latter's patriarchal traditions from inside. It is enriched by the specific analysis of the role of a "religious factor" in the process of affirmation or as a restraint on women's agency. It will be a valuable resource for those working in the areas of Human Rights Law, Law and Religion, Socio-legal Studies and Gender Studies.

Crime, Peoples and Places

Perspectives on Rural Safety and Justice

Edited by Vania Ceccato , Alistair Harkness Federation University, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Rural Criminology

Combining reports on survey findings, country case-studies, and cross-cutting analyses, Crime, Peoples and Places offers empirical, theoretical and policy-oriented contributions to the field of rural criminology, adopting the notion of a rural-urban continuum that captures the nuances of places of varied nature, spanning from remote and desolate spaces to accessible and connected environments of the urban fringe.

Green and Transnational Crime in Europe and Beyond

Synergies and Challenges

Edited by Petrus C. van Duyne , Joanna Banach-Gutierrez , Georgios A. Antonopoulos , Klaus von Lampe John Jay College, CUNY, USA, Paul Larsson , Jackie Harvey

Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime and Illegal Markets

This book brings together research and studies in the fields of organised crime and of 'green criminality' against the natural environment. Including chapters on the illegal trade in cobalt, and in stolen motor vehicles, the illegal dog market, cross-border amber trafficking, deforestation, and environmental harm in the Norwegian industrial salmon farming, the book offers an important rapprochement between studies in organized crime and green criminology, and considers the operational differences between underworld and upperworld criminal economies.

Issues in Providing Services to Trauma-Affected Veterans In and Out of Veterans Treatments Court

Edited by Faye S Taxman Law and Society Department, George Mason University, USA, Don Hummer Penn State Harrisburg

This book examines novel approaches to care for veterans and identifies some of the barriers they face. The project upon which this volume is based involved in-depth interviews with 145 stakeholders in 20 geographically dispersed and characteristically unique VTCs in the United States. Interviewees included judges, court coordinators, prosecutors, treatment providers, defense counsel, probation officers, and coordinated teams providing a network of care enabling justice-involved veterans to address their specific criminogenic needs and to promote behaviors resulting in subsequent desistence from crime. It was originally published as a special issue of Victims & Offenders.

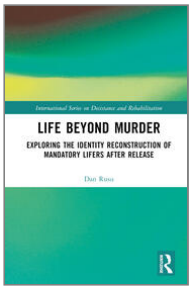
Life Beyond Murder

Exploring the identity reconstruction of mandatory lifers after release



Dan Rusu

Series: International Series on Desistance and Rehabilitation

Life Beyond Murder: Exploring the Identity Reconstruction of Mandatory Lifers After Release explores the impact of mandatory lifers' institutionalisation, families, consumer culture, emotions, and supervision, considering how these factors hamper or assist with their transition from the stigmatising identity of being 'dangerous murderers'. The book's discussion is guided by the men's narratives, employing a 'tug of war' metaphor to elucidate the 'push-pull forces' that influence the men's efforts to reconstruct their lives in the years following their release.

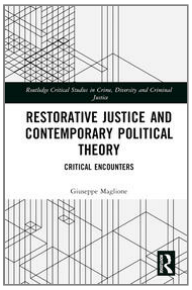
Restorative Justice and Contemporary Political Theory

Critical Encounters



Giuseppe Maglione University of Kent, UK

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

Outlining a meta-theoretical reflection on how the expression 'restorative justice' has historically been used, this book explores the relevant social movement which has organically emerged around a range of informal justice practices from the 1970s. Providing an original and innovative contribution to our thinking about the political nature and significance of restorative justice from the specific perspective of political philosophy, Restorative Justice and Political Philosophy will appeal to students and scholars of restorative justice specifically and of criminal justice and criminology more broadly.

Violence and Harm in the Animal Industrial Complex

Human-Animal Entanglements

Edited by Gwen Hunnicutt University of North Carolina at Greensboro, USA, Richard Twine , Kenneth Mentor

This book grapples with the violent exploitations embedded in corridors of power within the Animal-Industrial Complex. The A-IC is a useful framework for understanding how exploitative human-animal relations are central to capitalist relations and profit accumulation. The book unmasks inherent cruelties in a proliferation of social forms that ultimately reflect a socio-economic system that centralizes capitalist life characterized by endless growth, competitiveness, and profligate consumption. This is essential reading for those engaged in critical criminology, green criminology, violence studies, peace and conflict studies, critical animal studies or animal rights-oriented scholars.

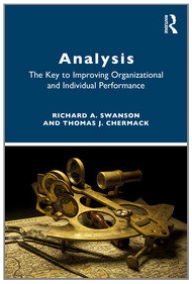
ANALYSIS

The Key to Improving Organization and Individual Performance



Richard A. Swanson University of Minnesota, USA, Thomas J. Chermack

The concepts of analysis may be timeless, but recent years have seen massive changes in terms of organizational structures, work systems, and worker requirements, such as remote working and increased employee turnover. This book covers the theory and concepts behind performance improvement, and then turns to the real-world work of performance diagnosis, process improvement, and task documentation, introducing cross-functional task analysis, which recognizes the changing nature of work as more of today's tasks are extensive and require collaboration across jobs.

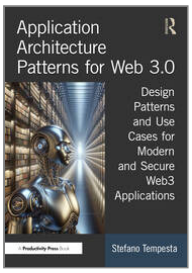
Application Architecture Patterns for Web 3.0

Design Patterns and Use Cases for Modern and Secure Web3 Applications



Stefano Tempesta

Web 3.0 is built using artificial intelligence, machine learning, and the semantic web. It uses all this to process and interpret information with human-like intelligence. And for security, Web 3.0 uses the blockchain security system to keep information secure. This book aims to provide an overview of the evolution of blockchain technology, highlighting its expanding use cases and exploring the latest trends and news that have shaped the blockchain landscape in recent years. The timing for this book is ideal. NFTs, DeFi, and in general the emergence of the architectural concept of "Web3" is defining and will define the future of web applications.

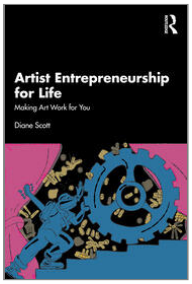
Artist Entrepreneurship for Life

Making Art Work for You



Diane Scott

Artists looking to forge a career have had to turn to either entrepreneurship resources or professional practice tools specific to a discipline such as studio arts or theatre—but the business-school entrepreneurial approach conflicts with the way artists make work and the unique structures of the artist environment, while the professional practice focus neglects the necessary business theory and the wide range of ways artists create viable careers. For the first time, this book provides a comprehensive theoretical and practical foundation for understanding how artists create practices that endure.

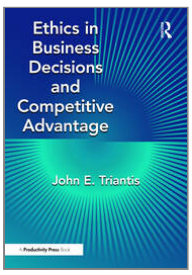
Ethics in Business Decisions and Competitive Advantage



John E. Triantis

The uniqueness of this book is the creation of a method to identify and assess how ethics impacts business decisions and competitive advantage based on accepted economic tenants. It lays the plan for quantitative assessments of the impact of ethical behavior and it is written from the perspective of a business economist. Other books deal with business ethics elements only; none explains how ethics effects permeate to business sustainability. The main contribution of this book is demonstrating that ethics is a necessary factor for business sustainability.

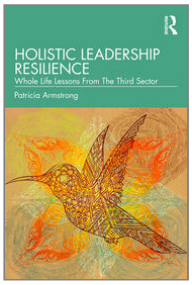
Holistic Leadership Resilience

Whole Life Lessons From The Third Sector



Patricia Armstrong

The world we live and work in has changed exponentially over the last few years, and all sectors share an increased emphasis on sustainability, self-care and resilience. But these last two concepts appear contradictory: how can we keep bouncing back from setbacks when we need a break? Based on her doctoral study carried out over three years - and almost 20 years heading up the third sector leadership body in Scotland, Patricia Armstrong OBE shows that resilience is much more holistic than previously thought. It's not just about what we do that keeps us resilient, it's also how we think and how we take into account the environment around us.

IDEAS—A Secret Weapon for Business

Think and Collaborate Like a Designer

Andrew Pressman University of New Mexico, USA

This book suggests a distinctive framework for collaboration informed by design thinking. Collaboration under the umbrella of such a process can be optimally effective in triggering inspiration, leading to fresh ideas that are highly responsive to stakeholders. Collaborative design thinking cannot be reduced to an algorithm; unlike math and science problems there is no single, right answer. Nor are there formulaic or simplistic approaches, which may limit creative possibilities to solving problems or conceiving the right questions.

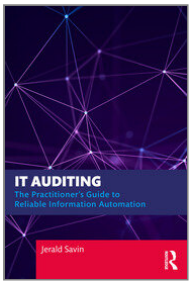
IT Auditing

The Practitioner's Guide to Reliable Information Automation



Jerald Savin

This book is a comprehensive guide to the IT audit discipline, and to the impact of abstraction on businesses. Developments including Robotic Process Automation (RPA) and artificial intelligence (AI) mean that businesses are moving from a physical world to an abstracted digital world, increasing reliance on systems, their design, their implementation and on those that oversee and maintain these systems—often parties outside the businesses' control.

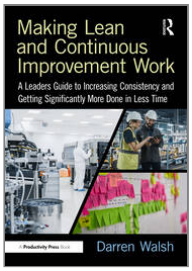
Making Lean and Continuous Improvement Work

A Leaders Guide to Increasing Consistency and Getting Significantly More Done in Less Time



Darren Walsh

Many are trying to cope with day-to-day business issues. They bury their heads in the work as they either give up on trying to improve, or are floundering as they keep trying new initiatives to improve with little success. Most lean thinking and improvement publications focus on the use of improvement tools, but never really get to the core of why organizations are not seeing the real results from these techniques and Lean thinking as an improvement strategy. They talk about what to do, but not about the common problems you can expect along the way and how to navigate these and create a fundamental change in how the business works.

Operational Safety for Aviation Managers

Practice Beyond the Theory

John Frearson

Series: Managing Aviation Operations

This book examines the development of the foundations for aviation safety, providing a history of time-critical safety-related events and exploring why pilot inactivity, indifference, fixation and incapacitation can so pervade the lead up to the 'last minute' as to leave a flight's safe continuation resting on prompt remedial action. Written for aviation managers, line flight crews and those in similar operational roles in aviation-related operations, this book and its informal discussion style should appeal and communicate across national, age, experience and language boundaries to create a safer operational environment.

Quantitative Social Science Research in Practice

Generating Novel and Parsimonious Explanatory Models for Social Sciences

Charlette Donalds , Kweku-Muata Osei-Bryson
Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, USA

Applying quantitative methods, quantitative behavioral science (QBS) researchers collect and analyze data to uncover patterns and relationships that drive human behaviour. QBS studies typically initially involve the exploration of existing theories to generate and justify a set of hypotheses that together constitute a new causal model. However, there is no clear guidance to the researcher on how to generate a novel parsimonious causal model, that is highly likely to be supported by empirical analysis. This book fills this gap by offering an approach for generating novel, parsimonious and actionable models.

The ABCs of Not-For-Profit Accounting and Financial/990 Reporting

Laurence Scot

In the US, the not-for-profit (NFP) sector accounts for just over 10% of all private sector workers, and NFPs must comply with hundreds of rules imposed by the IRS, federal and state government agencies, foundations, and even donors. Yet there is a dearth of informative guidance, and a shortage of knowledgeable bookkeepers and accountants who understand the nuances of NFP accounting and financial reporting.

As sustainable development becomes an increasingly important strategic issue for all organizations, there is a growing need for management and executive education to adapt to this new reality. This textbook provides a theoretically sound and highly relevant introduction to the topic of socially and environmentally responsible business. The authors take a "competence-based approach" to responsible management education. The book includes a wide variety of tools for change at individual, company and systemic levels resulting in both an essential resource for business students at all levels and self-study, practical handbook for executives.

The Adult Learner

The Definitive Classic in Adult Education and Human Resource Development

Malcolm Knowles , Elwood F. Holton III , Petra A. Robinson , Corina Caraccioli

How do you tailor education to the learning needs of adults? How does their life experience inform their learning? These questions were at the heart of Malcolm Knowles' pioneering theory of andragogy which transformed education theory. The resulting principles of a self-directed, problem-centred approach to learning have been hugely influential and are still the basis of the learning practices. The 10th edition of The Adult Learner has been revised to include chapters on diversity and belonging in adult learning. If you are a researcher, or student, an adult learning practitioner, or involved in human resources, this is the definitive book in adult learning you should not be without.

Ethics of Engagement in Research Practices

Response-ability in Organization and Management

Edited by Michela Cozza , Anna Carreri , Barbara Poggio University of Trento, Italy

Series: Routledge Focus on Women Writers in Management and Organization Studies

The book elaborates on the concept of response-ability. Although the notion is becoming popular in organization and management studies to talk about the ethical dimension of academic practices and research work, it has been formulated outside this discipline with Joan Tronto, Donna Haraway, Vinciane Despret, and Karen Barad as key authors. This book honours the foundational contribution of these scholars and their legacy. By offering empirical examples and theoretical elaborations, the book invites students, researchers, and practitioners to find ways of embodying response-ability when generating knowledge.

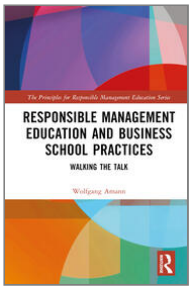
Responsible Management Education and Business School Practices

Walking the Talk



Wolfgang Amann

Series: The Principles for Responsible Management Education Series

Beyond researching and teaching responsible management, business schools should aspire to walk the talk. They ought to become role models and responsible organisations themselves. Focussing on the original UK and Ireland institutions who committed to this initiative formally by becoming signatories, this book considers how this role-modelling behaviour has been applied. This book is relevant to all stakeholders of modern management education, in particular business school deans, university presidents, program directors, PRME leads and non-academic leaders in business schools, such as COOs or managing directors.

Strategies for Sustainable Air Services Development

An Airport-Destination Collaborative Approach

Chrystal Zhang , Kareem Yarde

Series: Routledge Studies in Transport Analysis

Routes are arguably the most valuable of airline assets. Although widely practised in the industry, the process of developing air connectivity has drawn limited academic research, but this book fills in this knowledge gap. Strategies for Sustainable Air Services Development unwraps the process of decision-making of establishing airlinks from the airline's perspective, as well as the roles of various stakeholders including airports, local investment agencies and regional development agencies. The book will equip senior and middle managers, practitioners, and students with the practical skills and tools required to develop and design airlinks for the benefit of all stakeholders.

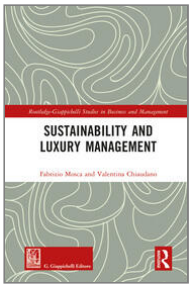
Sustainability and Luxury Management



Fabrizio Mosca , Valentina Chiaudano

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Business and Management

This book attempts to resolve the divergence between luxury and sustainability shedding light on the evolving dynamics within the luxury brand market. Thanks to an in-depth analysis of the definition of luxury, the authors demonstrate that sustainability is aligned with young consumers' idea of it. The book presents original theoretical and empirical evidence that addresses the topic of sustainability in the context of the global luxury brand market. It caters to a diverse audience, ranging from advanced students to Corporate Social Responsibility managers looking to extract valuable insights and adapt them to their respective business contexts.

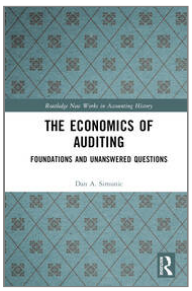
The Economics of Auditing

Foundations and Unanswered Questions



Dan A. Simunic University of British Columbia, Canada

Series: Routledge New Works in Accounting History

This book traces the development of the economics of auditing. It offers a narrative commentary, along with a series of previously unpublished papers that the author presented during the 1970's, at Accounting Research workshops at the University of Chicago, as part of his dissertation research, that ultimately led to one of the bedrock papers in the field. It provides an explanation and discussion of the economic, regulatory, and research environment at that time. The book concludes with a discussion of important but currently "unanswered questions" in the field that flow from the author's thesis research but remain unresolved.

Urban Air Mobility

Intelligent, Safe and Sustainable Systems for Future Transportation

Edited by Vishnu Kumar Kaliappan , Mohana Sundaram Kuppusamy , Dugki Min

This book is a resource for engineers and researchers to develop intelligent, safe, and sustainable systems for urban air mobility. In recent years, the growth of the world's urban population has increased tremendously, and it is predicted that by 2040, 70% of the world population will be living in an urban setting. Existing ground transportation will be unable to cope with such an expansion, especially as congestion and over-crowding becomes more common. An answer may be found with the advent of recent technologies such as urban air mobility, which may play a vital role in providing solutions for public transportation.

Modern Macroeconomics

Theory, Application, and Sustainability

Dibyendu Banerjee , Ramesh Chandra Das Vidyasagar University, West Bengal, India

This comprehensive textbook deals with multidimensional aspects of macroeconomics through lucid presentation of concepts and critical comparison of different schools of thoughts. It attempts to re-establish the existing theories behind the determination of macro variables and the growth process of an economy. In the process, it captures the significance of the debate between the classical orthodox theories and Keynesian modernism and its implications. Besides, adhering to traditional aspects, it also focuses on recent developments such as green macroeconomics. Undergraduate and postgraduate students of economics and business economics will find this book immensely helpful.

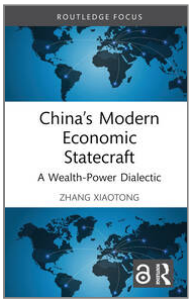
China's Modern Economic Statecraft

A Wealth-Power Dialectic



Zhang Xiaotong Shanghai, China

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy

This compelling exploration delves into President Xi Jinping's ambitious efforts to restore China to its historical role as a global leader through innovative economic means. Xi's approach is a unique synthesis of Marxist-Developmentalist ideas, aiming to convert China's accumulated national wealth into great power status. At the heart of this narrative is a wealth-power dialectic, shaping the performance and challenges of China's modern economic statecraft. It chronicles the optimism of Xi's first term, the overreach and subsequent retrenchment of his second, all set against the backdrop of a slowing domestic economy and intensifying strategic competition with the US.

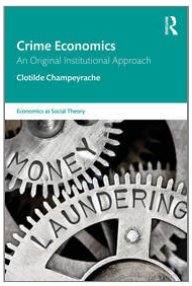
Crime Economics

An Original Institutional Approach



Clotilde Champeyrache

Presenting an original institutional approach, this book makes the case for an empirically-based crime economics that aims to guide the fight against crime within a logic of reasonable capitalism and the common good. Inspired in particular by the work of Veblen and Commons, this book calls for a renewal of the analysis. This renewed global vision is useful both for those who study criminal issues (students and researchers in economics, criminology, law, sociology, political science) and for practitioners.

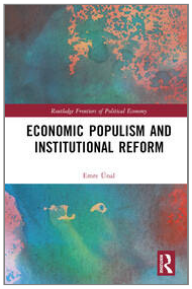
Economic Populism and Institutional Reform



Emre Ünal

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

In response to global crises in recent decades, many countries – both developed and developing economies – have resorted to populist forms of economic policy instead of undertaking meaningful institutional change. This book explores two forms of economic populism in particular (wage populism and exchange rate populism) and demonstrates that these types of policies result in high inflation, unstable exchange rates, and chronic macroeconomic problems. This book will be of interest to readers in economics, political economy, politics and other social sciences who are grappling with issues around populism in all its forms.

Government and Economic Growth in the 21st Century

A Classical Liberal Response

Edited by Juan E. Castañeda University of Buckingham, UK

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

The book is a Classical Liberal response to the way leading economies have been (mis)managed in the last three decades and the principles and models that have guided such policies, particularly since the outbreak of the Global Financial Crisis in 2007-09. It is structured around three major themes: (1) what classical liberalism is (or should be) and why it still matters; (2) how state-sponsored capitalism hinders the well-functioning of the market economy as well as being a bad recipe for economic growth and individual freedom; and (3) which are the essential Classical Liberal institutions necessary for a free market economy to flourish.

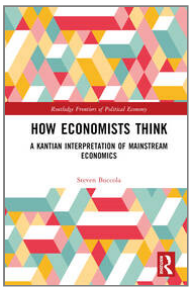
How Economists Think

A Kantian Interpretation of Mainstream Economics



Steven Buccola Department of Applied Economics, Ballard Extension Hall, Oregon State University, Corvallis, OR, 97331, USA

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Many philosophers today take the empiricist or rationalist stance that mainstream economics is narrow, simplistic, and over determinate. For their part too, most economists don't know much formal philosophy.The purpose of the present book is to help bridge this great divide between philosopher and economist. It will be vital reading for both philosophers, economists, and others interested in these two critical professions.

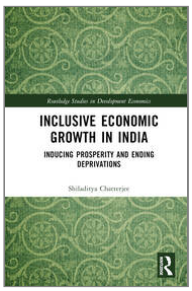
Inclusive Economic Growth in India

Inducing Prosperity and Ending Deprivations



Shiladitya Chatterjee United Nations, India

Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics

Chatterjee's overview of the economy touches on its historical, geographical and socio-political context. Considering the factors that contribute to its current growth such as India's low dependency ratio, vast internal market, and growing private sector and entrepreneurial class, he argues that inclusive growth rests amongst others on agricultural transformation and targeted policies that address the needs of medium, small and microenterprises (MSMEs) which dominate industry and constitute the majority of the informal and services economy; and also interventions directed at social groups and geographical regions falling behind.

The Culture of Money

Implications for Contemporary Economics

Edited by Esther Schomacher , Jan Söffner

Series: Economics and Humanities

It is widely known that culture depends on money. Less attention has been given to the contrary fact: money also depends on culture. This interdisciplinary anthology scrutinizes this two-way connection between culture and money, and its implications for economic theory. In this book a wide range of established experts and newcomers from a range of disciplines investigate current economic issues from the perspective of their social and cultural embeddedness, their cultural and literary negotiations and their history. The book therefore addresses academic audiences across a wide field of disciplines - social sciences, literary and cultural studies, economics and history

Series: Routledge Studies in Public Economics and Finance

This book combines juridical, economic and technical expertise to find common terrain and a common language in order to debate the specific issues that affect Public Administrations across the world. The book features contributions across four specific themes of interest to the procurer's day to day job in modern public purchasing organizations: preferences and political economy in public procurement; climate change; defence procurement and human rights in public procurement. The aim is to let the new emerging trade-offs between competition and sustainability emerge, highlighting at the same time the possible synergies between the relevant policy objectives.

The European Green Deal and the Eastern Partnership

Towards Resilient, Sustainable and Integrated Economies

Zofia Gródek-Szostak , Jadwiga Adamczyk , Karolina Kotulewicz-Wisińska , Agata Niemczyk , Karolina Wanda Olszowska , Anna Szeląg-Sikora

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book presents an innovative, geopolitical and multidimensional survey of Eastern Partnership-EU relations and the future of Europe. It analyses the situation of the Partnership countries in the context of sustainable development and explores the historical and strategic context of the integration of the European Green Deal and its impact on the development of Europe. It is a valuable reference for students and researchers of economics, politics, geography, history, European studies, international relations, and environmental policy. Policymakers at the European, regional, and local government level will benefit from the book's policy recommendations and comprehensive insights.

The Political Economy of Elites in Latin America

Edited by Jan Ickler , Rebeca Ramos Padrón

Series: Global Challenges in Political Economy

Recent years have seen renewed interest in elites around the world, and their interconnection with power, privilege, social stratification, and social change. The contributors to this edited volume explore the many facets of the role of elites in the political economy of Latin America. The book demonstrates that in Latin America, as in many other parts of the world, structural change and movements toward more just, inclusive and sustainable societies, seems impossible without the involvement of elites at some level. This book will be vital reading for researchers in political economy, development economics, economic sociology and Latin American studies more broadly.

BIM and 3D GIS Integration for Digital Twins

An Introduction

Mohsen Kalantari University of Melbourne, Christian Clemen HTWD-Dresden University, Mojgan Jadidi York University

Building Information Modelling (BIM) uses a combination of technologies and resources to capture, manage, analyze, and display a digital representation of the physical and functional characteristics of a facility. GIS offers tools for visualizing and analyzing the built and natural environments and their impacts on infrastructure systems such as land use, transportation, etc. This book offers a framework for how the geospatial and surveying industry can create and integrate BIM with GIS. Through practical implementation methods, readers will merge GIS data with design and BIM data, to enable digital twins.

Explainable Machine Learning for Geospatial Data Analysis

A Data Centric Approach

Courage Kamusoko AI.Geolabs, Machida, Tokyo, Japan

Explainable machine learning (XML), a subfield of AI, is focused on providing complex AI models that are understandable to humans. This book highlights and explains details of machine learning models used in geospatial data analysis. It demonstrates the need for a data-centric explainable machine learning approach for obtaining new insights from geospatial data. It presents the opportunities, challenges, and gaps in the machine and deep learning approaches for geospatial data analysis and how they are applied to solve various environmental problems in land cover changes. The author includes guidelines and code scripts (R, Python) valuable for practical readers.

Global Land Cover Validation

Methodology, Tools, and Practices

Edited by Jun Chen , Xiaohua Tong Tongji University, Shanghai, China, Huan Xie , Lijun Chen National Geomatics Center of China, Beijing, China, Songnian Li

Series: ISPRS Book Series

This book aims to summarize and report the major research achievements and validation results of the Global Land Cover initiative led by the Group of Earth Observation (GEO). Part 1 of the book looks at the major challenges facing the validation of finer resolution GLC maps and presents the concepts and overall framework of the initiative. Part 2 provides a systematic introduction of the major methodology for finer resolution GLC map validation. Part 3 introduces the online validation tools developed and part 4 presents international validation practices and the results of GlobeLand30 at country, regional and global scale. Future directions are also discussed.

Ground Based Synthetic Aperture Radar

Motoyuki Sato Tohoku University, Miyagi, Japan, Weike Feng , Yuta Izumi Muroran Institute of Technology, Japan, Amila Karunathilake

Series: SAR Remote Sensing

Ground Based Synthetic Aperture Radar (GB-SAR) is used to effectively mitigate natural disasters and monitor social infrastructures such as bridges, dams, and airport pavement surfaces. This book explains the fundamentals of radar technology, the principles of Synthetic Aperture Radar (SAR) image generation, and Interferometric SAR (InSAR) processing for observing small ground surface deformation less than 1 mm. The authors provide examples of GB-SAR used for landslide monitoring and vegetation, to show its potential and limitations. Understanding this advanced technology and its applications will help readers plan and install the GB-SAR systems in real-life projects.

Rebuilding the American Town

Design and Strategy at Small Scale

David Gamble Harvard University, USA, Patty Heyda

This book highlights how smaller municipalities are transforming to serve their communities and meet the future. Through case studies and interviews, the book uncovers creative planning and design strategies of nine U.S. towns as they rebuild to remain vibrant, equitable and viable in the face of metropolitan sprawl, population shifts, political division, economic shortfalls and climate change. The book provides a new lens for contemporary urbanism as it shifts thinking away from large-metro concerns, towards novel, tactical strategies that advance the quality of life for residents through design and policies that are scaled to the populations and places they serve.

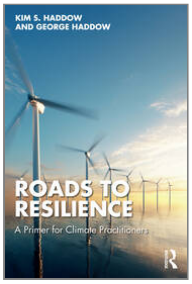
Roads to Resilience

A Primer for Climate Practitioners



Kim S. Haddow , George Haddow

America is getting serious about combatting the causes of the climate crisis, adapting to a climate-altered world and building resilience to future climate shocks. The steep increase in the frequency and severity of climate-related disasters over the last decade has been met with fresh approaches, unprecedented resources and an expanded set of stakeholders. The Road to Resilience: A Primer for Climate Practitioners is designed to provide climate practitioners and professionals with the information, examples and tools they need now to protect lives and property and to develop and implement the plans, programs and practices needed for our nation to survive and thrive.

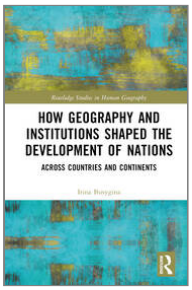
How Geography and Institutions Shaped the Development of Nations

Across Countries and Continents



Irina Busygina

Series: Routledge Studies in Human Geography

This book provides a concise and informative introduction to how geography and institutions shaped the development of nations, showing that while the role of institutions for the development of nations is indisputable, the role of geographic factors remains underexplored and underestimated. An essential read for researchers in a broad range of areas including international organizations and practitioners involved accelerating national development. This book will also be of interest to scholars and students in development studies, and more broadly to geography, comparative politics, and regional studies.

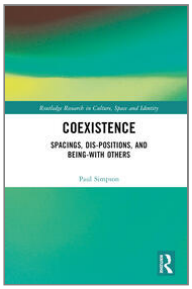
Coexistence

Spacings, Dis-positions, and Being-with Others



Paul Simpson

Series: Routledge Research in Culture, Space and Identity

This book aims to develop an account of living together with difference which recognises the tension that we are inescapably with others – both human and non-human – but at the same time are always differing from and with those with whom we find ourselves. A concern for coexistence and questions over how we might live together have been raised and approached from a host of conceptual starting points in recent times, including via calls for a rethinking of communism today, the articulation of forms of 'cosmopolitics' or 'pluralism', the re-figuring of understandings of ecology as dark or feminist, amongst others.

Migration and Race

Central and Eastern European Perspectives

Edited by Kasia Narkowicz , Anna Gawlewicz , Konrad Pędziwiatr Cracow University of Economics, Poland

Series: Regions and Cities

This book brings together a range of established and emerging scholars of Central and Eastern Europe (CEE) migration, race, whiteness and post- and decoloniality to explore these themes from/to and within Central and Eastern Europe. It showcases different aspects of racialisation processes, and how they intersect with class and gender, among others, in the context of CEE migrations. The decolonial perspective on these issues will contribute to urgent critical debates by providing in-depth cross-country insights beyond theoretical argumentation to a renewed global public debate on issues of race and migration.

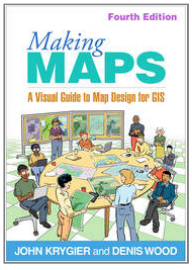
4TH EDITION

Making Maps, Fourth Edition

A Visual Guide to Map Design for GIS



John Krygier Ohio Wesleyan University, United States, Denis Wood

Prized for its creative design, original art, and playful, accessible writing, this text is now in a thoroughly updated fourth edition, restructured to emphasize the importance of the map making process. All components of map making are covered and are brought to life in the expanded graphic novella threaded through the text. Updates include new coverage of data aggregation, artificial intelligence, feminist and Indigenous perspectives, map making workflow, and more. Design choices are emphasized and linked to the reasons for making a map. With over 80 color illustrations, the book includes an annotated map exemplar used throughout the text, extensive map examples, and a companion website.

Community-Led Development in Practice

We Power our Own Change

Edited by Elene Cloete , Gunjan Veda

Series: Rethinking Development

In the last decade, the international development sector has been re-examining its ways of thinking, being, and doing, and we have seen a growing consensus around the need to centre communities in development. However, there is little clarity on what such centring entails and how it can be achieved. This book addresses this gap by highlighting what community-led practices look like and how they compare across different sociocultural and organisational landscapes. The book will interest funders, organisations and practitioners, as well as policy makers, students, and researchers looking for non-western, non-dominant, everyday stories of change.

Forced Migration and Humanitarian Action

Operational Challenges and Solutions for Supporting People on the Move

Edited by Lorenzo Guadagno , Lisette R. Robles

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

Forced population movements are a defining feature of almost any humanitarian crisis, shaping the design, targeting, and delivery of emergency responses. This book investigates how the evolving situation of different forced migrants is accounted for and addressed in humanitarian action in order to improve their access to support and assistance. This book adopts a broad perspective on humanitarian action, acknowledging how its boundaries are challenged and expanded in forced migration contexts. Its operational and theoretical insights will be useful for a range of readers, from humanitarian and migration researchers and students to practitioners and policymakers.

How Close is Close? Assessing Uganda's Progressive Refugee Policy in the Era of COVID-19

Edited by Marco d'Errico , Donato Romano University of Florence, Italy, Paul Winters

The chapters in this book assess Uganda's progressive refugee policy with reference to how it functioned in the era of COVID-19. They focus on the following three main areas: (i) the economic relationship and coexistence between host and refugees' communities; (ii) the success and sustainability of the current model of assistance; and (iii) the response to COVID-19 on communities' welfare and long-term prospects. This book assesses Uganda's progressive refugee policy with reference to how it functioned in the era of COVID-19 using a unique panel data collected between 2017 and 2021. It was originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Development Studies.

Understanding Inequality in China

The Contribution of the Chinese General Social Survey

Edited by Xiaogang Wu NYU Shanghai, China, Jia Miao

This edited volume provides an overview of inequality and stratification in contemporary China. A rare and timely resource, it presents key research on the topic published in Chinese Sociological Review from 2011 to 2023, using one or multiple waves of Chinese General Social Survey (CGSS) data, reflecting the advancement of the field over the past decade. This collection significantly advances the understanding of Chinese social stratification, extending far beyond scholars' initial interests in the social consequences of the market transition.

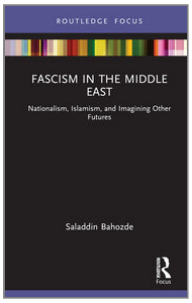
Fascism in the Middle East

Nationalism, Islamism, and Imagining Other Futures



Saladdin Bahozde

Series: Routledge Focus on Modern Subjects

Following decades of brutal campaigns against left forces, fascism has been dominating Turkish, Iranian, and Arab politics for over half a century. Today, Islamism subordinates peoples in the Middle East. Bearing the urgency of our times, Saladdin Bahozde problematizes all forms of fascist exclusionism in the region, while drawing attention to anti-fascist resistance and progressive alternatives there. As a critique of identitarianism and right-wing politics in the Middle East and North Africa, the work calls for a global movement, as endorsed by the peoples of the region, to go beyond nationalism and Islamism.

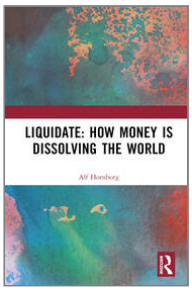
Liquidate: How Money is Dissolving the World



Alf Hornborg Lund University, Sweden.

Liquidate: How Money is Dissolving the World examines the emergence of money and its social and ecological repercussions. It shows how changes in human-environmental relations have reflected changes in social relations generated by money, and how fetishized understandings of money and technologies cannot deal with the escalating production of entropy underlying climate change. It will be of interest to scholars working in anthropology, sociology, economics, history, semiotics, comparative religions, and indigenous studies.

Mythologizing the Past

Archaeology, History, and Ideology

Sean Rafferty University of Albany, USA

This book examines the origins, development, and current state of myths surrounding 'lost civilizations' and, more importantly, how these myths contribute to modern political ideologies. It describes how at every stage pseudohistory has been used to reinforce and reproduce dominant ideologies by marginalizing subordinate groups in favor of social elites. This book is ideal not only for the general reader interested in world history, but also for courses across the humanities, including pseudoarcheology, historiographic and scientific methods, and classics.

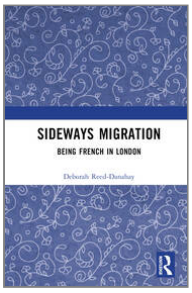
Sideways Migration

Being French in London



Deborah Reed-Danahay

This book examines the relationship between migration and socioeconomic status. In particular, it charts a set of middle-class aspirations that lead people to move to a nearby nation that is similar in wealth and social indicators – a type of horizontal relocation that it terms "sideways migration." It will be key reading for scholars and students interested in emigration and migration from anthropology, sociology, geography, political science, history, and international studies.

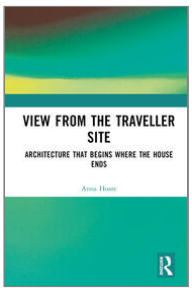
View from the Traveller Site

Architecture that Begins where the House Ends



Anna Hoare

'Traveller-specific' architecture in Ireland and permanently 'temporary' sites in the UK embody an insoluble contradiction - as systems of control, policing and strategic neglect, and as a cultural right, an alternative to housing that recognizes the dignity of choice. This exploration of the productivity of post-nomadic architecture, culture and sociality will be of particular interest to scholars of anthropology as well as architecture, geography, and material and visual culture.

Consuming Bodies

Body Commodification and Embodiment in Late Capitalist Societies

Edited by Jackie Hogan , Sarah Whetstone

Consuming Bodies: Body Commodification and Embodiment in Late Capitalist Societies explores the ways our bodies are increasingly commodified, from before birth to after death, through both long-standing forms of commodification and newer forms. As this diverse range of topics demonstrates, body commodification reaches increasingly into every realm of our lives, from our most intimate experiences to encounters with pop culture, the "beauty" industries, the medical-industrial complex, and the state.

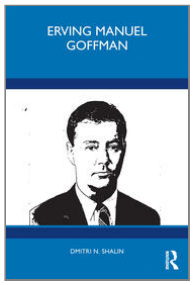
Erving Manuel Goffman

Biographical Sources of Sociological Imagination



Dmitri N. Shalin

This book, the first comprehensive biography of Goffman, shows how key turns in Goffman's career reflected dramatic events in his family and personal history. It is based on the materials gathered in the Erving Goffman Archives, a repository curated by the author who has been collecting documents and conducting interviews with Goffman's relatives, colleagues, and friends. The archival work turned up documents which improve our understanding of Goffman the scholar, the teacher, and the man. The approach adopted in this investigation sheds new light on Goffman's scholarship which has had an enormous and continuous impact across the social sciences and humanities.

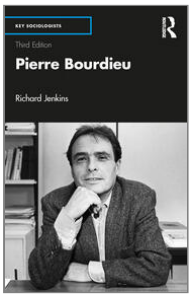
3RD EDITION

Pierre Bourdieu



Richard Jenkins University of Sheffield, UK

Series: Key Sociologists

This short critical introduction to Pierre Bourdieu's thought has been comprehensively brought up to date for the third edition. Where Bourdieu's own writings are often complex, even ambiguous, Richard Jenkins is direct, concise and to the point. Emphasizing Bourdieu's contributions to sociological and anthropological epistemology, Jenkins also deals in detail with Bourdieu's substantive studies of education, social stratification, cultural consumption, language, and rural society in transition. A model of clarity and insight, this book offers an accessible introduction to Bourdieu's work for students, scholars, and all those interested in social thought.

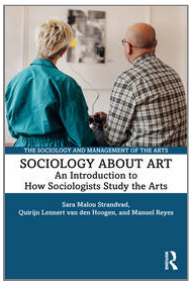
Sociology about Art

An Introduction to How Sociologists Study the Arts



Sara Malou Strandvad University of Groningen, The Netherlands, Quirijn Lennert van den Hoogen University of Groningen, The Netherlands, Manuel Reyes University of Groningen, The Netherlands

Series: The Sociology and Management of the Arts

For sociologists, making, distributing, and using art and cultural products constitute social practices, yet, sociologists disagree on how to investigate these practices. Organized around three main schools of thought - critical sociology, symbolic interactionism and social systems theory - Sociology About Art serves as an introduction to and a self-reflective discussion about how sociologists study the Arts. A vital resource for students seeking to understand sociological discourses surrounding art and set up their own research projects, Sociology about Art will appeal to scholars and students of sociology with interests in the arts and cultural policy.

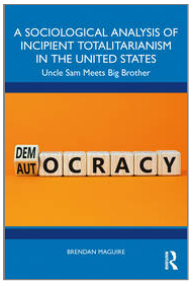
A Sociological Analysis of Incipient Totalitarianism in the United States

Uncle Sam Meets Big Brother



Brendan Maguire

A Sociological Analysis of Incipient Totalitarianism in the United States advances a groundbreaking sociological explanation for how totalitarian rule is embraced by the public when freedom, equality, and justice are compromised, offering a sociological explanation of how totalitarian rule is operationalized from the macro level to the micro level, using concepts associated with Marx (ruling ideas), Mead (generalized other) and Berger and Luckmann (recipe knowledge) which are especially key to understanding the process. Finally, the book suggests policies that could halt and reverse the progression of totalitarianism in the United States.

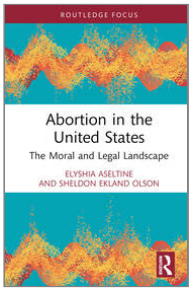
Abortion in the United States

The Moral and Legal Landscape



Elyshia Aseltine , Sheldon Ekland Olson

This book explores the seismic shift brought about by the 2022 US Supreme Court decision in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, which dramatically changed the constitutional standing of abortion decisions set in place by Roe v. Wade fifty years earlier. The authors describe the history of US Supreme Court decision-making around abortion and some of its attendant considerations, including the constitutional right to privacy, moral obligations to protect life, and determinations about when life begins. This text is designed for undergraduate students across a range of academic disciplines.

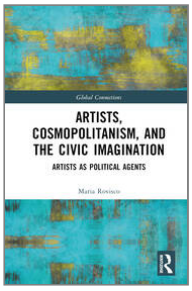
Artists, Cosmopolitanism, and the Civic Imagination

Artists as Political Agents



Maria Rovisco University of Leeds, UK

Series: Global Connections

Artists, Cosmopolitanism, and the Civic Imagination unpacks the political agency of artists by looking at artists as moral, reflexive, and political agents. Maria Rovisco draws from in-depth interviews with UK-based visual artists and theatre practitioners with a migrant background, and semiotic analysis of a theatre play, visual artworks, and film texts, to argue that artists are quintessential cosmopolitans who care deeply about changing society for the better. This book will be of interest for scholars across the social sciences and the humanities with interests in migration, citizenship and the public sphere, cultural sociology, media and culture, cosmopolitanism, and art.

Guidebook for Aligning Practices and Steering Multi-System Change

From Intervention to Social Change II

Triin Vihalemm , Margit Keller University of Tartu, Estonia, Maie Kiisel

Series: Solving Social Problems

Building on the work of the authors' previous volume, the book "Guidebook for aligning practices and steering multi-system change" translates cutting-edge theoretical concepts into the language and applied toolkits of change practitioners. Empirically grounded and theoretically sophisticated book provides policy makers and change managers methods and toolkits for conceptual modelling of change when handling cross-sectoral issues. The authors both 'zoom in' to the granular unfolding change of everyday life and 'zoom out' to examine the 'big picture' of socio-technical systems such as energy, mobility, food and healthcare.

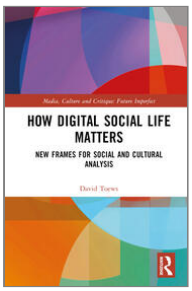
How Digital Social Life Matters

New Frames for Social and Cultural Analysis



David Toews University of Groningen, The Netherlands

Series: Media, Culture and Critique: Future Imperfect

Focusing on two concepts that were central to modernism and continue to be important, albeit in different ways, this book explores the nature of the simple and the complex, and the relationship that exists between them. With attention the relationship between theory and methods, it offers a critical phenomenology of experiences associated with the network society and networked individualism in an era of 'big data'. As such, it will appeal to social theorists, communication scholars, and philosophers with interests in the fields of relational sociology, digital media, and object-oriented ontology.

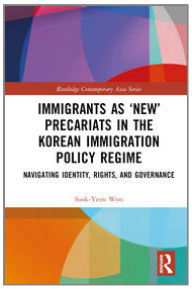
Immigrants as 'New' Precariats in the Korean Immigration Policy Regime

Navigating Identity, Rights, and Governance



Sook-Yeon Won Ehwa Womans University, South Korea

Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Won explores the untold story of immigration in South Korea through a new precariat lens. Unlike traditional narratives, this book sheds light on the complexities of Korea's evolving immigration landscape, offering readers a fresh, multidimensional perspective. Coupled with a triadic focus, it provides a comparative analysis between Western and Asian countries, offering insights into shared experiences and unique nuances shaping immigration realities. A unique read for academics, undergraduates, and postgraduates in the fields of Asian studies, public administration, immigration, political science, sociology, and comparative policy studies.

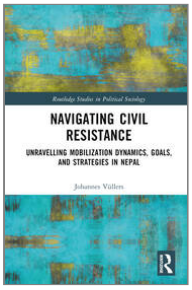
Navigating Civil Resistance

Unravelling Mobilization Dynamics, Goals, and Strategies in Nepal



Johannes Vüllers University Duisburg-Essen, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology

Navigating Civil Resistance focuses on the mobilization dynamics of numerous non-campaign or non-organizing groups in times of civil resistance, developing a theoretical framework that offers an account of nonviolent and violent resistance campaigns as sustainable challenges to the current political system. An original contribution to our understanding of the societal dynamics of civil resistance – which is characteristic of many countries in the global south – Navigating Civil Resistance will appeal to scholars of sociology and politics working at the intersection of contentious politics, civil resistance, and peace and conflict studies.

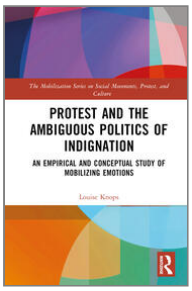
Protest and the Ambiguous Politics of Indignation

An Empirical and Conceptual Study of Mobilizing Emotions



Louise Knops Université Catholique de Louvain and at Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Belgium

Series: The Mobilization Series on Social Movements, Protest, and Culture

Drawing on fieldwork among four movements in Belgium (2017-2021) – The Youth for Climate movement, the Citizen platform for refugee support, the Yellow Vests movement and the radical-right movement Schild & Vrienden - this book investigates both the meanings and implications of indignation in the context of mobilization. In particular, it argues that what is often reduced to a form of 'moral anger' which triggers protest is in fact much more complex and ambiguous. Indignation is not just anger: it is rooted in hate and love. This book will appeal to scholars and students of sociology and politics with interests in social movements, contentious politics and social mobilization.

Situated Mixedness

Understanding Migration-Related Intimate Diversity in Belgium

Edited by Asuncion Fresnoza-Flot Catholic University of Louvain, Belgium

Series: Routledge Advances in Critical Diversities

Drawing from empirically grounded studies, the volume Situated Mixedness sheds light on the state of migration-related "intimate diversity", that is, the simultaneous formation and existence of various configurations of conjugal mixedness. It examines this phenomenon in Belgium, a country in the European Union with a long history of immigration and where an important percentage of registered marriages are international. It will be of interest to scholars, students, and social actors working on family-related migration, state policies, and social cohesion.

Social Scientists in the Civic Space

Ethical Perspectives on Democratic Involvement

Edited by Arundhati Virmani , Jean Boutier , Manohar Kumar

Series: Ethics, Human Rights and Global Political Thought

The book explores the stakes for the social sciences around four central problems: the challenges of context; modes of intervention; involvement; and the ethical dilemmas for the scholar in a democratic space. It examines the variety of situations confronted by scholars since the beginning of the 20th century; these include their interventions in key judicial affairs, the impact of technological developments like the introduction of big data, or even the positionality of the scholar.

Seeing Like a Platform

An Inquiry into the Condition of Digital Modernity

Petter Törnberg University of Amsterdam, Netherlands, Justus Uitermark University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

Series: Complexity in Social Science

The proposition at the heart of Seeing Like a Platform is that digital technology brings new metaphors through which power operates. While industrial modernity saw society as a machinery to be designed according to detailed blueprints, digital modernity views society as organic and alive, to be herded and nudged through digital infrastructures, AI, and algorithms. It explores the history, meaning and far-reaching consequences of this epistemological shift. Accessibly written and broad ranging, it is essential reading for scholars, students, and practitioners in fields such as sociology, political science, urban studies, and technology studies.

Temporary Migration

Category of Analysis or Category of Practice?

Edited by Anna Triandafyllidou European University Institute, Italy

Series: Research in Ethnic and Migration Studies

This book proposes a new analytical framework that brings together the role of policies defining migrants as temporary and the role of migrant's own agency in perceiving their migration project as temporary or permanent. The proposed analytical framework is conceived taking into account both low-skill and high-skilled, legal and irregular migratory flows, and also different visa and citizenship regimes. It was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies.

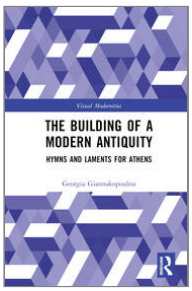
The Building of a Modern Antiquity

Hymns and Laments for Athens



Georgia Giannakopoulou ACG-Deree, The American College of Greece

Series: Visual Modernities

This book considers post-19th-century Athens as a unique instance of a secret side of metropolitan capitalism. With a focus on modern antiquity as the hidden element of the dialectic between the past and the present, it suggests that the sociological study of one of the great European capital cities – a city not intended as a modern capital – and its architectural representations may expose part of the veiled processes of the reconstruction of the past, thus shedding light on the abuse of antiquity for the celebration of European capitalist metropolitan modernity.

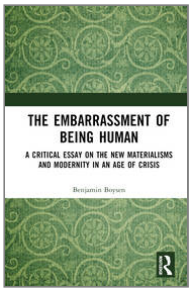
The Embarrassment of Being Human

A Critical Essay on the New Materialisms and Modernity in an Age of Crisis



Benjamin Boysen

The Embarrassment of Being Human demonstrates how the new materialisms are beset by grave theoretical and practical inconsistencies and self-contradictions, and how their demand for humans to step down and allow for an emancipation of things qualifies the new materialisms as a metaphysics of neoliberalism that reproduces and fortifies the self-contradictions rampant in the current neoliberal hegemony. Theoretically and practically flawed, and extravagantly ill-equipped and inadequate to confront our current predicaments, the clear success of the new materialisms forces us to ponder with Marx what it is in an epoch that creates the demand for illusions.

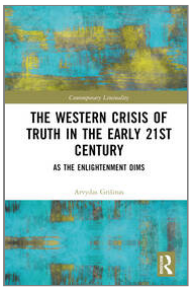
The Western Crisis of Truth in the Early 21st Century

As the Enlightenment Dims



Arvydas Grišinas

Series: Contemporary Liminality

The Western Crisis of Truth in the Early 21st Century explores the symbolic, experiential, and associative side of contemporary political culture, arguing that phenomena such as 'post-truth', digitalization, mediatization, propaganda, illiberalism or populism, far from being curiosities, have in fact come to represent a uniform aspect of political culture - a challenge to the 'enlightened', 'developed' and 'progressive' world that we believed ourselves to be inhabiting. Towards A Sociology of Hope

Looking Beyond

Guido Gili University of Molise, Italy, Emiliana Mangone University of Salerno, Italy

Series: Classical and Contemporary Social Theory

Why does hope appear in certain epochs and places, only at other times to disappear from people's lives and from society as a whole? This book addresses hope from a sociological perspective, offering a theoretical framework and a set of concepts to consider a range of questions. An enquiry into the relationship between hope and social, cultural, economic and political conditions, this volume redirects the sociological gaze towards the discovery of social experiences in which hope resurrects and contributes to the imagination of a new social world. It will therefore appeal to scholars of sociology and social theory with interests in the emotions, social practices and social movements.

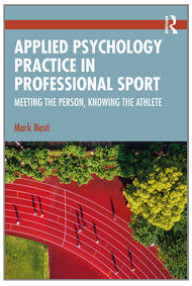
Applied Psychology Practice in Professional Sport

Meeting the Person, Knowing the Athlete



Mark Nesti Liverpool John Moores University, UK

Applied Psychology Practice in Professional Sport is the first text to draw directly on psychological work delivered over many years to individual players and staff inside English Premier League Football as well as other professional sports, such as cricket, tennis, and golf. A key feature is the use of examples from the author's applied practice, to demonstrate that many psychological terms and words used in the "lived world" of high-level professional sport, can be understood with greater depth and meaning where these are informed by more holistic perspectives such as existential, phenomenological, transpersonal and humanistic psychology.

Continental Perspectives on the Geopolitical Economy of Football

Edited by Simon Chadwick SKEMA Business School, France, Paul Widdop Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, Michael M. Goldman University of San Francisco, USA

This book explores continental perspectives on football's new geopolitical economy, examining how sport, politics, and the global economy have emerged in different parts of the world. Against a backdrop of international conflict and the rise of powerful new state actors in world sport, the book delves into countries and cases that explore how football investments and events have become instruments of soft power and industrial development, and how football plays an increasingly significant role in global politics and international relations. This is essential reading for anyone interested in sport, political economy, international politics, globalization, or development.

Physiological and Functional Assessment of Professional Football Players

Edited by Moisés de Hoyo , Borja Sañudo , Redha Taiar , Luis Carrasco Páez

Physiological and Functional Assessment of Professional Football Players presents a science-based approach to enhance athletes' performance and prevent muscle injuries. Professional football players undergo a rigorous competitive season with frequent and numerous competitions, exposing them to significant stress that can detrimentally affect their performance and lead to serious injuries in extreme cases. In order to avert such negative outcomes, coaches and team staff must formulate preventive training programs tailored to the unique characteristics and needs of each player.

Biophysical Economy

Theory, Challenges, and Sustainability

Steven M. Bartell University of Tennessee

Series: Applied Ecology and Environmental Management

This book explores the concept of transforming the current macroeconomic system from one based on continuous growth that doesn't recognize the fundamental importance of Earth's natural support structures, to a system consistent with the basic views of biophysical economics that acknowledges that all real wealth ultimately derives from planetary resources, both renewable and non-renewable. It describes how data and information collected by various institutions, government agencies, and the private sector, can be integrated with existing management structures to transform the "continuous growth" economy into an economy that functions within understandable boundaries on a finite planet.

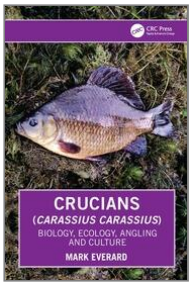
Crucians (Carassius carassius)

Biology, Ecology, Angling and Culture



Mark Everard UWE Bristol

The crucian is a freshwater fish species seeing a renaissance of interest in angling and conservation communities in Britain. Despite its wide northern European and western Asian distribution, the species is under threat from multiple causes including the decimation of the small pond habitats upon which they depend. The species providing a charismatic focus supporting the protection and restoration of these highly threatened and much-reduced habitat types. The book takes a comprehensive approach, covering biology, ecology, angling and cultural connections, supported by a bibliography and beautiful colour imagery.

Heterotopia, Radical Imagination, and Liberated Animals

Manifesting Futures of Shattered Orders

Edited by Paula Arcari Edge Hill University

Series: Routledge Human-Animal Studies Series

This volume takes ending the oppression of other animals seriously and confronts the question, 'What would happen to all the animals?' by showcasing real, promissory, and imagined counter-sites or heterotopia where animals 'happen' in different ways, free of anthropocentric orders of value and purpose. Heterotopia, Radical Imagination, and Shattering Orders will appeal to scholars, students, and individuals interested not only in challenging normalised binaries, hierarchies and orders of value, both human and nonhuman, but in creating and realising liberatory alternatives.

The Ecopoetics of War

Edited by Sylvain Belluc , Isabelle Brasme , Guillaume Tanguy

Series: Routledge Studies in World Literatures and the Environment

The Ecopoetics of War explores the interrelationality of human and non-human entities in the context of conflict as it is recorded in literature and culture. This collection of essaysdemonstrates the specific and fertile role of literature in representations of war, as it foregrounds the manifold ways in which the borders between human and non-human, including flora, fauna, and technology, become porous, thus questioning traditional onto-epistemological and ethical categories.

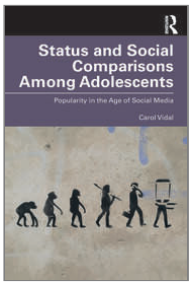
Status and Social Comparisons Among Adolescents

Popularity in the Age of Social Media



Carol Vidal

This insightful book examines the differences in the perception of social status and how they impact youth mental health and well-being. Looking at social status from a developmental perspective, the author explores the expansion of opportunities for social comparison and complex social hierarchies driven by social media use. Focusing on how social status is ever-present across species in the animal world, the book begins by exploring the biology of social status, the biological mechanisms by which it affects health, and how it presents in the spaces in which children and adolescents live e.g., schools, neighbourhoods, and cultures.

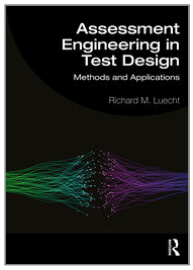
Assessment Engineering in Test Design

Methods and Applications



Richard Luecht UNGC- Greensboro

This book presents an engineering-inspired, multi-disciplinary approach to the field of applied measurement that bridges the gap between the craft of item writing and test design, the statistical sophistication of psychometric methods for scale development and maintenance, and score interpretations. It directly addresses the topic of "next generation" assessment design head-on by proposing a new perspective, a new understanding, of the challenge of designing, developing and implementing large (and small) scale educational testing programs. It is an essential reading for all students of psychology and related disciplines as well as test developers and psychometricians.

Attention and Cognition

Current Issues and Recent Approaches

Edited by Ramesh Kumar Mishra , Seema Prasad

This volume explores the psychology of attention and discusses the various cognitive processes that determine what we pay attention to. Much of our conscious moments are spent interacting with visual objects that we attend to and integrate into our consciousness. This book examines how we navigate this complex world of real and virtual objects and provides a comprehensive overview of the concept of attention and cognition.

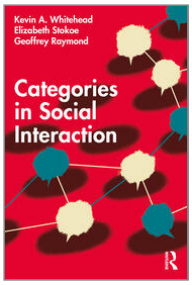
Categories in Social Interaction



Kevin A. Whitehead , Elizabeth Stokoe , Geoffrey Raymond

This seminal work explores how interaction structures and practices systematically shape and challenge social categories, highlighting their role and significance in social life. Across its ten chapters, the book describes a conversation analytic approach to studying categories and categorization, charts the development and history of membership categorization analysis, and addresses core methodological challenges and practices associated with using this approach. After mapping out the new framework developed in the book, each chapter describes intersections between categorial phenomena and the domains that comprise the infrastructure of social interaction.

Coping with Covid

Insights from Cognition and Emotion Research

Edited by Sander L. Koole , Klaus Rothermund

This book addresses how coping with the pandemic has been shaped by the interplay between cognition and emotion. The various contributions to this book explore the impacts of the pandemic on: a) How people were confronted with new risks and realities; b) Active processes of emotional resilience and ruminative coping; and c) Moral decision-making. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Cognition and Emotion.

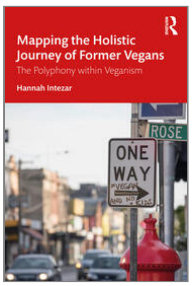
Mapping the Holistic Journey of Former Vegans

The Polyphony within Veganism



Hannah Intezar

This book explores veganism through the holistic journeys and lived experiences of former vegans, with a particular focus on the impact this has on their selfhood and identity. It delves into the complexities underpinning definitions of veganism and vegan identities. Chapters explore the diverse experiences of former vegans and offer an insight into the interviewees' embodied and experience with veganism, divided into three distinct moments of beginning, middle, and end. It is intended for scholars and postgraduate students interested in veganism, selfhood and identity, behaviour change and anyone looking to understand the context of veganism in practice.

Mathematical Psychology

The World of Thoughts as a Quantum Space-Time with a Gravitational Core

Norbert Schwarzer

A drawback of standard approaches to try and understand the world of feelings such as love, hate, fear, and anger plus consciousness via quantum concepts results from the old problem that Quantum Theory does not appear to be fully compatible with Einstein's General Theory of Relativity. To overcome these difficulties, we explicitly tried to avoid "pushing" any existing theory into the comprehension of the human mind and all its derivatives.

Pattern Theory

Memory, Interpretation, Understanding, Meaning

Rachel H. Ellaway

Pattern Theory is a groundbreaking exploration of the concept of pattern across a range of disciplines, including science, neuroscience, psychology, and social sciences. This book examines the meaning and implications of pattern, presenting a comprehensive body of theory that unifies concepts of form, order, and regularity and connects them to memory and perception. By challenging existing orthodoxies and linking evidence from brain and mind function, it outlines a robust theoretical framework around pattern searching and matching, pattern activation, and the continuity of pattern nexuses and branes.

The Heredity Hoax

Challenging Flawed Genetic Theories of Human Development

Edited by Richard M. Lerner , Gary Greenberg

This innovative and thought-provoking book integrates both new, authored material and reprints of existing literature that, together, provide a compelling narrative that reveals the fatally flawed science associated with genetic reductionist accounts of human behaviour and development. The Heredity Hoax invites graduate schools and advanced undergraduate courses on human development, human potential, epigenetics and more to delve into the intricate interplay between genes, environment, and personal growth. This will also serve as an unimpeachable source of evidence for researchers, educators, and social policymakers.

The Microgenetic Theory of Mind and Brain

Selected Essays in Process Psychology

Edited by Jason W. Brown , Denys Zhadiaiev , Paul Stenner

This book asks where ideas, objects and feelings come from and how they arise via an exploration of the nature of subjective experience and its relation to the world. In contrast to the conception of mental events as non-temporal logical solids, it explores a diachronic processual theory founded on psychological data and clinical observation that provides an explanatory "system" of thought. The chapters deal with the origins of human subjectivity and the epochal nature of time and duration, change and the relevance of a theory of the mental state to dream, and the waking present. This book advances a theory of mind and brain that brings together previous, fragmentary research studies.

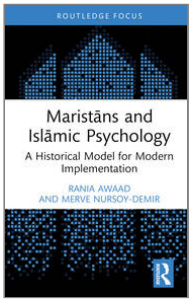
Maristāns and Islāmic Psychology

A Historical Model for Modern Implementation



Rania Awaad , Merve Nursoy-Demir

Series: Islamic Psychology and Psychotherapy

The book outlines how the novel methods, tools, and approaches for treating psychological illnesses developed in the maristāns (hospitals) of the Muslim world can be utilized today in formulating a practical implementation of Islāmic Psychology. As a trademark of the Islāmic Civilization, the maristāns were institutions of healing that boasted the world's first treatment centers for treating psychological illnesses. They also served as the center where theoretical concepts developed by early Muslim scholars— physicians, theologians, and philosophers— who contributed to the creation of Islāmic Psychology were translated into practical, clinical applications.

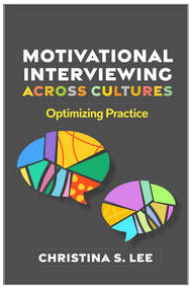
Motivational Interviewing across Cultures

Optimizing Practice



Christina S. Lee Boston University, United States

This pragmatic guide describes tested ways to adapt motivational interviewing (MI) to optimize outcomes when practitioner and client come from different cultural backgrounds; in particular, when clients are members of marginalized groups. Using rich examples and sample dialogues, Christina S. Lee shows how affirming a client's cultural identity is part and parcel of MI's humanistic, person-centered mindset. The book provides instruction on key therapeutic tasks, such as strengthening rapport, asking about culture without stereotyping, and inquiring about experiences of stigma and discrimination in a way that increases motivation to change.

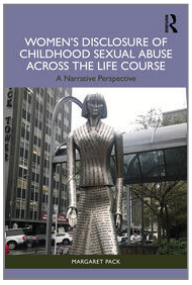
Women's Disclosure of Childhood Sexual Abuse Across the Life Course

A Narrative Perspective



Margaret Pack Otago University of Wellington, New Zealand

Taking a narrative approach, this book explores the role of disclosure in sexual abuse recovery for women survivors of child sexual abuse. Drawing on longitudinal research with sexual abuse therapists and de-identified cases drawn from her clinical practice, Pack emphasises the unique value of both a narrative and life course approach to the topic of sexual abuse recovery. With a focus on the Australasian context, this book is a resourceful guide for mental health professionals and practitioners who work in the field of sexual abuse recovery, as well as those who work with women in refuge situations and other health and well-being services.

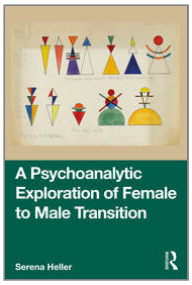
A Psychoanalytic Exploration of Female to Male Transition



Serena Heller

Drawing on theory from a range of schools of psychoanalytic thought, this timely book addresses and explores the phenomenon of the increasing number of people who were assigned female at birth and now identify as male, and what might underly the cultural pull to remove femaleness from self and body. Empathetic in its approach and thorough in its conceptualisation, this volume is a vital resource for psychodynamic and psychoanalytic psychotherapists working directly with trans patients, and with those experiencing gender dysphoria and issues of sexual identity.

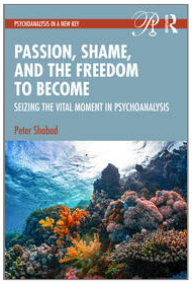
Passion, Shame, and the Freedom to Become

Seizing The Vital Moment in Psychoanalysis



Peter Shabad

Series: Psychoanalysis in a New Key

This book examines how humans can overcome feelings of shame through self-acceptance and regain their innate passion and freedom to grow. Peter Shabad examines in detail how self-shaming and passivity are intertwined with the fatalism of self-pity, envy, resentment, and ultimately, regret for not "seizing the vital moments" in life. This book is a must read for psychoanalysts, psychotherapists, and anyone interested in developing a deeper understanding of the dynamics of shame and passion in our lives.

What Alive Means

Psychoanalytic Explorations

Thomas H. Ogden

Internationally acclaimed for the clarity of his writing and thinking, Ogden radically reconceives psychoanalysis as a therapeutic process in which a person comes not only to better know him- or herself, but to more fully become him- or herself. Building on Ogden's own highly influential work on the nature of psychoanalysis, this book is essential reading for all psychoanalysts and other readers interested in expanding their understanding of contemporary analytic thinking and clinical practice.

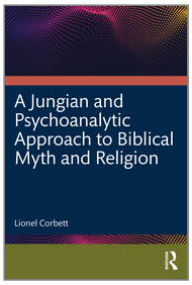
A Jungian and Psychoanalytic Approach to Biblical Myth and Religion



Lionel Corbett

This book describes some of the major psychological processes that underpin various biblical stories and some of the theological speculation to which they have given rise. Psychological biblical criticism, as described here, is suggested as an alternative or supplement to historical-cultural, textual, philological, literary, and other types of biblical criticism. This book will be of value to practicing psychotherapists and analysts, particularly those who treat patients with a religious background, as well as trainees, clergy, and graduate students in this area.

A New Approach to Psi

Re-Envisioning Paranormal Experience as Meaningful Coincidence

Lance Storm The University of Adelaide, Australia

This book critiques conventional parapsychological viewpoints about extrasensory perception (ESP) and psychokinesis (PK), collectively referred to as 'psi'. This book considers problems with terminology, findings and the psi construct from a Jungian synchronistic standpoint, which gives credence to issues such as archetypes, meaningfulness, and numinosity. An important new contribution to the understanding of psi, this book will be of interest to practitioners and researchers working in the disciplines of psychology, parapsychology, consciousness studies, and physics, especially quantum mechanics.

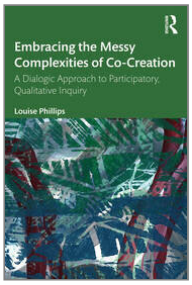
Embracing the Messy Complexities of Co-Creation

A Dialogic Approach to Participatory, Qualitative Inquiry



Louise Phillips

This book offers an approach which recognises - and embraces - the messy complexities of co-creation. The approach is constructive – it revolves around creating openings for multiple voices; and, in particular, the voices of people with lived experience. And it is critical – it involves integrating critical, reflexive analyses of the intrinsic tensions in co-creation into the practice of research. The book brings participatory research into dialogue with poststructuralist, social constructionist and new materialist, posthumanist strands of qualitative inquiry.

Children's Palliative Nursing Care

Edited by Duncan Randall , Susan Neilson , Julia Downing

Nursing is an essential component of children's palliative care and palliative care is an essential aspect of nursing. Yet the complex inter disciplinary nature of palliative care brings into sharp focus the work nurses undertake with others in delivering palliative care. This is, however, a book by nurses for nurses. Uniquely each chapter has been written by a team of authors who come from both high income and low/middle income countries. This makes this not just a book by nurses for nurses but a global book for global nursing practice.

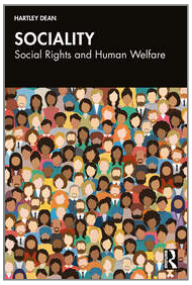
Sociality

Social Rights and Human Welfare



Hartley Dean

This book develops a very particular concept of sociality: a holistic way of understanding how human beings have come to care about and collectively provide for their welfare as a species and to recognise each other's needs in terms of shared social rights. It tells not so much a success story as a hopeful story. It is a book about the connections between social rights and human welfare; between theory and practice; between debate and reality in the spheres of human service provision and human livelihoods.

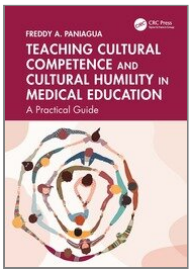
Teaching Cultural Competence and Cultural Humility in Medical Education

A Practical Guide



Freddy A. Paniagua

Training in multicultural issues is an area of increasing focus in medical education internationally. In the United States specifically, the specific inclusion of the topic in training programs is among the key criteria established by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education (LCME) for approval of schools of medicine, where Standard 7.6 deals with 'Structural Competence, Cultural Competence, and Health Inequities'. This new textbook provides a culturally sensitive framework to address the major elements in the LCME Standard 7.6 and to address related requirements for including multicultural issues in the curriculums of medical schools around the world.

Agricultural Crop Improvement

Plant and Soil Relationships

Edited by Azamal Husen Wolaita Sodo University, Ethiopia

Larger amounts of nutritious food are required to feed the growing world population, which is a great challenge due to water shortages and reduced crop plants yield. To overcome this issue, there must be improvement in crop plant production systems. Agricultural Crop Improvement: Plant and Soil Relationships addresses key issues of crop plants yield and production, with molecular and physiological interventions to evolve future strategies that will overcome these challenges faced by the agricultural sector.

Food Security and Nutrition

Utilizing Undervalued Food Plants

Edited by Callistus Bvenura , Learnmore Kambizi

Food Security and Nutrition: Utilizing Undervalued Food Plants explores the potential of indigenous food plants to enhance food and nutrition security amid global challenges such as climate change, water scarcity, and population growth. The book reviews innovative farming techniques like the Organic Medium-Enclosed Trough system and hydroponics, which improve crop yield and nutrient content while conserving resources. Additionally, it addresses the commercialization potential of indigenous fruits and wild herbal teas, emphasizing their market value and health benefits. The book also discusses the reduction of goitrogenic compounds in certain crops to mitigate health risks.

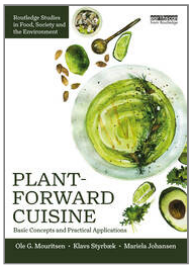
Plant-Forward Cuisine

Basic Concepts and Practical Applications



Ole G. Mouritsen , Klavs Styrbæk

Series: Routledge Studies in Food, Society and the Environment

This book promotes the environmental and health benefits of a plant-forward diet and will inspire readers with a range of exciting recipes. To ensure that there is enough food for a growing world population, to lessen the burden on the environment, and to promote healthier, sustainable eating patterns, it is crucial to transition to a diet that focuses primarily on plants as the key ingredients. The book includes a glossary of main ingredients and a compilation of taste-enhancing ingredients. It will interest those concerned with sustainable food systems and serve as a practical guide for transitioning to plant-rich diets without compromising taste.

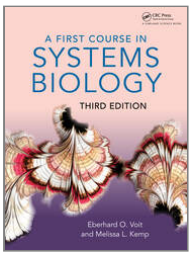
A First Course in Systems Biology



Eberhard Voit Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, USA, Melissa L. Kemp

A First Course in Systems Biology is an introduction to the growing field of systems biology for advanced undergraduates and grad students. Its focus is the design and analysis of computational models and their applications to diverse biomedical phenomena, from simple networks to complex pathway systems, signal transduction, and interacting populations. This third edition has been thoroughly updated. It provides an introduction to agent-based and multiscale modeling, a deeper account of biological design principles and the optimization of metabolic flux distributions. It also discusses novel topics of synthetic biology, personalized medicine and virtual clinical trials.

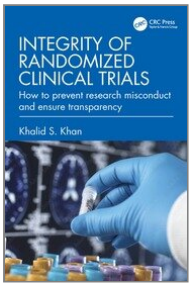
Integrity of Randomized Clinical Trials

How to prevent research misconduct and ensure transparency



Khalid S. Khan

Today scientists are expected to be more accountable and transparent than at any time in history. Globally the pursuit of knowledge creation enjoys a place of distinction, and the public expects to reap considerable benefit from the innovative contributions made by researchers. It is therefore more important than ever that ethics, transparency and professionalism explicitly guide research integrity. This new book provides a curriculum to address this gap, offering best practice guidelines to improve the quality, openness and trustworthiness of clinical trials and filling a current void in the market.

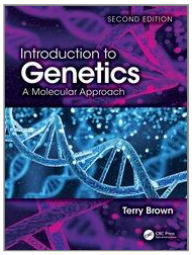
2ND EDITION

Introduction to Genetics

A Molecular Approach



Terry A. Brown

The theme of Introduction to Genetics: A Molecular Approach is the progression from molecules (DNA and genes) to processes (gene expression and DNA replication) to systems (cells, organisms and populations). The molecular approach is particularly suitable for students for whom genetics is part of a broader program in biology, biochemistry, biomedical science, or biotechnology. Introduction to Genetics presents the basic facts and concepts with enough depth of knowledge to stimulate students to move on to more advanced aspects of the subject. This second edition has been thoroughly updated to cover new discoveries and developments in genetics from the last ten years.

Edited by Kandikere Sridhar , Sunil Kumar Deshmukh GreenVention Biotech Private Limited, India, Shin-Yee Fung , Shivannegowda Mahadevakumar

Series: Progress in Mycological Research

Cordyceps and allied species are economically important macrofungi with environmental, agricultural, and human health implications. They have gained importance as they produce metabolites of basic, health and industrial significance. They are used in traditional remedies, therapeutics and to control lifestyle diseases and their bioactive metabolites (pigments, nutraceuticals, and cosmeceuticals) have industrial use. They pose challenges in the cultivation, fermentation, and purification of products.

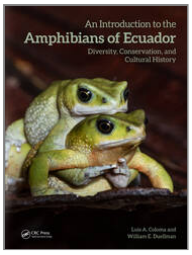
An Introduction to the Amphibians of Ecuador

Diversity, Conservation, and Cultural History



Luis A. Coloma , William E. Duellman

An Introduction to Amphibians of Ecuador is the first of four volumes, which are comprehensive, well-illustrated and authoritative works, making them invaluable to biologists, conservationists, and others. This initial volume delves into the cultural history of amphibians, encompassing ethnobatrachology and folklore, while summarizing the amphibian iconography found in Ecuadorian archaeology. Furthermore, it explores in comprehensive detail the rich amphibian diversity of Ecuador, providing a thorough review of biogeography, amphibian declines, and conservation.

Biology and Ecology of Atlantic Cod

Edited by Nataliia Kulatska , Daniel Howell , Peter J. Wright Marine Scotland Science, UK, Ingibjörg G. Jónsdóttir Marine and Freshwater Research Institute, Iceland

Atlantic cod is an important fish species in human history and continues to be a major influence on North Atlantic fisheries management, as stock collapses and recoveries impact coastal communities and shelf sea food webs. This book provides an overview of Atlantic cod biology and ecology, focussing on regional differences in life-history and stock dynamics that affect productivity and the challenges faced by management. By comparing the success of management approaches and the local influence of changing climate and food webs, the book highlights the different pressures facing stocks and identifies knowledge gaps across the species' range.

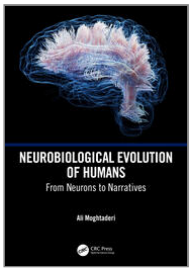
Neurobiological Evolution of Humans

From Neurons to Narratives



Ali Moghtaderi

Our perception of the brain structure and function as an organ full of secrets and mysteries must change, and it is necessary to consider it as a part of the body that is constantly evolving and developing to maintain homeostasis for the entire human organism. New fossils, imaging methods, molecular genetics, comparative anatomy, evolutionary psychology, cognitive concepts in neuroscience, and neurology have made it possible to address questions of neurological evolution of humans. This book integrates disparate findings from these disciplines in a succinct history by explaining how evolutionary process occurred and changed our "selves", mind and brain structure and function.

Neurodegenerative Diseases

Translational Model, Mechanism and Therapeutics

Edited by Sachchida Nand Rai , Sandeep Singh , Santosh Kumar Singh

This reference book provides a comprehensive overview of models and therapeutic approaches against neurodegenerative diseases, including Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, Huntington's disease, and Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. It explores models based on the chemical, induced, cellular, genetic, transgenic, 3D organoids in neurodegenerative diseases. The book also reviews advantages and limitations of these models in designing the treatment strategies.

New and Emerging Plant Viruses

The Threat to Food Security

Edited by Alireza Golnaraghi , Rajarshi Kumar Gaur

Reviews the progress made and the challenges ahead in the field of plant viruses and agricultural production. It sheds light on previously undiscovered plant viruses, bringing together information on the detection and tracking, host interaction, evolution, and management. It comprehensively covers plant viruses, focusing on their diversity and pathogenic expressions. It covers the various hidden sources of plant viruses such as from wild plants, weeds, and tobacco as well as other undetermined plant virus sources. It also looks at the implications of mixed infection on disease pathogenicity and epidemiology along with an overview of plant viruses.

p53 in Breast Cancer

Molecular Mechanisms, Clinical Implications, and Therapeutic Targets

Edited by Manzoor Ahmad Mir

This book discusses the important role of the p53 gene in breast cancer, unraveling its complexities and its impact on the disease's progression, diagnosis, and treatment. It explores the multifaceted functions of p53, from its fundamental connection to breast cancer and pathway mechanisms to its influence on cancer metabolism and the impact of mutational alterations. The chapters also address the role of p53 biomarkers in diagnosis and prognosis, the optimization of treatment responses, and the impact of nutrition on p53 activity. This book serves as an important source for researchers in oncology and molecular biology.

Plant Diseases and Their Management

A Sustainable Approach

Edited by Deepa Srivastava , Rajarshi Kumar Gaur , Ajay K. Tiwari

Studies latest methods in control and management of plant diseases. It covers a range of themes on the biological, cultural, chemical, and genome engineering controls for plant diseases brought on by viruses, bacteria, phytoplasma, and fungi. It details how natural materials, organic disease control, and new-generation fungicides can be utilized to thwart plant pathogen activity. It also details methods to increase shelf life of produce, approaches to plant disease management, and molecular approaches to disease detection and identification in plants. It discusses several pathogens and their disease management.

Sustainable Cacao Cultivation in Latin America

Edited by Luz Cecilia García , Naga Raju Maddela , Freddy Zambrano Gavilanes , Carolina Aguilar Duarte

Series: Earthscan Food and Agriculture

This book examines cacao cultivation with a view to improving the sustainable management and production of this crop. Theobroma cacao is an important species originating in the Ecuadorian Amazon and whose product chocolate is consumed worldwide. Cacao cultivation is an industry supporting over ten million people, and so it is vitally important, in this changing climate, that the species is properly and sustainably managed and cultivated. This book brings together a wide range of experts from across the globe to examine cacao cultivation.

Sustainable Management of Cordyceps

Supply Chains and Resource Management Policies

Edited by Jiping Sheng , Ksenia Gerasimova

Series: Earthscan Studies in Natural Resource Management

This book examines the challenges of sustainably managing and conserving cordyceps, a rare species of fungi largely grown in Tibet, currently on the brink of extinction. Drawing on extensive field work conducted in Qinghai-Tibet, the book analyses the supply chain, identifying key issues around production and considering the role and impact of relevant stakeholders. It discusses the necessary changes needed in order to make it a sustainable supply change, particularly to stop long term over-harvesting. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of natural resource management, environmental conservation, environmental policy and sustainable supply chain management.

Synaptic Plasticity in Neurodegenerative Disorders

Edited by Sangeeta Singh IIT-Allahbad, Sachchida Nand Rai , Santosh Kumar Singh

This book explores the role of synaptic plasticity in neurodegenerative disorders, offering insights into their complexity and potential treatments. It discusses the association of mitochondrial dysfunction, epigenetics, and neuroinflammation with synaptic plasticity in these disorders. It explores dynamic cellular and synaptic changes in Parkinson's, Alzheimer's, and Huntington's diseases. The chapters also present applications of computational tools and artificial intelligence in addressing synaptic impairment across neurodegenerative diseases. It serves as a valuable resource for researchers, clinicians, and students in neuroscience, computational biology, and neurology.

The Million Person Study of Low-Dose Radiation Health Effects

Edited by John D. Boice Jr , André Bouville , Lawrence T. Dauer , Ashley P. Golden Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Richard Wakeford

This book presents original research findings of The Million Person Study of Low-Dose Radiation Health Effects (MPS), the largest and most comprehensive epidemiologic study of its kind to investigate the health effects of low-level chronic radiation exposure on American workers and veterans throughout the 20th century. Unparalleled in scope and quality, the MPS provides an understanding of low-dose health effects that is desperately needed for decision makers and the radiation protection community as society continues to increase the uses of radiation technologies. Individual chapters were originally published in the International Journal of Radiation Biology.

Edited by Azamal Husen Wolaita Sodo University, Ethiopia, Manu Pant

Series: Exploring Medicinal Plants

This book describes in detail the different methods of plant tissue culture that have been employed for the mass production of medicinal plants. The chapters on methods of organogenesis, embryogenesis, haploid plant production, virus-free medicinal plant production, etc. will be of interest to a wide range of readers. Dedicated chapters on the tissue culture of high-altitude medicinal plants, cannabis are some of the book highlights. With contributions from world-leading specialists in plant tissue culture, the knowledge presented in this book will aid in the translation of plant tissue culture techniques for the production and improvement of medicinal plants.

Biopharmaceutical Informatics

Learning to Discover Developable Biotherapeutics

Edited by Sandeep Kumar Pfizer, Chesterfield, Missouri, USA, Andrew Nixon

Biopharmaceutical Informatics is a strategic vision that encourages scientists to learn from our collective experiences of successes and, more importantly, failures in discovery and development of biotherapeutics. The insights gained from such learnings shall help us improve rate of successful translation of discoveries into drug products; reduce costs and increase the speed of biologic drug discovery and development. Hopefully, the efficiencies gained from implementing such insights shall make biologic medicines more affordable for the patients.

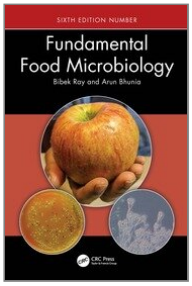
Fundamental Food Microbiology



Bibek Ray , Arun Bhunia Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana, USA

All three areas of food microbiology—beneficial, spoilage, and pathogenic microbiology—are progressing incredibly. Fundamental Food Microbiology, Sixth Edition, captures these developments and broadens coverage of foodborne disease mechanisms, spoilage microbes, and microbial inactivation strategies. Written by experts with approximately sixty years of combined experience, this book provides an in-depth understanding of how to reduce microbial food spoilage, improve intervention technologies, and develop effective control methods for different types of foods.

Biosystems Engineering Applications for Quality Food Production

Waste Valorization and New Product Development

Edited by Romeo Rojas , Guillermo Cristian Guadalupe Martínez-Ávila , Nancy del Pilar Medina Herrera

Shows how the two areas of biosystems engineering and food industry come together in an interdisciplinary way to offer solutions to these problems. It presents the most recent advances in these two areas, ranging from the use of biodigesters, bioremediation of effluents from the food industry, use of microorganisms to produce polymers and their applications, waste recovery, new products development, new applications for new varieties of crops, replacement of fats in food, improvement in bovine production, and production and harvesting microalgae and cyanobacteria. Handbook of Vegetable Processing Waste

Chemistry, Processing Technology, and Utilization

Edited by Khalid Muzaffar , Sajad Ahmad Sofi , Shabir Ahmad Mir Islamic Univ. of Science & Tech., India

Handbook of Vegetable Processing Waste: Chemistry, Processing Technology, and Utilization serves as an essential resource for food scientists, environmental engineers, and industry professionals. This comprehensive book explores innovative and sustainable approaches in managing vegetable processing waste and transforming it into valuable resources. The book addresses chemistry, processing technology, and valorization of residues generated during vegetable processing. It provides an overview of the recovery of bioactive components from the vegetable processing waste and their utilization in the development of functional food.

Sustainable Technologies for Food Waste Management

Edited by Ranjna Sirohi Korea Uni, Ayon Tarafdar , Luciana Porto de Souza Vandenberghe Uni of Paraná, Mohammad Taherzadaher , Ashok Pandey

Series: Sustainable Industrial and Environmental Bioprocesses

This book explores various aspects of food waste management, ranging from understanding the issue to innovative solutions that convert waste into valuable resources. The initial chapters provide an in-depth analysis of advanced methods for characterizing food waste. The book examines cutting-edge methodologies, including physico-chemical, thermal, and biological approaches, for converting food waste into valuable resources such as biohydrogen, biopolymers, biogas, organic acids, bioactive compounds, biochar, compost, and vermicompost. This book is intended for researchers, practitioners, and policymakers seeking sustainable approaches to tackle the global challenge of food waste.

The Changing Food Law Landscape

Food Security, Sustainability and the Environment

Edited by Siva Barathi (Sharl) Marimuthu School of Law, University of New England, Anu Lähteenmäki-Uutela Finnish Environment Institute

This book analyses the current debates within food system governance, covering different aspects of food systems (from production to consumption) as well as different fields of law (from human rights law to environmental law). Recognizing that the law, in interacting with multiple disciplines, plays a major role in setting binding targets for sustainable innovation and business transformation, it brings together contributors from a wide range of professions, including agriculture, law, and business to examine the dimensions of food systems and the challenges in transforming them.

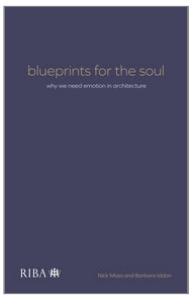
Blueprints for the Soul

Why we need emotion in architecture



Nick Moss , Barbara Iddon

You know that something is wrong, even if you can't quite put your finger on it. This book tells you why, and how to solve it. There is a lack of beauty and emotion in our built environment. This is not about the lofty projects that academics and critics are so keen to discuss. It's about the buildings we see every day as we go about our business, the ones we live and work in: houses and shops, offices and cafes, schools and centres. It's about the fact that so many of them are letting us down.

Changing the Game

How to be a Sustainable and Regenerative Small Practice

Tara Gbolade , Lanre Gbloade

Architecture has hit something of a sticking point when it comes to adapting to contemporary life and its various concerns – the finite resources of the planet, the lack of diversity in the profession, the punishing lifestyle afforded by traditional practice models. Changing the Game explores how to create and run a future-proofed small practice through value-driven decision-making and profitability. It considers 'sustainability' in every sense of the word, looking beyond materials and projects to the socio-economic repercussions and responsibilities the modern practice must engage with.

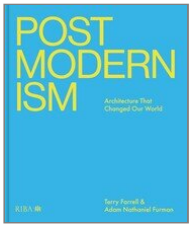
Postmodernism

Architecture That Changed Our World



Terry Farrell , Adam Nathaniel Furman

First published in 2017 as Revisiting Postmodernism, this refreshed edition of a seminal text reflects on a design movement that changed our world. Postmodernism invites readers to explore the style in a new light, as the cultural phenomenon that it is, one which thrives on complexity and pluralism. Exploring its expression not only in architecture, but in design, urban planning and placemaking, Postmodernism reflects on the history of the movement and its continuing influence on design practice today.

Reclaiming Colonial Architecture

Edited by Tania Sengupta , Stuart King

Our world is full of lands, cities, buildings and artefacts, many of which are deposits and residues of colonial times and, more pervasively, colonial processes. Reclaiming Colonial Architecture unpacks the built inheritances of colonialism and re-thinks how we might understand, narrate, intervene in or act upon them as architects. Offering historical background, unpacking key concepts and presenting thematically organised and multi-scalar urban and architectural case studies, this accessible publication showcases how legacies of colonialism are being dealt with in real-world instances.

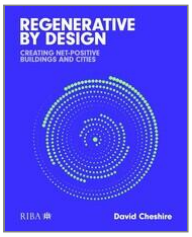
Regenerative by Design

Creating living buildings and cities



David Cheshire

How do we design cities and buildings that metabolise, use living materials and are net positive - that give back more to the planet than they take? This book sets out the regenerative building agenda and design principles, showing how buildings, towns and cities could start to have a positive impact on our planet, providing ecosystems services and living within the means afforded by the site.

The Inclusive Housing Design Guide

Habinteg Housing Association

The Inclusive Housing Design Guide is a revised and updated edition of the seminal Habinteg Housing Design Guide first published in 2002. The guide provides a brief and advice for all those involved in the design and delivery of Habinteg developments, informing new build technical standards and employers' requirements for accessible homes. This new guide takes into account updated reference standards, specifically addressing M4(2) and M4(3) of UK building regulations. The proposed guide will provide the rationale for, specifications and technical guidance on how to deliver accessible and inclusive housing that is flexible and adaptable to changing needs.

Architecture and Videogames

Intersecting Worlds

Edited by Vincent Hui , Ryan Scavnicky , Tatiana Estrina

This book explores and affirms the emergent symbiosis between video games and architecture, including insights from a diverse range of disciplines. With contributions from authorities in both architecture and videogame industries, it examines how videogames as a medium have enlightened the public about the built environments of the past, offered heightened awareness of our current urban context, and presented inspiration and direction for the future directions of architecture. The definitive resource on consolidating these interconnected fields, this book will mobilize the current generation of designers to explore and advance this synthesis.

The Louvre and Versailles

The Evolution of the Proto-typical Palace in the Age of Absolutism

Christopher Tadgell

This book traces the evolution of the great palaces of the Louvre and Versailles, from Pierre Lescot's designs for expanding the former in the mid-16th century to the successive grands projets for the transformation of the latter over the course of the 18th century. Detailed architectural analysis is set in the context of the development of the medieval monarchy towards absolutism, the significance of Hispano-Burgundian court etiquette as a formative influence on planning, and the effect of the French monarchy's financial incontinence on royal building ambitions. A wealth of illustrative material and supporting documents brings this comprehensive and authoritative text to life.

Collaborations in Architecture and Sociology

Anita Bakshi , Zaire Dinzey-Flores

This book, by an architect and a sociologist, addresses the disconnect between the design of the built environment and social life and lays out a pathway for interdisciplinary engagement. Through this collaboration, the authors create a new interdisciplinary orientation and methodology, termed SOCIOARC, that recognizes the relationship of the built form and aesthetics to social experience. Accessibly written and illustrated, this book will be an essential resource for undergraduate- and graduate-level students of sociology, architecture, urban design, landscape architecture, and planning, and all those interested in shaping a more just, equitable society through our built environment.

Assembly

Matter, Lineament, and Aggregated Systems in Architectural Production

Edited by Gail Peter Borden , Michael Meredith

Part to part relationships and the approach to governing their sensibilities is at the root of all architecture. The need for engaging a dialogue around these systems is essential to contemporary architectural discourse and practice. Assembly builds on and extends the investigations of materials and representation techniques in the editors' previous books Matter and Lineament. This book uses a collection of detailed case studies, explained by first person authors about experimental and innovative takes on assembling architecture.

Modern Architecture

The Basics

Graham Livesey University of Calgary, Canada

Series: The Basics

Modern Architecture: The Basics examines technological, stylistic, socio-political, and cultural changes that have transformed the history of architecture since the late eighteenth century. Broad definitions of modernity and postmodernity introduce the book, which comprises twenty-four short thematic chapters looking at the concepts behind the development of modern and postmodern architecture. These include major historical movements, key figures, and building typologies. An undaunting and inclusive account of modern architectural history, this is a must-read for all students of architecture as well as those outside the discipline approaching the subject for the first time.

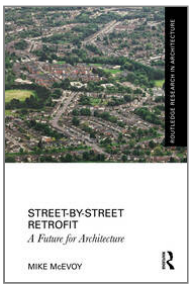
Street-by-Street Retrofit

A Future for Architecture



Mike McEvoy

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

For many years it has been recognized that improving the energy performance of the existing housing stock is vital if energy demand is to be reduced to combat climate change. The art of retrofit is posited as a way forward beyond today's weak pseudo-Modern architecture, all that is left as the final echo of Modernism's original utopian impulse.

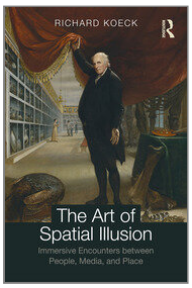
The Art of Spatial Illusion

Immersive Encounters between People, Media, and Place



Richard Koeck University of Liverpool, UK

This book provides an insightful exploration of the evolving relationship between humans, media, and spatial environments, tracing their progression from the Renaissance, via Modernity and Postmodernity, to today's digital age. The author offers a compelling reading and re-evaluation of architectural history and media theory, drawing connections between historical practices, technological innovations, and contemporary immersive experiences. Richly illustrated and deeply researched, The Art of Spatial Illusion is an essential reading for anyone interested in architecture and art as well as media archaeology, history, and theory.

The Prefabricated Interior

Deborah Schneiderman Pratt Institute, USA

Though much attention has been given to the prefabrication of architecture, there has been little discussion on the influence and importance of prefabrication within the interior environment. This book does just that, providing a comprehensive investigation into the prefab interior from the nineteenth century to the present and beyond. The culmination of a decade of research by the leading expert on the topic, this will be the go-to resource on prefabricated interiors and an important read for all students and researchers in interior design.

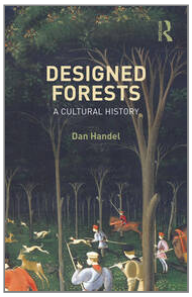
Designed Forests

A Cultural History



Dan Handel

This book explores the unique kinship that exists between forests and spatial design; the forest's influence on architectural culture and practice; and the potentials and pitfalls of "forest thinking" for more sustainable and ethical ways of doing architecture today. It tackles these subjects by focusing on architecture's own dispositions, which stem from an ecology of metaphor that surrounds its encounters with the forest and undergird ideas about Nature and natural systems. This book is essential for landscape architects, urbanists, architects, forestry experts, and everyone concerned with larger environmental contexts and the ever-evolving relationship between nature and culture.

Athens

A Rapidly Changing Metropolis in the European South

Edited by Thomas Maloutas

Series: Built Environment City Studies

This book looks at the current trends in Athens, the capital city of Greece, and focuses on the processes of globalization it has been undergoing during the last two decades. In this time the city has transformed from a low-key, petty bourgeois cohesive, and rather isolated city in South-Eastern Europe, to an internationally visible metropolis, increasingly unequal and polarized.

Equity in the Urban Built Environment

Edited by Bradley Bereitschaft

Series: Routledge Studies in Urbanism and the City

This book explores inequities in the urban built environment across a diverse range of places and considers practical solutions and strategies aimed at building more just, inclusive, and sustainable cities. Achieving more equitable and prosperous urban places requires a critical examination of the design and layout of our cities. The 16 chapters of this book illuminate the ways in which the built environment, including buildings, roads, public spaces, and other infrastructure, shapes our health and prosperity through a complex set of physical and social interactions.

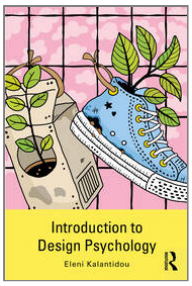
Introduction to Design Psychology



Eleni Kalantidou

In the age of climate change, psychology and design have been employed through impromptu collaborations to validate solutions and future scenarios. Introduction to Design Psychology contests this approach by proposing an ideological framework for an intentional, joint endeavour between psychology and design. It unfolds through chapters exploring urban environments, technology, and consumer culture, making evident the need for new definitions of social resilience and adaptation. This book is essential for psychologists, designers, and urban planners, as well as professionals from affiliated fields, willing to reconfigure their own thinking and practice.

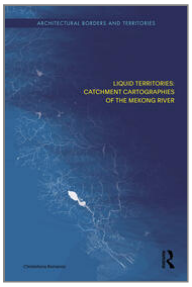
Liquid Territories

Catchment Cartographies of the Mekong River



Christoforos Romanos

Series: Architectural Borders and Territories

As well as being a fundamental concept for planning the water infrastructure which supports extensive agricultural economies across Southeast Asia, knowledge of the Mekong River's hydrological catchments has also calibrated the control of land, resources and people. Liquid Territories shows how and why the areal dimensions of the Mekong's basin, delta and floodplain have become a critical geographic reference for human activities.

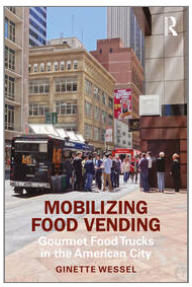
Mobilizing Food Vending

Gourmet Food Trucks in the American City



Ginette Wessel

This book investigates the gourmet food truck movement in the United States and provides a clearer understanding of the social and economic factors that shape vendor autonomy and industry growth. The book features case studies in a variety of American cities and uses top-down and bottom-up urban theory to frame a discussion of food trucks' rights, displacement, and resiliency. This book will appeal to urban scholars studying the contemporary neoliberal city, the public realm, and communication technology and mobility, as well as to urban planners seeking to understand how vendors shape city plans and policies.

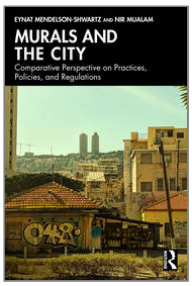
Murals and the City

Comparative Perspective on Practices, Policies, and Regulations



Eynat Mendelson-Shwartz , Nir Mualam

This book provides a cross-urban account on murals, street art, and public art in cities around the globe, reviewing the rules, policies and regulations that frame how murals and street art are managed across a range of cities and contexts. The global landscape of today's mural policies is discussed comparatively, and the impact of written rules, unofficial practices, and institutional arrangements on city spaces, walls, and surfaces is examined. An important contribution to this growing field, the book will appeal to students, practitioners, and scholars with an interest in public art, municipal governance, public space management, cultural policy, and urban design.

Rebuilding Urban Complexity

A Configurational Approach to Postindustrial Cities

Francesca Froy

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

This is a book about urban complexity – how it evolves and how it gets destroyed. It explores the structures of interdependency which underpin cities, where the many different 'parts' (people, streets, industry sectors) interact to form an evolving 'whole'. This book explores the evolution and destruction of complexity in one city – Greater Manchester – but also other post-industrial cities, including Sheffield and Newcastle, Detroit and New Haven. The focus is on the networked qualities of public urban space, and how street networks work as multiscale systems.

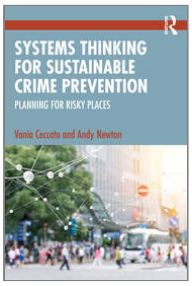
Systems Thinking for Sustainable Crime Prevention

Planning for Risky Places



Vania Ceccato , Andy Newton

This book offers a comprehensive overview of areas with elevated levels of crime aka 'risky places'. These can be facilities, nodes, or paths and can be found everywhere, from small towns to megacities, with examples from the US, the UK, Sweden, Nigeria, Brazil, China, Australia, and more. Advocating for a systems thinking approach, the book shows what can be learned from risky places, and identifies ways to address their inherent problems. Aimed at academics, students, and professionals in urban planning, criminology, geography, and related fields, this book is a vital resource for those dedicated to creating safer, more inclusive, and sustainable environments.

The Routledge Handbook of Urban Cultural Planning

Edited by Rana Amirtahmasebi , Jason Schupbach
Arizona State University, USA

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This book provides a manual for planning for arts and culture in cities, featuring chapters and case studies from Africa, the Americas, Australasia, the Middle East, South and East Asia and more. The handbook is organized around seven themes: arts and planning for equity and social development; incorporating culture in urban planning; the intersection of creative and cultural industries and tourism planning; financing; public buildings, public space and public art; cultural heritage planning; and culture and the climate crisis. It will be an invaluable resource for city planners and designers, cultural workers, and more seeking to integrate creativity and culture into urban planning.

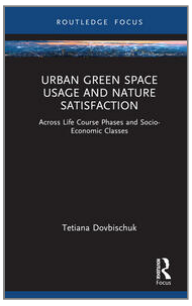
Urban Green Space Usage and Nature Satisfaction

Across Life Course Phases and Socio-Economic Classes



Tetiana Dovbischuk

This book provides an analysis of nature satisfaction, nature relatedness, and the motivations for using urban green spaces. It explores the use of spaces such as parks, waterfronts, wooded areas, and fields among different life course phases and socio-economic classes. Through a detailed analysis of primary data from two major German cities, Cologne and Hamburg, the book examines the availability, use, and satisfaction with urban green spaces, and provides insights into the predictors of nature satisfaction in an urban context.

Edited by Manoj Khandelwal , Danial Jahed Armaghani , Ramesh Murlidhar Bhatawdekar Universiti Teknologi Malaysia, Malaysia, Pijush Samui National Institute of Technology, India, Saffet Yagiz Nazarbayev University, Kazakhstan

Advancements in Underground Infrastructures presents the advanced modelling tools and experimental techniques applied in underground infrastructure development. It examines the usage of mathematical tools, experimental techniques, and data-driven models, as well as the latest technological advancements in underground engineering used to enhance the safety and stability of underground structures. It also addresses the application of the circular economy model in underground engineering.

Asphalt Concrete Cores for Embankment Dams / Noyaux de Béton Bitumineux Pour les Barrages en Remblai

Edited by ICOLD CIGB

Series: ICOLD Bulletins Series

Approximately 5000 years ago, a small dam was built in the Indus river valley, using asphalt as a mortar between stones. That was one of the first utilization of asphalt as an impervious material. However, the first "modern" asphalt concrete core dam, mechanically placed and compacted, was built in Germany in 1962.

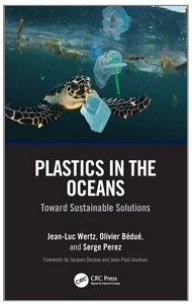
Plastics in the Oceans

Towards Sustainable Solutions



Jean-Luc Wertz , Olivier Bédué , Serge Perez

Increasing plastic pollution, particularly in oceans, calls for a fundamental shift towards future-proof plastics. In 2022, the United Nations adopted a historic resolution to craft an International Legally Binding Instrument to tackle plastic pollution. In line with this global initiative, Plastics in the Oceans explores plastic pollution in oceans, proposes solutions, and offers a sustainable strategy to eliminate plastic pollution by 2040. This book is aimed at technical readers in environmental engineering, chemical engineering, and polymer chemistry, as well as general readers interested in scientific solutions to the plastics pollution problem.

Waste-to-Energy Technologies and Global Applications

Efstratios N. Kalogirou Vice Chair Global Waste-to-Energy Research & Technology Council; Consulting Engineer, Athens, Greece

Through Waste-to-Energy (WtE) technology, power plants use waste as a renewable fuel to co-produce electricity, heating, and cooling for urban utilization. Updated to reflect the latest developments in this field, the Second Edition of Waste-to-Energy Technologies and Global Applications also adds three new chapters covering waste to hydrogen carbon capture and use and additional discussion WtE plants in Dubai and the Middle East. Fundamentals of Structural Engineering

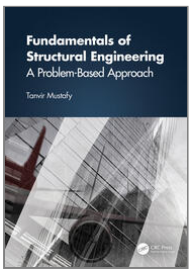
A Problem-Based Approach



Tanvir Mustafy Military Inst. of Science and Tech, BD

This book provides an introduction to the principles of structural engineering using a problem-based approach. It covers the basic concepts of structural analysis and design, including statics, strength of materials, and mechanics of materials. The text emphasizes the application of these principles to real-world structural engineering problems and includes numerous example problems and case studies to illustrate key concepts. The problem-based approach helps students develop their problem-solving skills, critical thinking abilities, and intuition for structural engineering.

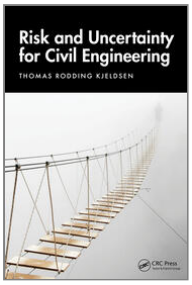
Risk and Uncertainty for Civil Engineering



Thomas Rodding Kjeldsen

This textbook introduces the fundamental concepts of probability, risk and uncertainty, and shows their relevance in civil engineering projects. With an emphasis on applied probability and statistics, the book aids students in developing an intuitive understanding of the methods to apply in practice. Examples are provided of how spreadsheet tools such as Microsoft Excel can be used to solve problems involving probability, and practical approaches such as Monte Carlo simulations and decision trees are explained in a clear, accessible manner. The book serves as an introductory textbook for undergraduate students in civil engineering, as well as a useful primer for postgraduate students.

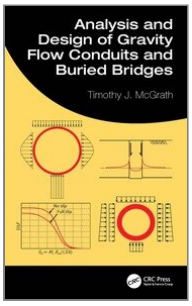
Analysis and Design of Gravity Flow Conduits and Buried Bridges



Timothy J. McGrath TJMcGrath, LLC., Arlington, Massachusetts, USA

This book covers the structural analysis and design of buried gravity flow conduits, including traditional pipes, arches, box conduits and buried bridges with spans up to 80 ft (25 m) and greater. The text primarily covers concrete, corrugated metal, and plastic conduits, but is generally applicable to other materials. Applications include culverts, storm drains, sewers, and pedestrian and vehicular crossings. It offers a unified and comprehensive guide for practicing engineers working on buried pipe design, private consultants, and product manufacturers, as well as researchers in the area.

Combined Pile-Raft Foundations

Oliver Reul University of Kassel, Germany, Mark Randolph University of Western Australia

Series: Applied Geotechnics

This book presents the fundamental features of the design and performance of combined pile-raft foundations (CPRFs), including detailed case studies. Whereas in a traditional foundation the loads are carried either by the raft or by the piles, the capacity of CPRFs is assessed for the foundation as a whole, reducing total and differential settlements economically. Based on the combined experience of the authors obtained in the last decades working in the industry and research, the book particularly suits consulting engineers engaged in foundation engineering, as well as graduate students and researchers interested in the bearing behaviour of piled rafts and pile groups.

Edited by Vinod Kumar Garg Central University of Punjab, Punjab., Navish Kataria JC Bose University of Science and Technology, YMCA, Faridabad, Changseok Han , Eldon R. Rene

Series: Sustainable Industrial and Environmental Bioprocesses

This reference book reviews various aspects of microplastics, from their sources and manifestation in terrestrial, aquatic, and air environments to their fate in wastewater treatment systems. It also covers sampling, analysis, and detection methods for microplastics, along with advanced instrumentation for quantification. Further, the book presents health risk analysis and the toxicity of microplastic contamination, including their ecotoxicological impact on the environment and health risks associated with their accumulation in the tropical food chain and food web. This book serves as an important source for researchers, policymakers, and environmentalists.

Somnath Ghosh Department of Civil Engineering, Jadavpur University, Kolkata, India, Kushal Ghosh National Institute of Technology, Sikkim, India

This book explains behavioural aspects of Reinforced Concrete (RCC) structures along with brief research to understand the codal recommendations in different countries. Related issues of RCC design are also discussed and these are supplemented by numerical/design examples and fundamental review questions in each chapter. The subject matter in this book also critically discusses the considerations for non-elastic behavior in design procedures to accommodate design objectives. A comparison of design methodology and output as per IS, BS, EURO and ACI Codes is also included.

Strategic Integrated Program Delivery

Learning from the Level Crossing Removal Project

Edited by Mark Betts , Peter E.D. Love , Derek H.T. Walker RMIT University, Australia

This book outlines a cutting-edge form of program delivery which the authors term SIP-Form or Strategic Integrated Program delivery. The book takes the reader on a journey through the complex Melbourne Level Crossing Removal Program (LXRP), and after giving the background and relevant context covers topics such as strategy, governance, procurement, collaboration, program alliance, HRM, leadership, digital innovation, continuous improvement, community engagement and performance measurement. This detailed analysis of such a complex program of projects makes this book essential reading for project managers, engineers and advanced students of project delivery and management.

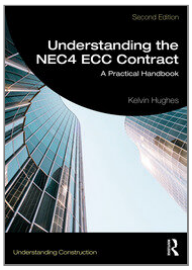
Understanding the NEC4 ECC Contract

A Practical Handbook



Kelvin Hughes

Series: Understanding Construction

Written for construction professionals, by a practicing international construction contract consultant, this handbook is the most straightforward, balanced and practical guide to the NEC4 ECC available. An ideal companion for employers, contractors, project managers, supervisors, engineers, architects, quantity surveyors, subcontractors, and anyone else interested in working successfully with the NEC4 ECC. This new edition takes into account the updates to the contract released in 2019, 2020 and 2023, and brings the book up to date with the most current practice.

Edited by Cheng Siew Goh , Heap-Yih Chong

Series: CIB

This book aims to provide insights into rethinking pathways in the transition to sustainable built environments in the wake of the pandemic and COP26. The book will help address the need for mainstreaming sustainability into the core of decision making of buildings and infrastructure projects throughout the life cycle from planning, to design, construction and operation. It consolidates a comprehensive body of knowledge of sustainable development that will equip industry professionals, educators, scholars, and students with knowledge and skills to deliver sustainability practice within the built environment.

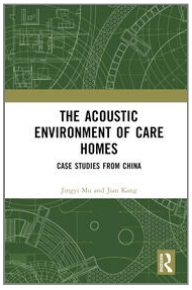
The Acoustic Environment of Care Homes

Case Studies from China



Jingyi Mu , Jian Kang University of Sheffield, UK

This book examines the indoor acoustic environment of China's residential aged care facilities and links it with the physiological and psychological wellbeing of residents. It is a comprehensive exposition of research on the acoustic environment of RACFs in China, and is useful reading for researchers in acoustics, architecture, design, engineering, and healthcare facilities. It could also be used as a scientific introduction for readers interested in this field.

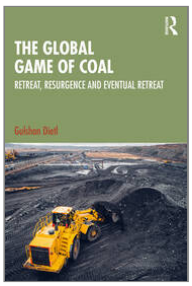
The Global Game of Coal

Retreat, Resurgence and Eventual Retreat



Gulshan Dietl Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Coal occupies a large share in the global energy basket. This book explores 'coal game' within the context of shifting energy geopolitics, the 'resource war' and the debates over climate change and energy security. The book deciphers the interactions within the coal world by resorting to the time-tested term 'global game.'

Culture by Design

Practical Strategies for Wellbeing, Engagement and Growth

Hugo Metcalfe

This book is about shifting focus from organisational outcomes and performance towards organisational culture and wellbeing. It bridges the gap between two key organisational goals: (a) the drive for improving performance, outcomes and staff retention, and (b) strategies to encourage employee wellbeing, motivation and engagement. Culture by Design is relevant to Leaders in organisations of any size, including HR directors, People Managers, C-Suite Team members and Wellbeing & Culture Leads.

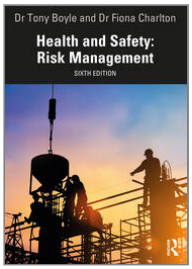
6TH EDITION

Health and Safety: Risk Management



Tony Boyle , Fiona Charlton

Health and Safety: Risk Management is the clearest and most comprehensive book on risk management available today. This newly revised sixth edition takes into account new developments in legislation, standards and good practice. This authoritative treatment of health and safety risk management is essential reading for both students working towards degrees, diplomas and postgraduate or vocational qualifications, and experienced health and safety professionals, who will find it invaluable as a reference.

Approaches to Road Safety

Evolution, Challenges, and Emerging Technologies

Peter Sweatman

Road transport is on a constant course to maintain and improve safety in what is a risky process. It is time for embracing system technologies that give more meaning to the philosophical phrase "safe system" and Approaches to Road Safety: Evolution, Challenges, and Emerging Technologies makes the case for the adoption of safe systems in road transport industries through the embracing of technology, system attributes and values and operational challenges. This book will appeal to professionals in the fields of safety, human factors, the automotive industry, traffic control, vehicle standards and regulations, transportation systems and road safety policy.

Managing Safety in the Drone Industry

Geoff Bain , Mark Blaney

The drone industry is developing at an exponential pace and as technological sophistication advances, their future application prospects are limitless. Managing Safety in the Drone Industry: A Practical Guide aims to help those involved in drone operations to develop safety structures and practices to tackle the increased risk of accidents and incidents as drones become more common. This book is an ideal for any professional working in a safety-critical industry needing practical guidance on drones or manned aviation. It will particularly appeal to those in aviation, health and safety, logistics, business and management and any industry considering drone technology.

Fundamentals of Sedimentology

Sreepat Jain Dept. of Applied Geology, Adama Science and Technology University, Ethiopia

This new textbook is a modern look at the key concepts of sedimentology. With lavish, colorful, and abundant illustrations and easy-to-understand explanations, the book focuses on the concepts required to understand physical, chemical, and biological characteristics of sedimentary rocks and the processes involved in their formation. This includes the transportation, deposition, and transformation of sediments. It also emphasizes how the understanding of sedimentary rocks can be used to interpret all continental, marginal marine, and deep-water oceanic environments. Written with undergraduate-level students in mind, it serves as a primary textbook for the new generation of students.

Heavy Metal Contamination in the Environment

Health Impacts and Potential Remediation Approaches

Edited by Veer Singh , Ashish Kumar , Vishal Mishra , Sachchida Nand Rai

This reference book explores the multifaceted problem of heavy metal contamination in the environment. Through its in-depth analysis, the book provides a thorough overview of the sources and pathways of heavy metals, their persistence in ecosystems, and the resulting health impacts on individuals and ecosystems. The chapters explore diverse sources of contamination, including industrial activities, mining, agriculture, and urbanization, while examining the types of heavy metals found in the environment and their toxicological properties. This book is an important source for researchers and professionals working in the fields of environmental science, toxicology, and public health.

Nanomaterials and Nano-Biochar in Reducing Soil Stress

An Integrated Approach for Sustainable Agriculture

Edited by Vishnu D. Rajput , Tatiana M. Minkina

Details the potential this novel technology has to reduce soil pollution, enhance crop production, promote sustainable agriculture, and ultimately ensure food security. It emphasizes how nano-biochar technology can be implemented to enhance microbial activities and other soil organism functionalities by applying or combining agricultural practices and soil health-improving amendments. The role of nanobiochar in metal stress reduction, for soil health improvement, as a soil conditioner, in reducing soil stress using integrated approaches, for improving nutrient use efficiency, in salinity stress management, and for arsenic remediation are considered in detail.

3D/4D Printing of Bioadhesive Pharmaceutical Systems

Additive Manufacturing and Perspectives

Marcos Luciano Bruschi , Denise Tiemi Uchida , Mariana Carla de Oliveira

This book features a brief history of additive manufacturing and 3D/4D printers, as well as its advantages, applications, and overall challenges facing the technology. Throughout the book the focus shifts to its applications in bioadhesive systems for drug delivery. This book is written with the objective of helping student starting their studies in bioengineering, paharmaceutical engineering and additive manufacturing. Moreover, engineering professionals can use the book to improve the performance of 3D/4D printers for this type of system.

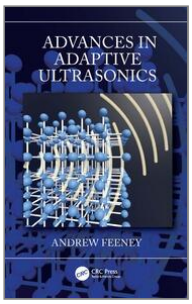
Advances in Adaptive Ultrasonics



Andrew Feeney University of Glasgow, United Kingdom

The applications of ultrasonic devices range from surgery, drilling, welding to sonar and energy harvesting. This book demonstrates how engineers can overcome common issues within the field of ultrasonics. It begins with an overview of ultrasonic tech as currently understood and goes to discuss the newest iteration in the form of adaptive ultrasonics and the benefits this can offer. Key topics include advanced materials, notably phase transforming shape memory alloys, and the principles of adaptive ultrasonic transducer design. It also covers measurement approaches for characterizing adaptive ultrasonic devices and provides an overview of potential applications for the technology.

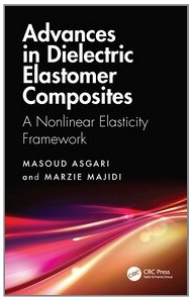
Advances in Dielectric Elastomer Composites

A Nonlinear Elasticity Framework



Masoud Asgari KN Toosi University of Technology, Iran, Marzie Majidi

Introducing the basic concepts behind DECs, the book is accessible to readers at all levels. It demonstrates how to implement practical problem-solving methods through nonlinear continuum mechanics and also discusses fibre-reinforced anisotropic DE composites and the electromechanically coupled behaviour of anisotropic fibre-reinforced DEs. Using practical examples throughout, it proposes models which utilise the strain energy function, nonlinear electro-elasticity, and nonlinear continuum mechanics. It presents clear guidelines for creating practical nonlinear finite element code, and introduces the reader to hyperelasticity.

Design of Event-Driven SPAD-Based 3D Image Sensors

Juan Antonio Leñero-Bardallo , Rubén Gómez-Merchán , Ángel Rodríguez-Vázquez

The book presents a bottom-up circuit description for the implementation of asynchronous vision sensors based on SPADs. It provides design considerations to convey the SPADs pulses through a channel shared by all the pixels. At the sensor level, the book provides asynchronous circuitry to read and arbiter the pixel outputs. The book is written for professionals who want to explore new tendencies on the design of image sensors for the implementation of LiDAR systems.

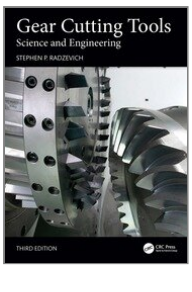
Gear Cutting Tools

Science and Engineering



Stephen P. Radzevich Johnson Controls Inc., USA

This book presents the DG/K-based method of surface generation — a practical mathematical method for designing gear cutting tools with optimal parameters. The text addresses the evolution of gear cutting tool and scientific classification for all types of gear machining meshes before discussing optimal cutting tool designs. Designs currently used and those being planned are covered, and the approach allows for development of scientific predictions and optimal designs. Solutions appear in analytical form and/or graphical form, with a wealth of new figures added, and new appendices offer additional data for readers.

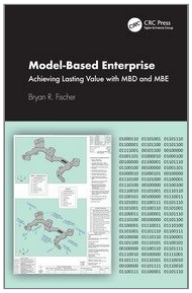
Model-Based Enterprise

Achieving Lasting Value with MBD and MBE



Bryan R. Fischer ITI Global/Wipro Limited

Model-Based Enterprise describes Model-Based Enterprise (MBE) and Model-Based Definition (MBD) in detail, focusing on how to obtain significant business value from MBE. Model-Based Enterprise is essential reading for anyone who creates or uses product-related information in OEMs and suppliers, in private sector and in government procurement and development activities. This book is also essential for students in all engineering disciplines, manufacturing, quality, information management, PLM, and related business disciplines.

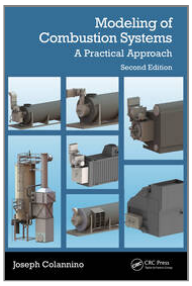
Modeling of Combustion Systems

A Practical Approach



Joseph Colannino John Zink Company LLC, Tulsa, Oklahoma, USA

Modeling of Combustion Systems provides accessible instruction for the operator or engineer to model combustion responses such as NOx, CO, flame dimensions, heat flux, or others as a function of input factors such as excess oxygen, volumetric heat release, and fuel composition. The second edition expands the approach to include combustion air fans and representation of complex models (direct numerical simulations or computational fluid dynamics) in concise forms with engineering accuracy over the range of interest. This book is intended for practicing process, mechanical, and plant engineers working in refining and manufacturing industries.

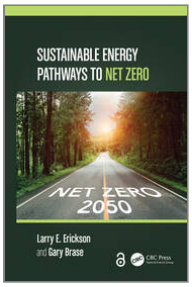
Sustainable Energy Pathways to Net Zero



Larry E. Erickson Kansas State University, Manhattan, USA, Gary Brase

Sustainable Energy Pathways to Net Zero addresses realistic pathways, between now and 2050, to reach net zero: a steady state concentration of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere. It discusses solar and wind energy, hydrogen, energy storage, and electric vehicles, which are becoming increasingly cost-efficient and are all part of these pathways. Hydrogen, the price of electricity, the integration of different sources of electricity into the electrical grid, and the electrical vehicle charging networks, are crucial in balancing supply and demand. It is the intersection of these technologies where the most profound advances can occur.

Ubiquitous Point Cloud

Theory, Model, and Applications

Bisheng Yang Wuhan University, China, Zhen Dong Wuhan University, China, Fuxun Liang Wuhan University, China, Xiaoxin Mi Wuhan University, China

Series: Imaging Science

Point clouds from LiDAR and photogrammetry are vital and vast sources of geospatial information. This book provides the latest theory and methodology for point cloud processing with AI to better serve earth observation, 3D vision, autonomous driving, smart city, and geospatial information applications. It addresses various aspects of 3D geospatial information including data capturing, fusing, geo-computing, modeling, and applications with the latest AI point cloud methods. With the numerous illustrations, diagrams, and practical applications, readers will better understand the point cloud, and its technical challenges, and learn how to utilize point cloud in different fields.

Fluid Mechanics

An Intermediate Approach

Bijay K. Sultanian University of Central Florida, FL

Fluid Mechanics: An Intermediate Approach helps readers develop a physics-based understanding of complex flows and mathematically model them with accurate boundary conditions for numerical predictions. The book includes numerous worked examples and end-of-chapter problems for student practice. It also discusses how to numerically model compressible flow over all Mach numbers in a variable-area duct, accounting for friction, heat transfer, rotation, internal choking, and normal shock formation. The book is intended for graduate mechanical and aerospace engineering students taking courses in Fluid Mechanics and Gas Dynamics.

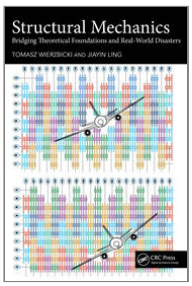
Structural Mechanics

Bridging Theoretical Foundations and Real-World Disasters



Tomasz Wierzbicki , Jiayin Ling

This book originated from the lecture notes of Professor Tomasz Wierzbicki who taught at MIT and Stanford University. The notes were amended and improved over the years to provide a link between rigorous theoretical foundations with solutions to important engineering problems. The book discusses complex man-made structures under accidental impact or explosive loads resulting in the loss of life and/or extensive property, infrastructural, and environmental damage.The book is not restricted to the accident reconstruction only. The additional 17 lectures provide theoretical foundations for the elastic structures, plastic plates and shells, and ductile fracture.

Advanced Hybrid Nanomaterials for Energy Storage

Edited by Won-Chun Oh , Suresh Sagadevan

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book explores the groundbreaking field of material design at the nanoscale for next-generation energy storage solutions. This comprehensive text delves into the synthesis, characterization, and optimization of hybrid nanomaterials crafted by combining the advantageous properties of diverse materials. It shares details on material combinations with the potential to revolutionize batteries, supercapacitors, and other energy storage devices. It serves as an important resource for both industry professionals and academic researchers as well as scientists and engineers working in advanced materials for energy storage applications.

Advanced Two-Dimensional Nanomaterials for Environmental and Sensing Applications

Edited by Peter R. Makgwane Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR), Pretoria, South Africa, Naveen Kumar Maharshi Dayanand University, Rohtak, India., David E. Motaung

This book provides state-of-the art progress developments in the design strategies of 2D based nanomaterials. It covers specific focused applications in respective environmental challenges posed by pollutants such as chemical gases, bacterial and microbial, textile dyes, pharmaceutical antibiotics, agricultural pesticides, toxic heavy metals in water and air contaminations. It elaborates the applications of 2D nanomaterials in technologies such as sensing and detection to monitor pollutants, photocatalysis and adsorption for removal of pollutants. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in chemical and civil engineering, materials science, and nanomaterials.

Advances in Renewable Natural Materials for Textile Sustainability

Edited by Mohammad Shahid , Aranya Mallick , Sayandeep Debnath

Series: Textile Institute Professional Publications

This book promotes sustainable practices in the textile industry through the use of natural materials in textile production. The book delves into the advantages of using natural materials at every stage of textile processing, from fibre production to textile wet processing (dyeing, printing, finishing), and recycling after end use. It discusses natural materials for functional and smart textiles, sustainable methods for preparation, application, environmental impact of using biobased materials, and opportunities and challenges. With its comprehensive coverage, this is an essential resource for professionals, researchers, and academics in the textile and fashion industry.

Carbon Quantum Dots from Natural Sources

Properties, Development, and Emerging Applications

Edited by Aswathy Jayakumar , Sabarish Radoor , Jun Tae Kim , Jyotishkumar Parameswaranpillai Cochin University of Science and Technology, Kerala, India

Carbon quantum dots (CQDs) are a novel class of zero-dimensional carbon nanomaterials that are relatively nontoxic and cost-effective and offer desirable properties that make them excellent candidates for various applications. This book introduces the fundamentals of CQDs, natural sources and methods used for their synthesis, and characterization techniques. It addresses applications in biomedical, environmental, electrical, and other areas. Principals and Applications

Edited by Vivek S. Sharma , Shubham Mahajan SMVDU, Jammu, India, Anand Nayyar Duy Tan University, Vietnam, Amit Kant Pandit SMVDU, Jammu, India

Unlock the transformative potential of deep learning in your professional and academic endeavors with " Deep Learning in Engineering, Energy and Finance: Principals and Applications." This comprehensive guide seamlessly bridges the gap between theoretical concepts and practical implementations, providing you with the knowledge and tools to revolutionize industries and drive innovation. Delve into real-world applications and cutting-edge research that showcase how deep learning is redefining engineering processes, optimizing energy systems, and reshaping financial markets.

Defect Passivation and Doping Engineering for Highly Efficient Perovskite Solar Cells

Edited by Meicheng Li

Series: Advances in Materials Science and Engineering

Perovskite solar cells (PSCs) have attracted increasing interest from researchers due to their superb power conversion efficiencies. Fully understanding the fundamentals of trap defects as well as the passivation and doping strategies in PSCs is helpful for further improving device efficiency and stability. This book summarizes the strategies of defect passivation and material doping aiming to clearly describe the underlying mechanisms for high-efficiency and stable PSCs. Engineers and researchers working with photovoltaic generation, solar cells, semiconductors, and related topics will find this to be an invaluable resource.

Encapsulated Corrosion Inhibitors for Eco-Benign Smart Coatings

Edited by Ashish Kumar Nce, Dep. Sci. And Tech., Government Of Bihar, India, Abhinay Thakur Dep Chemistry, LPU, Phagwara, Punjab

This book covers all the recent advancements and technologies developed for encapsulated corrosion inhibitors-based coatings as corrosion inhibitors by using eco-benign and sustainable encapsulated smart coatings based on self-healing functionality. It includes overview, properties, applicability, methodologies to detect corrosion and recent developments made in the field to study the inhibition potential of encapsulated corrosion inhibitors for eco-benign smart coatings in several corrosive systems.

Expanding Nanobiotechnology: Applications and Commercialization

Applications and Commercialization

Edited by Ali Talha Khalil , Arshad Islam

This book will cover recent and advanced concepts in nanobiotechnology, with deep focus on their applications and commercialization. The book covers topics like green synthesis, microbial synthesis and their use in medicine, imaging, nanotheranostics, and success stories in food, energy and environment. This book is intended for researchers, biotechnologists, microbiologists and entrepreneurs spanning across diverse areas of including medicine, energy, and the environment.

Green Nanobiotechnology

Edited by Atul Thakur , Preeti Thakur , Deepa Suhag , S M Paul Khurana

Series: Nanotechnology Advances and Applications

This book provides a comprehensive exploration of green nanotechnology, covering principles, applications, and ethical considerations. It delves into the synthesis of ozone-friendly nanomaterials, green synthesis, and diverse applications of green nanoparticles in biomedical sciences, tissue engineering, biosensors, antimicrobials, and vaccine development. The environmental focus includes discussions on bioremediation, microengineered ceramics for environmental protection, and advanced nano-polymer composites. It examines the ecotoxicological implications of nanomaterials. It is an important resource for researchers and professionals of nanobiotechnology and biomedical sciences.

Handbook of Industrial and Business Applications with Digital Twins

Edited by Saravanan Krishnan Anna Uni. Regional Campus, A. Jose Anand KCG College of Technology, India, S. Sendhilkumar Anna University, India

Digital Twin represents the indistinguishable digital counterpart of the physical object to simulate, monitor and test with real time synchronization. This book presents the framework and important key aspects of digital twins including various technologies with coverage of the digital twins in various industry and business applications. It gives the background in modeling and simulation, computer, sensor technology, and other areas required creating the next wave of digital twins. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in Cloud Computing, Simulation, and IoT including computer engineering.

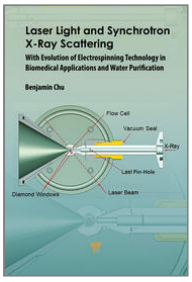
Laser Light and Synchrotron X-Ray Scattering

With Evolution of Electrospinning Technology in Biomedical and Water Purification



Benjamin Chu

This book is intended as a teaching tool for beginning graduate students and new researchers interested in two seemingly divergent themes whereby one theme deals with synchrotron X-ray scattering and laser cross correlation function techniques, while the other theme is concerned mainly with the use of electrospun nanofibers for application to water purification. Together with recent reviews of several hundreds of references on the two themes, the monograph points out how we should adapt our education to new environments in the changing society.

Logic Synthesis for FPGA-Based Mealy Finite State Machines

Structural Decomposition in Logic Design

Alexander Barkalov , Larysa Titarenko , Kazimierz Krzywicki

This book is devoted to logic synthesis of field programmable gate array (FPGA)-based circuits of Mealy finite state machines (FSM). Three new methods of state assignment are proposed which allows obtaining FSM circuits required minimum amount of internal chip resources. The audience for this book is students researchers, and engineers specializing in computer science/ engineering, electronics, and telecommunications. It will be especially useful for engineers working with in the scope of algorithms, hardware-based software accelaerators and control units, and systems based on the use of FPGA's.

Lubrication Strategies and Tips

How to "Kick-start" any Lubrication Program

Kenneth E. Bannister

This book is designed to help you navigate the complexities of lubrication with knowledge, diligence, and a commitment to optimal performance. Lubrication has always been colored with the incorrect perception that its seeming simplicity and inexpensive nature can be successfully managed with little or no knowledge or training. This guidebook will be a trusted companion offering guidance and support and empowering you to develop and implement a best practice lubrication management program in your organization.

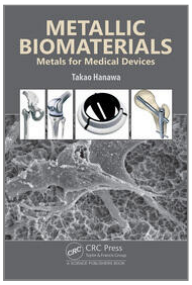
Metallic Biomaterials

Metals for Medical Devices



Takao Hanawa Tokyo Medical and Dental University, Japan

Metallic materials are used in many medical devices due to their high mechanical reliability and their excellent strength and toughness. They account for more than 70% of internally implantable devices (implants). This book helps understand the necessity and problems of metal materials used in medical applications. This book was written with the goal of helping students learn the essentials of metallic biomaterials and acquire knowledge that can be applied in a progressive manner. The target audience for this book are students, graduate students, engineers, doctors especially dentists, and others who need knowledge about metallic biomaterials.

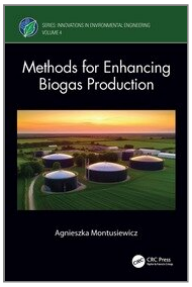
Methods for Enhancing Biogas Production



Agnieszka Montusiewicz Lublin University of Technology, Poland

Series: Innovations in Environmental Engineering

Different strategies can be applied to enhance the biogas production. They include: waste pretreatment (mechanical, thermal, chemical and biological), two-stage anaerobic digestion, anaerobic co-digestion (two-substrate and multi-substrate systems) and bioaugmentation (with natural strains or specialized consortia of microorganisms and genetically modified microorganisms or their consortia). Some of them enhance its accessibility and digestibility, the others improve nutritional balance, metabolic properties and operational factors facilitating synergistic effect of microorganisms. The book covers the current developments in the area of enhancing biogas production.

Smooth Topological Design of Continuum Structures

Yun-Fei Fu Deakin University, Australia, Bernard Rolfe Deakin University, Australia

This focuses on the use of a newly-proposed topology algorithm for structural optimization called Smooth-Edged Material Distribution for Optimizing Topology (SEMDOT). It presents the basic theory of SEMDOT and explains connections between this method and the corresponding optimizers. The method is used to address the long-standing jagged edge problem facing classical topology optimization algorithms and is presented as a perfect tool for combining additive manufacturing and topology optimization. A range of case studies are included. This serves as a textbook and reference for graduate and senior undergraduate students in the area, and engineers in the structural optimization field.

The Iron Triangle of Energy

How to Improve Energy Cost, Reliability, & Emissions

Ronald L. Miller

Series: River Publishers Series in Energy Management

"The Iron Triangle of Energy" explores the intricate balance between cheap, reliable, and clean energy. In a world of trade-offs, this book provides rational ideas to optimize energy choices. With a focus on education and mentoring, it equips consumers, students, industry, and government with the knowledge needed to make informed decisions for our future. Rich with pertinent graphs, it offers a clear understanding of key energy issues.

The Use of Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) in the Management of the Innovative and Smart City

Edited by Judyta Kabus , Luiza Piersiala Czestochowa University of Technology, Poland, Michał Dziadkiewicz

The purpose of this book is to systematize knowledge about the practical application and importance of innovative solutions in the economic and social fields. An important aspect of this edition is the presentation of innovations applied in the field of conservation, not only of energy or environmental resources, but also of economic, social and spatial resources. We propose that this edition provides a knowledge base on the basic concepts of corporate social responsibility (CSR), formulating the important role of management in the context of corporate social responsibility, smart management, smart economy and smart cities.

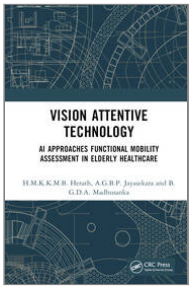
Vision Attentive Technology

AI Approaches for Functional Mobility Assessments in Elderly Healthcare



H.M.K.K.M.B. Herath Sri Lanka Technological Campus, A.G.B.P. Jayasekara , B.G.D.A. Madhusanka

This book provides a comprehensive overview of the use of vision attentive technology and artificial intelligence methodologies for functional mobility assessment in elderly populations. This book would be helpful to researchers in the field of healthcare, especially those interested in using technology to enhance patient outcomes. Geriatricians, physical therapists, and occupational therapists who treat older patients will also benefit from reading this book. It will also be helpful to readers who are studying biomedical engineering, artificial intelligence, and healthcare.

Advanced Manufacturing Processes

Integration of Sustainable Approaches

Edited by Hitesh Vasudev LPU, India, Chander Prakash SVKM'S Narsee Monjee Institute of Management Studies, Mumbai, India, Mohammad Khalid , Kavindra Kesari

Series: Sustainable Manufacturing Technologies

The increasing demand for advanced manufacturing processes is making an impact on the Earth's resources, and its industrial practices are producing negative impacts on the environment, such as carbon footprints, energy resources, waste, etc. The trend of advanced manufacturing coincides with the acceleration of innovations in sustainable techniques. All aspects related to the implementation and adoption of sustainable advanced manufacturing approaches are encapsulated in this book along with their applications which makes this a useful book for industry, academic teaching, research scholars, and experts dealing with sustainability-related issues.

Is Quality Just a Word We Use?

The Evolution from Managing Quality to Championing Organizational Excellence

Tom Taormina

Quality management systems are essential for businesses to meet customer needs, ranging from product control to enterprise-wide process management. Effective management can elevate organizations to brand domination. This book equips quality experts with skills to champion business excellence and risk avoidance. This book presents a groundbreaking model for high-quality professionals to drive revolutionary changes in business management, empowering them to eliminate defects and enhance their impact on business success, attracting professionals in fields such as Quality Assurance, Quality Management, risk management, Manufacturing Management, and those involved in litigation.

Transforming Gender-Based Healthcare with AI and Machine Learning

Edited by Meenu Gupta Chandigarh University, Punjab, Rakesh Kumar , Zhongyu Lu University of Huddersfield

Series: Studies in Intelligent Systems and Cognitive Computing

This book provides a thorough exploration of the intersection between gender-based healthcare disparities and the transformative potential of AI and Machine Learning. It covers a wide range of topics from fundamental concepts to practical applications. Written to encourage interdisciplinary collaboration and highlight the importance of cooperation between health professionals, technologies, researchers, and policymakers, this book portrays how this collaborative approach is essential for achieving transformative goals and is not only for professionals but can also be used at the student level as well.

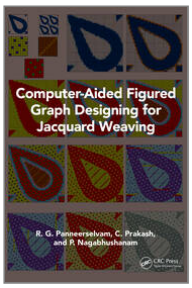
Computer-Aided Figured Graph Designing for Jacquard Weaving



R. G. Panneerselvam KCG College of Technology, India, C. Prakash Indian Institute of Handloom Technology, India, P. Nagabhushanam Indian Institute of Handloom Technology, India

Computer-Aided Figured Graph Designing (CAFGD) has become essential for the electronic jacquard weaving sector. This book explains the common principles of CAFGD for jacquard weaving including systematic fundamental common procedure for doing computer aided graph designing for jacquard weaving using any software. It covers the mathematical calculations to be followed in different stages of converting the given motif to figured graph design with required weave inputs. It covers the common algorithms followed in preparing computer aided figured graph designing. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in textile engineering, textile, and fashion design.

Arturo Realyvásquez Vargas , Jorge Garcia Alcaraz Autononous University of Ciudad Juarez, Chihuahua, Mexico, Suchismita Satapathy , José Roberto Díaz-Reza , Bogart Yail Marquez Lobato

The industry is facing a multitude of challenges on production lines that must be systematically addressed to improve quality and productivity. One commonly utilized methodology is DMAIC (Define, Measure, Analyze, Improve, and Control). This user-friendly resource defines DMAIC concepts and tools, and includes case studies. This book serves as a valuable resource for professionals, students, and individuals responsible for improving industrial production systems. By consolidating theory, tools, and case studies into a single book, readers can gain a comprehensive understanding of DMAIC and its application in industry.

Handbook of 3D Printing in Pharmaceutics

Innovations and Applications

Edited by Prakash Katakam , Ranvijay Kumar Chandigarh University, Mohali, Nishant Ranjan Chandigarh University, Atul Babbar Shree Guru Gobind Singh Tricentenary University

Series: Innovations in Smart Manufacturing for Long-Term Development and Growth

3D printing has evolved as an emerging tool for the design of customized or personalized medication that provides the maximum therapeutic benefits to patients. The manufacturing of medicines in small batches customized with tailored dosages, sizes, shapes, and drug release properties is the key prospect of using 3D printing in pharmaceutics. This handbook is an ideal read for undergraduates, graduates, and postgraduate research scholars. Industrial and academic professionals working and studying industrial, manufacturing, and production engineering, mechanical engineering, pharmaceutical sciences, material science, and other related domains will want this handbook.

Handbook of Digital Innovation, Transformation, and Sustainable Development in a Post-Pandemic Era

Edited by M. Affan Badar , Ruchika Gupta , Priyank Srivastava , Imran Ali , Elizabeth A. Cudney Maryville University, St. Louis, USA

Series: Systems Innovation Book Series

Businesses have faced a variety of difficulties as a result of the global pandemic, and how they responded to this disruption has affected both their resilience and their ability to get through this crisis. Digital technologies have played a crucial role in addressing these issues and fostering resilience. It is, therefore, imperative to explore options for post-pandemic business transformation and rethinking sustainable development. Researchers and practitioners in industrial engineering, engineering management, business management, supply chain management, and digital technologies along with businesses can apply the research and practices covered in the handbook.

Management for Sustainable Development

Integrating Social, Economic, and Environmental Goals

Edited by Vishal Jain , Amit Mittal

Presents the concept of sustainable development in various manifestations along with its challenges and its advantages. It looks at sustainability in the interrelationship of business, manufacturing, finance, etc. It discusses the impact of India's CSR Policy 2013 and analyses the innovation activity of the country's manufacturing firms and the relation between sustainable innovation and corporate social responsibility. It explores how new financial technology (or Fintech) can help foster sustainable finance and the role of digitization and AL in achieving sustainability goals.

System Reliability Analysis

Transition from Binary to Multi-state Models

Edited by Akshay Kumar Graphic Hill Era University, India, Mangey Ram Graphic Hill Era University, India, Rajesh S. Prabhu Gaonkar IIT Goa, Yury Klochkov

Series: Advanced Research in Reliability and System Assurance Engineering

The text covers both basic and advanced techniques based on state performance systems and binary systems. The chapters will highlight reliability prediction, series-parallel, and complex modeling. It presents a dynamic reliability analysis of safety-critical systems using Petri Nets, and dynamic resource allocation modeling of software with patching. The text illustrates a Semi-Markov analysis of systems with a Weibull interface. It is primarily written for graduate students and academic researchers in the fields of industrial engineering, systems engineering, manufacturing engineering, production engineering, mechanical engineering, and mathematics.

Malliavin Calculus in Finance

Theory and Practice

Elisa Alos Universitat Pompeu Frabra, Spain, David Garcia Lorite

Series: Chapman and Hall/CRC Financial Mathematics Series

Malliavin Calculus in Finance: Theory and Practice, Second Edition introduces the study of stochastic volatility (SV) models via Malliavin Calculus. This book aims to bridge the gap between theory and practice and demonstrate the practical value of Malliavin calculus. It offers readers the chance to discover an easy-to-apply tool that allows us to recover, unify, and generalize several previous results in the literature on stochastic volatility modeling related to the vanilla, the forward, and the VIX implied volatility surfaces.

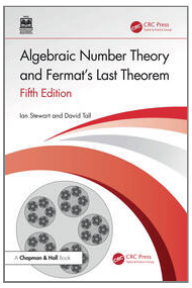
Algebraic Number Theory and Fermat's Last Theorem



Ian Stewart , David Tall University of Warwick, UK

Updated to reflect current research and extended to cover more advanced topics as well as the basics, this book introduces fundamental ideas of algebraic numbers and explores one of the most intriguing stories in the history of mathematics—the quest for a proof of Fermat's Last Theorem. The authors use this celebrated theorem to motivate a general study of the theory of algebraic numbers, initially from a relatively concrete point of view. Students will see how Wiles's proof of Fermat's Last Theorem opened many new areas for future work.

Measure and Integral: Theory and Practice

John Srdjan Petrovic Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, USA

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

This accessible introduction to the topic covers the theory of measure and integral, as introduced by Lebesgue and developed in the first half of the 20th century. It leads naturally to Banach spaces of functions and linear operators acting on them. This material is typically covered in a graduate course and is almost always treated in an abstract way, with little or no motivation. The author employs a plethora of examples and exercises and strives to motivate every concept with its historical background. This textbook is accessible to a wider range of students, including at the undergraduate level.

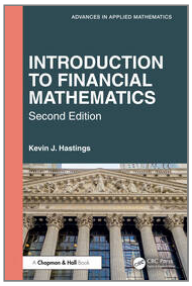
Introduction to Financial Mathematics



Kevin J. Hastings Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois, USA

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

The second edition of this successful and widely recognized textbook again focuses on discrete topics. The author recognizes two distinct paths of study and careers of actuarial science and financial engineering. This text can be very useful as a common core for both. The notable changes and updates to this edition are itemized in the Preface, however, overall, the presentation has been made more efficient. One example is the chapter on discrete probability, rather unique in its emphasis on giving the deterministic problems studied earlier a probabilistic context.

Advances in High-Order Predictive Modelling

Methodologies and Illustrative Problem

Dan Gabriel Cacuci University of South Carolina

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

Continuing the author's previous work on modeling, this book presents the most recent advances in high-order predictive modeling. The author begins with the mathematical framework of the 2nd-BERRU-PM methodology, an acronym that designates the "second-order best-estimate with reduced uncertainties (2nd-BERRU) predictive modeling (PM)." The 2nd-BERRU-PM methodology is fundamentally anchored in physics-based principles stemming from thermodynamics (maximum entropy principle) and information theory, being formulated in the most inclusive possible phase-space, namely the combined phase-space of computed and measured parameters and responses.

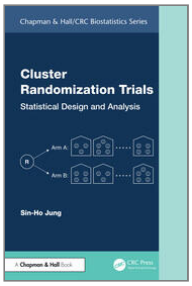
Cluster Randomization Trials

Statistical Design and Analysis



Sin-Ho Jung

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Biostatistics Series

This book covers all three types of trials (i.e. CRTs, SRTs, and IRGT trials) resulting in clustered data. For outcome variables of binary, continuous, and time to event types, we investigate generalized estimating equation, type statistical tests and their sample size formulas. Also presented are random number generation algorithms for different types of outcome variables and randomization methods. The methods are discussed in terms of clinical trials, but can be used to design and analyze any types of experiments involving clustered data. This book also discussed statistical methods for various types of biomarker studies, including ROC methods, with clustered data.

Foundations of Quantization

Stanislav Ordin

The foundation of this book was laid by the popular science article "Uncombed Physics and the Particle of God" (http://rusnor.org/pubs/articles/8058.htm; this is how the Higgs boson was pompously called when he was awarded the Nobel Prize.) This work was continued by the author in subsequent books in which the author deliberately (for self-control) tried to include only the material that had passed the examination in scientific journals. This book includes both the author's early scientific works, which identified problems in elementary basic models, and the author's latest, which gave ways to solve fundamental problems.

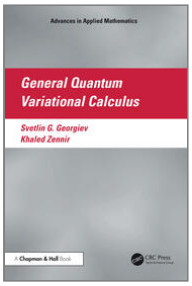
General Quantum Variational Calculus



Svetlin G. Georgiev , Khaled Zennir Qassim University

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

Quantum calculus is the modern name for the investigation of calculus without limits. The quantum calculus or q-calculus began with FH Jackson in the early twentieth century, but this kind of calculus had already been worked out by Euler and Jacobi. This book is specially designed for those who wish to understand general quantum variational calculus. This book encompasses recent developments of general quantum variational calculus. The text material of this book is presented in highly readable, mathematically solid format. Many practical problems are illustrated displaying a wide variety of solution techniques.

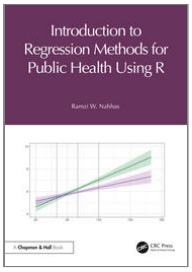
Introduction to Regression Methods for Public Health Using R



Ramzi W. Nahhas Wright State University

Introduction to Regression Methods for Public Health Using R teaches regression methods for continuous, binary, ordinal, and time-to-event outcomes using R as a tool. The focus of this book is on understanding and fitting regression models, diagnosing model fit, and interpreting and writing up results. Examples are drawn from public health and clinical studies. Designed for students, researchers, and practitioners with a basic understanding of introductory statistics, this book teaches the basics of regression and how to implement regression methods using R, allowing the reader to enhance their understanding and begin to grasp new concepts and models.

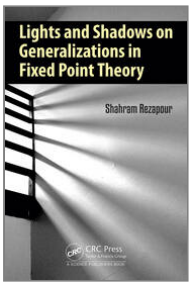
Lights and Shadows on Generalizations in Fixed Point Theory



Shahram Rezapour Dicle University, Turkey

Fixed point theory is a powerful tool in nonlinear analysis, with applications in fractional differential equations and other areas. The book examines the classical techniques of this theory with a critical approach, along with the emergence of various generalizations in its evolution. Using the latest theories of the philosophy of science, the author aims to provide a philosophical explanation for the gaps in the fixed point theory and introduce the reader to profound mathematical-philosophical challenges.

Mathematical Analysis

Theory and Applications

Edited by Pradip Debnath , H M Srivastava Uni. of Victoria, Canada, Delfim F. M. Torres , Yeol Je Cho

This book provides an overview of the most up-to-date developments in the field, presenting original contributions and surveys from a spectrum of respected academics. Readers will discover numerous valuable tools and techniques to enhance their understanding of recent advancements in mathematical analysis and its applications. Each chapter highlights new research directions, making this book suitable for graduate students, faculty, and researchers with an active interest in the development of mathematical analysis and its practical implementations. Minimal prerequisites in analysis, topology, and functional analysis are required for readers to fully benefit from the content.

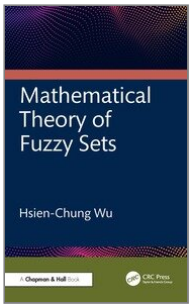
Mathematical Theory of Fuzzy Sets



Hsien-Chung Wu

This book presents the mathematical theory of non-normal fuzzy sets such that it can be rigorously used as a basic tool to study engineering and economic problems under a fuzzy environment. It may also be used as a textbook at the graduate level, or as a reference for researchers. The book explores the current state of affairs in set operations of fuzzy sets, arithmetic operations of fuzzy interval and fuzzification of crisp functions, which are frequently adopted to model engineering and economic problems with fuzzy uncertainty.

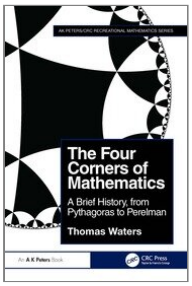
The Four Corners of Mathematics

A Brief History, from Pythagoras to Perelman



Thomas Waters

Series: AK Peters/CRC Recreational Mathematics Series

The Four Corners of Mathematics: A Brief History, from Pythagoras to Perelman describes the historical development of the 'big ideas' in mathematics in an accessible and intuitive manner. In delivering this bird's-eye view of the history of mathematics, the author uses engaging diagrams and images to communicate complex concepts while also exploring the details of the main results and methods of high-level mathematics. As such, this book involves some equations and terminology, but the only assumption on the readers' knowledge is A-level or high school mathematics.

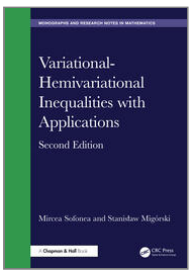
Variational-Hemivariational Inequalities with Applications



Mircea Sofonea University of Perpignan, France, Stanislaw Migorski Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Monographs and Research Notes in Mathematics

This book represents the outcome of the cross-fertilization of nonlinear functional analysis and mathematical modelling, demonstrating its application to solid and contact mechanics. Based on authors' original results, the book illustrates the use of various functional methods (including monotonicity, pseudomonotonicity, compactness, penalty and fixed-point methods) in the study of various nonlinear problems in analysis and mechanics. Written for mathematicians, applied mathematicians, engineers and scientists, this book is also a valuable tool for graduate students and researchers in nonlinear analysis, mathematical modelling, mechanics of solids, and contact mechanics.

Game Narrative Design and UX Fundamentals

Tools for Player-centric Storytelling

Abigail Rindo

Game narrative and UX share a deep, interconnected relationship. This book explores the connections between narrative and UX to develop a framework for creating player centric stories in games by covering best practices in both crafts using a unified language. This is very much intended to be a reference book emphasizing fundamentals, but also offers a deep dive into the best practices and methodologies. It will appeal to aspiring and current game narrative designers, UX designers, researchers, writers, and developers, students at the graduate level, or anyone interested in expanding their understanding of player centricity or world building.

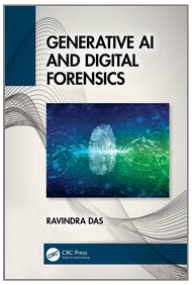
Generative AI and Digital Forensics



Ravindra Das

A key step here is to investigate how and why the security breach happened in the first place. The best to do this is through what is known as "Digital Forensics". This is where specially trained Digital Forensics Investigators collect and comb through every piece of evidence to determine this. Eventually, the goal is then to use this evidence in a Court of Law so the Cyberattacker can be made to answer to their crime and eventually be brought to justice.

Anne Kohnke Lawrence Technological University, Southfield, Michigan, USA, Ken Sigler Oakland Community College, Auburn Hills, Michigan, USA, Dan Shoemaker University of Detroit Mercy, Michigan, USA

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

The book provides the complete strategic understanding requisite to allow a person to create and use the RMF process recommendations for risk management. This will be the case both for applications of the RMF in corporate training situations, as well as for any individual who wants to obtain specialized knowledge in organizational risk management. It is an all-purpose roadmap of sorts aimed at the practical understanding and implementation of the risk management process as a standard entity. It will enable an "application" of the risk management process as well as the fundamental elements of control formulation within an applied context.

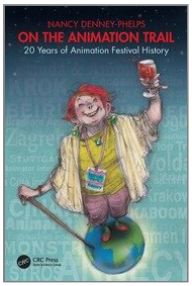
On the Animation Trail

20 Years of Animation Festival History



Nancy Denney-Phelps Animation World Network, CA, USA.

This book charts the history of the last 20 years of animation festivals. From Annecy, the oldest animation festival in the world, to Beirut, or the founding of the festival in Peja, Kosovo, Nancy-Denney Phelps has recorded not just the films screened but also the people and what makes each festival unique. Documenting over 20 years of travels, this book will appeal to all those with an interest in animation. If you are a young animator and want to know what festival life is like, this is the book for you. If you are a seasoned veteran and want to bring back some memories of festival past this book should bring some smiles to your face.

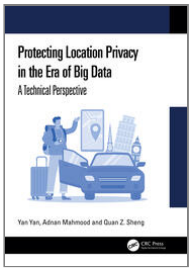
Protecting Location Privacy in the Era of Big Data

A Technical Perspective



Yan Yan , Adnan Mahmood Macquarie University, Quan Z. Sheng

This book examines the uses and potential risks of location-based services (LBS) in the context of big data, with a focus on location privacy protection methods. This title will be a valuable resource for researchers, students, and professionals interested in location-based services, privacy computing and protection, wireless network security, and big data security.

Quantum Computing Strategy

Foundations and Applicability

Elena Yndurain

Quantum computing is not merely an incremental advancement in computing technology; it represents a fundamentally different paradigm from classical computing. Rooted in quantum mechanics, it introduces an entirely new information theory. As a result, translating existing models, solution designs, and approaches to quantum computing is a complex and non-trivial task. This comprehensive book demystifies complex quantum concepts through accessible explanations, practical case studies, and real-world examples from various industries including aerospace, agriculture, automotive, chemicals, energy, finance, government, healthcare, manufacturing, supply chain and telecommunications.

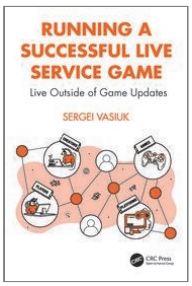
Running a Successful Live Service Game

Live Outside of Game Updates



Sergei Vasiuk

The book discusses how live-services video games are published and operated to ensure they are fun and engaging. It explains that what we see on the screen when we play is just a small part of a big process. This process involves studying how players interact with the game and using this information to guess what they might do next. This book will be vital reading to all games professionals that work on live service games, as well as students looking to learn more about the design and development of these games.

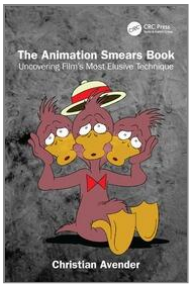
The Animation Smears Book

Uncovering Film's Most Elusive Technique



Christian Avender

The Animation Smears Book: Uncovering Film's Most Elusive Technique is a comprehensive guide that provides extensive information on the stylistic and creative aspects of smears and their impact on how they make use of the way we perceive motion. Additionally, it also reveals the names of artists who helped develop them and the original techniques that they used. Thoroughly examined by a professional animator, the animation smear is highlighted as a versatile technique used in all forms of animation including 3D and stop-motion.

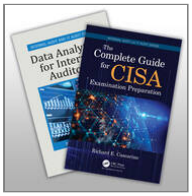
The Complete Guide for CISA Examination Preparation and Data Analytics for Internal Auditors Set



Richard E. Cascarino

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

The Complete Guide for CISA Examination Success delivers complete coverage of every topic on the latest release of the Certified Information Systems Auditor (CISA) exam. The author, an IT security and auditing expert, book covers all five exam domains. This effective self-study system features chapter learning objectives, in-depth explanations of each topic, and accurate practice questions. Each chapter includes exam tips that highlight key exam information, hands-on exercises, a summary that serves as a quick review, and end-of-chapter questions that simulate those on the actual exam. Designed to help candidates pass the CISA exam easily, it also serves as an ideal on-the-job reference.

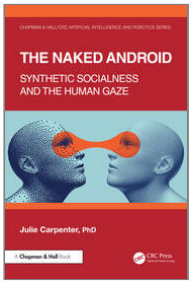
The Naked Android

Synthetic Socialness and the Human Gaze



Julie Carpenter

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Artificial Intelligence and Robotics Series

The Naked Android: Synthetic Socialness and the Human Gaze illuminates the connection between the stories people tell, their expectations of what a robot is, and how these beliefs and values manifest in how real robots are designed and used. Using ethnographic methods including in-depth interviews with a variety of stakeholders, each chapter explores how people are designing social robots, the experience of living with robots, and people whose jobs it is to dream about a future integrated with robots.

The Rise of Intelligent Machines

A Multi-disciplinary Perspective from Industry and Impact on Higher Education

Edited by Nadya Shaznay Patel Singapore Institute of Technology, Nitin Indurkhya

The rapid advancement of artificial intelligence (AI) and other emerging technologies has fundamentally transformed our world in recent decades. This book seeks to explore these profound changes, offering insights from professionals across diverse fields and examining the potential of AI. The book is aimed at students and educators, researchers and administrators in higher education, business leaders, executives and professionals across diverse industries, policymakers, tech enthusiasts, and the general public interested in the impact of AI in varied disciplines. This book is a useful reference for similar postgraduate courses.

World Design for 2D Action Adventures

Christopher W. Totten American University, Washington, DC, USA, Adrian Sandoval

Series: Level Design Practices

Award-winning action adventure designers Christopher Totten and Adrian Sandoval guide you on a quest to create levels for different styles of 2D action-adventure games, from top-down dungeon-crawler adventures to side-scrolling non-linear "Metroidvania" titles. The book shows how principles of game and level design are applied in some of your favorite 2D action-adventure games. It uses examples from games such as The Legend of Zelda and Hollow Knight, and provides insights from the authors' own experiences. Level Design Practices for 2D Action Adventure Games will help to improve their level design skills within this genre.

An Introduction to Ansys Fluent 2024

John E. Matsson

As an engineer, you may need to test how a design interacts with fluids. For example, you may need to simulate how air flows over an aircraft wing, how water flows through a filter, or how water seeps under a dam. Carrying out simulations is often a critical step in verifying that a design will be successful. In this hands-on book, you'll learn in detail how to run Computational Fluid Dynamics (CFD) simulations using Ansys Fluent. Ansys Fluent is known for its power, simplicity and speed, which has helped make it a world leader in CFD software, both in academia and industry.

Ansys Workbench Tutorial Release 2024

Structure & Thermal Analysis Using Ansys Workbench Release 2024 Environment

Kent L. Lawrence

To understand Ansys Workbench quickly and well, you need to learn from an expert, study in short bursts of time, and complete hands-on exercises. Ansys Workbench Tutorial: Structural & Thermal Analysis Using Ansys Workbench Release 2024 checks all those boxes. Ansys Workbench is a powerful and widely used solid modeling, simulation and optimization software program. This textbook uses tutorials to cover key features of the software: stress analysis, conduction/convection heat transfer, thermal stress, vibration, buckling, nonlinear problems with an introduction to composites, design optimization, and electro-thermal-deflection coupling.

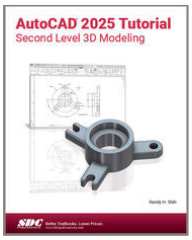
AutoCAD 2025 Tutorial Second Level 3D Modeling



Randy H. Shih

The primary goal of AutoCAD 2025 Tutorial Second Level 3D Modeling is to introduce the aspects of computer based three dimensional modeling. This text is intended to be used as a training guide for both students and professionals. The chapters in this book cover AutoCAD 2025 and proceed in a pedagogical fashion to guide you from constructing 3D wire frame models, 3D surface models, and 3D solid models to making multiview drawings and rendering images. The text takes a hands-on, exercise-intensive approach to all the important 3D modeling techniques and concepts.

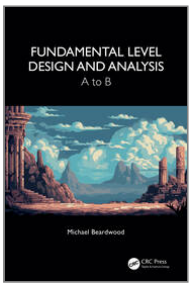
Fundamental Level Design and Analysis

A to B



Michael Beardwood Staffordshire Univ., UK

This book provides a starting point for anyone interested in level and game design with zero prior knowledge. By analysing existing games and levels it introduces good design ideas and works towards communicating them in either design or practical methods. It covers a multitude of design standards as well as showcasing relatively easy methods of communicating ideas to an industry standard. This book will be suitable for undergraduate students studying on game design courses, as well as those looking to learn the basics of level design.

Interior Design Using Autodesk Revit 2025

Introduction to Building Information Modeling for Interior Designers

Daniel John Stine

The intent of this book is to provide the interior design student a well-rounded knowledge of Autodesk Revit tools and techniques. These skills can then be applied to enhance professional development in both academia and industry. Each book also includes access to video tutorials designed to further help you master Autodesk Revit. The overall premise of the book is to help you learn Revit while developing the interior of a two story law office. At the start of the book you are provided an architectural model with established columns, beams, exterior walls, minimal interior walls and roofs in which to work.

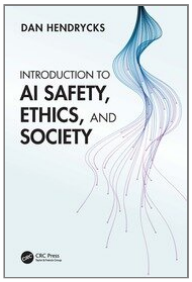
Introduction to AI Safety, Ethics, and Society



Dan Hendrycks

Introduction to AI Safety, Ethics, and Society is a comprehensive and interdisciplinary introduction to AI Safety. As AI threatens to transform society, it becomes increasingly more important to understand the risks that AI poses, and to learn what measures we can take to mitigate them. Leveraging insights from a spectrum of academic disciplines, this book sheds light on the risks from AI, and breaks down these risks into four primary categories: malicious use, rogue AIs, AI races, and organizational risks.

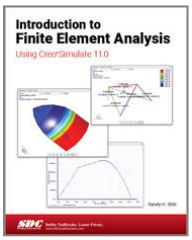
Introduction to Finite Element Analysis Using Creo Simulate 11.0



Randy H. Shih

The primary goal of Introduction to Finite Element Analysis Using Creo Simulate 11.0 is to introduce the aspects of finite element analysis (FEA) that are important to engineers and designers. Theoretical aspects of finite element analysis are also introduced as they are needed to help better understand the operations. The primary emphasis of the text is placed on the practical concepts and procedures of using Creo Simulate in performing Linear Statics Stress Analysis; but the basic modal analysis procedure is covered. This text is intended to be used as a training guide for both students and professionals.

Mastering Cybersecurity

A Practical Guide for Professionals (Volume 1)

Akashdeep Bhardwaj University of Petroleum and Energy Studies

The first volume starts with the fundamentals and hands-on of performing log analysis on Windows and Linux systems. You will then build your own virtual environment to hone your penetration testing skills. But defense isn't just about identifying weaknesses; it's about building secure applications from the ground up. The book teaches you how to leverage Docker and other technologies for application deployments and Appsec management. Next, we delve into information gathering of targets as well as vulnerability scanning of vulnerable OS and Apps running on DVWA, Metasploitable2, Kioptrix and others. You'll also learn live hunting for vulnerable devices and systems on the Internet.

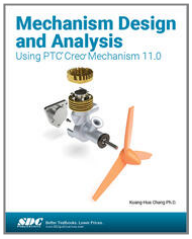
Mechanism Design and Analysis Using PTC Creo Mechanism 11.0



Kuang-Hua Chang

Mechanism Design and Analysis Using PTC Creo Mechanism 11.0 is designed to help you become familiar with Mechanism, a module of the PTC Creo Parametric software family, which supports modeling and analysis (or simulation) of mechanisms in a virtual (computer) environment. Capabilities in Mechanism allow users to simulate and visualize mechanism performance. Using Mechanism early in the product development stage could prevent costly redesign due to design defects found in the physical testing phase; therefore, it contributes to a more cost effective, reliable, and efficient product development process.

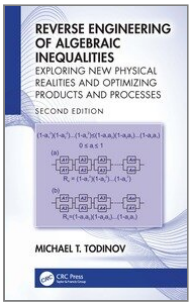
Reverse Engineering of Algebraic Inequalities

Exploring New Physical Realities and Optimizing Products and Processes



Michael T. Todinov Oxford Brookes University, UK

This book introduces a novel method that relies on reverse engineering of algebraic inequalities with the purpose to optimize systems and processes in relevant fields like mechanical eng, structural eng, physics, electrical eng, reliability eng, and risk management. This book provides the reader with methods to enhance the reliability of systems in total absence of knowledge about the reliabilities of the components building the systems; to develop light-weight structures; to develop structures with very big load-bearing capacity; to enhance process performance; to obtain new useful physical properties and to correct flaws in the current practice for predicting system reliability.

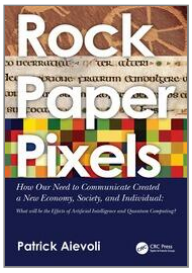
How Our Need to Communicate Created a New Economy, Society, and Individual: What will be the Effects of Artificial Intelligence and Quantum Computing?



Patrick Aievoli

The purpose of this book was to avail students of the many different reasons and back-stories equated with the advent of interaction design and its effect on our world. Since the beginning of recorded history mankind has desired to keep track of its events and accomplishments and to find a way to properly represent those occurrences to the rest of the world. Now with the use of interaction design and multimedia it has become possible to present the story through a current and evocative platform. The main goal of this book is to help you take your first steps in that new direction. To understand the effects of this new platform and to be wary of its abilities and its dangers.

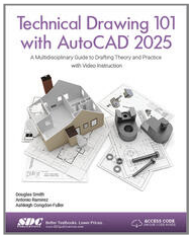
Technical Drawing 101 with AutoCAD 2025

A Multidisciplinary Guide to Drafting Theory and Practice with Video Instruction



Ashleigh Congdon-Fuller , Antonio Ramirez , Douglas Smith

Technical Drawing 101 with AutoCAD begins with technical and multi-view drawing basics. The CAD portion of the text incorporates drafting theory whenever possible and covers the basics of drawing setup (units, limits, and layers), the tools of the Draw, Modify, and Dimension toolbars, and the fundamentals of 3D modeling. By focusing on the fundamental building blocks of CAD, Technical Drawing 101 with AutoCAD provides a solid foundation for students going on to learn advanced CAD concepts and techniques (xrefs, annotative scaling, etc.) in intermediate CAD courses.

This book examines the applications, trends and challenges of 5G Enabled technologies for Smart City and Urbanization systems. It addresses the challenges to bringing such capabilities of 5G-enabled technologies for smart cities and urbanisation into practice by presenting the theoretical as well as technical research outcomes with case studies. It covers key areas, including smart building, smart health care, smart mobility, smart living, smart surveillance, and IOT-based systems. It explains how these systems are connected using different technologies that support 5G access and control protocols.

Advancements in AI and IoT for Chip Manufacturing and Defect Prevention

Rupal Jain

This is essential reading for semiconductor professionals seeking to expand their knowledge on silicon processes, understand the significance of defect prevention, and explore methods for optimizing processes by reducing defects using AI and IoT technologies. Targeting semiconductor engineers, researchers, technology professionals, and students, this book serves as a valuable resource for understanding the interplay between semiconductors, manufacturing processes, defects, and the transformative potential of AI and IoT integration.

Advancements in Cyber Crime Investigations and Modern Data Analytics

Edited by Shishir Kumar Shandilya Devi Ahilya University, India, Devangana Sujay VIT Bhopal University, India., VB Gupta Devi Ahilya University, India.

This book presents a fresh perspective on combating cybercrime, showcasing innovative solutions from experts across various fields. With the integration of artificial intelligence (AI), contemporary challenges are addressed with state-of-the-art strategies. The book discusses a wide range of timely issues within the domain of cybercrime and investigation, emphasizing AI-driven solutions and future multidisciplinary perspectives. As data becomes central to all digital interactions, it also becomes increasingly vulnerable, making it a prime target for adversaries.

Agile Security in the Digital Era

Challenges and Cybersecurity Trends

Edited by Mounia Zaydi Catholic University of Lille, France, Youness Khourdifi Sultan Moulay Slimane University, Morocco, Bouchaib Nassereddine , Justin Zhang

In an era defined by rapid digital transformation, "Agile Security in the Digital Era: Challenges and Cybersecurity Trends" emerges as a pivotal resource for navigating the complex and ever-evolving cybersecurity landscape. This book offers a comprehensive exploration of how agile methodologies can be integrated into cybersecurity practices to address both current challenges and anticipate future threats. Through a blend of theoretical insights and practical applications, it equips professionals with the tools necessary to develop proactive security strategies that are robust, flexible, and effective.

AI Revolution

Mastering AI for Personal and Organizational Growth

Tero Ojanperä

""The AI Revolution"" is a practical guide to using new AI tools, such as ChatGPT, DALLE and Midjourney. Learn how to multiply your productivity by guiding or prompting AI in various ways. The book also introduces Microsoft Copilot, Google Bard, and Adobe Photoshop Generative Fill, among other new applications. The book provides examples of how AI increases productivity, which professions are changing or disappearing, and how job markets will evolve in the coming years. With this book, you'll learn to recognize the opportunities and risks AI offers. Understand what this change demands from individuals and companies and what strategic skills are required.

Applications of Artificial Intelligence in Business and Finance 5.0

Edited by Richa Goel , Vikas Garg , Michela Floris

Provides overview of how artificial intelligence (AI) applications are transforming global businesses and financial organizations, looking at the newest artificial intelligence-based solutions for e-commerce, corporate management, finance, banking, and trading, and more. Chapters look at using artificial intelligence and machine learning techniques to forecast and assess different financial risks such as liquidity risk, volatility risk, and credit risk. It describes the use of natural language processing and text mining paired with machine learning models to assist in guiding sophisticated investors and corporate managers in financial decision making.

Artificial Intelligence

Technical and Societal Advancements

Edited by Utku Kose , Mustafa Umut Demirezen

Series: Artificial Intelligence for Sustainable Engineering and Management

This book provides an examination of cutting-edge research and developments in the field of Artificial Intelligence. It seeks to extend the view in both technical and societal evaluations to ensure a well-defined balance for societal outcomes. It explores hot topics such as Generative Artificial Intelligence,and Quantum Artificial Intelligence. The target reader of this book includes academicians, researchers, experts, policy makers, educators, and B.S., M.S., PhD. students in the context of target problem fields. It can be used accordingly as a reference source and even supportive material for Artificial Intelligence-oriented courses.

Artificial Intelligence and IoT for Cyber Security Solutions in Smart Cities

Edited by Smita Sharma , Manikandan Thirumalaisamy , Balamurugan Balusamy Shiv Nadar Uni., Naveen Chilamkurti La Trobe University, Melbourne

This book offers a comprehensive overview of the current state of cybersecurity in smart cities and explores how AI and IoT technologies can be used to address cybersecurity challenges. It discusses the potential of AI for threat detection, risk assessment, and incident response, as well as the use of IoT sensors for real-time monitoring and data analysis in the context of smart cities. It includes case studies from around the world to provide practical insights into the use of AI and IoT technologies for enhancing cybersecurity in different contexts and highlight the potential benefits of these technologies for improving the resilience and security of smart cities.

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning for Sustainable Development

Innovations, Challenges, and Applications

Edited by Pawan Whig , Pavika Sharma , Nagender Aneja , Ahmed A. Elngar , Nuno Silva

This book examines whether technology can be used to fix the very problems caused by technology, as the various chapters examine different aspects related to how technology has brought us where we are today (which some will say is the best place humanity's been at according to a range of metrics), and whether technology helps or hinders us in our efforts to solve the challenges we currently face. The issues discussed cover the three sustainability dimensions and include topics such as the materiality of AI, technology in education, AI for gender equality, innovation and the digital divide, and how technology relates to power, the political system, and capitalism.

Artificial Intelligence for Blockchain and Cybersecurity Powered IoT Applications

Edited by Mariya Ouaissa , Mariyam Ouaissa , Zakaria Boulouard , Abhishek Kumar AECRC, Vandana Sharma , Keshav Kaushik UPES, Dehradun, India

The objective of this book is to exhibit recent solutions and to discuss the opportunities that AI, Blockchain, and even their combinations can present to solve the issue of IoT security. It delves into cutting-edge technologies and methodologies, illustrating how these innovations can fortify IoT ecosystems against security threats. The discussion includes a comprehensive analysis of AI techniques such as machine learning and deep learning, which can detect and respond to security breaches in real time. Blockchain's role in ensuring data integrity, transparency, and tamper-proof transactions is also thoroughly examined. Furthermore.

Artificial Intelligence for Precision Agriculture

Edited by Pethuru Raj IBM Pvt.Ltd., Manyata Tech Park, Bangolore, India, N Gayathri , G. Jaspher Willsie Kathrine

The book articulates how the power of AI can be channeled to make a perceptible impact on agriculture through digital transformation. Use cases illustrate how AI can simplify and speed this agricultural transformation. Focusing on the distinct characteristics of AI, the book explains how to intelligently automate agriculture processes and practices. In particular, it looks at embedding computer vision capabilities can be embedded in farming instruments and equipment to automate a suite of agriculture-related tasks.

Blockchain Technology for Cyber Defense, Cyber Security, and Countermeasures

Techniques, Solutions, and Applications

Edited by Naresh Kshetri , Purnendu Shekhar Pandey , Mohiuddin Ahmed Edith Cowen University, Australia

This book offers approaches for cybersecurity and cyber defense via Blockchain technology to counter cyber-attacks and ransomwares that are increasing every second. The book can be used for many ways by several cybersecurity professionals to secure online data, people, and networks as a part of cybersecurity, information security and cyber defense initiative with several countermeasures and defense strategies in the web. Each chapter of the book provide excellent tools and techniques for the burning and challenging issues in today's modern cyber (and zero trust) world.

Deep Learning in Diabetes Mellitus Detection and Diagnosis

Edited by Jyotismita Chaki , Marcin Wozniak Silesian University of Technology, Poland

This book focuses on deep learning-based approaches in the field of Diabetes Mellitus detection and diagnosis, including preprocessing techniques which are an essential part of this subject. This is the first book of its kind to cover deep learning-based approaches in the specific field of Diabetes Mellitus. The book includes a detailed introductory overview as well as chapters on current applications, preprocessing of data using deep learning, deep learning techniques, complexity, challenges and future directions. It will be of great interest to researchers and professionals working on Diabetes Mellitus as well as general medical applications of machine learning.

Edited by Parul Dubey , Gurpreet Singh Chhabra GITAM Deemed to be University, India, Bui Thanh Hung Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh city, Vietnam, Umashankar Ghugar

In a world increasingly driven by technology, this book explores the intersection of artificial intelligence (AI), IoT and Cloud Computing and women's safety, highlighting the transformative potential of technology in safeguarding women's well-being in the physical and the digital world. As the safety and security industry embraces technological advancements, the need for inclusive and gender-centric solutions has become increasingly evident. This reference book delves into this critical area, showcasing the development of AI, IoT, and Cloud applications specifically tailored to address the unique safety challenges faced by women.

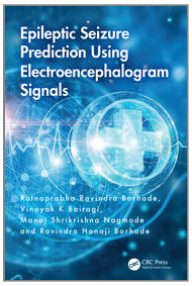
Epileptic Seizure Prediction Using Electroencephalogram Signals



Ratnaprabha Ravindra Borhade , Vinayak K Bairagi , Manoj Shrikrishna Nagmode Government College of engineering and research, India, Ravindra Honaji Borhade

This book presents an innovative method of EEG-based feature extraction and classification of seizures using EEG signals. It describes the methodology required for EEG analysis, seizure detection, seizure prediction and seizure classification. It contains a compilation of all techniques used in the literature and emphasises on newly proposed techniques. The book concentrates on a brief discussion of existing methods for epileptic seizure diagnosis, and prediction and introduces new efficient methods specifically for seizure prediction.

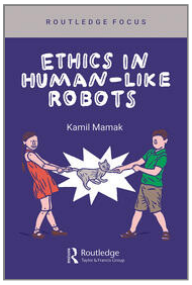
Ethics in Human-like Robots



Kamil Mamak

The book focuses on the ethical issues of human likeness of robots and human tendency to anthropomorphize. It is built on the assumption that design choices are not neutral, and they need to be discussed to align robots with human values. With robots operating in the physical world, they bring ideas and risks that should be addressed before widespread deployment. The book reviews specific issues and provides suggestions and recommendations for improving robots to serve humans better. It draws on literature from Human-Robot Interactions, ethics of AI and robotics, and the philosophy of technology.

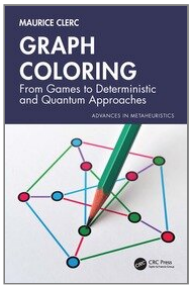
Graph Coloring

From Games to Deterministic and Quantum Approaches



Maurice Clerc

Series: Advances in Metaheuristics

Emphasis is placed on deterministic, guaranteed and non-guaranteed methods. Stochastic methods are then just mentioned because already widely described in previous publications. The study then details a general quantum algorithm of polynomial complexity. A final chapter provides elements of reflection on diplomatic algorithms that, for the problem of coloring under resource constraints, seek a compromise minimizing frustrations. The appendix includes some mathematical additions and the source codes of the main algorithms presented, in particular the one of the quantum method.

Handbook of Inclusive Knowledge Management

Ensuring Inclusivity, Diversity, and Equity in Knowledge Processing Activities

Kimiz Dalkir

This book builds on the major knowledge processing activities by adding inclusivity. Up until now, KM has used an elitist approach, focusing on the top experts in a given subject area. While this may not have been deliberate, the result has been that only these formally acknowledged expert voices have been heard and therefore included in all KM activities. Using case studies, this book will provide guidelines to implement a more equitable and inclusive approach to KM, so that all knowledge from a broad range of knowledgeable stakeholders is included, not just the formally acknowledge "experts."

Machine Learning in Multimedia

Unlocking the Power of Visual and Auditory Intelligence

Edited by Suman Kumar Swarnkar , Annu Sharma , J. Somasekar , Bharat Bhushan Sharda University, India

Series: Innovations in Multimedia, Virtual Reality and Augmentation

This book explores the interdisciplinary nature of machine learning in multimedia, highlighting its intersections with fields such as computer vision, natural language processing, and audio signal processing. At its core, it seeks to unravel the mysteries and unveil the potential of machine learning in the realm of multimedia. Moving beyond theory, this book delves into practical implementations and real-world applications of machine learning in multimedia. Through a series of case studies and examples, it illustrates how machine learning algorithms are transforming industries and reshaping the way we interact with multimedia content.

Practical Guide to Machine Learning, NLP, and Generative AI: Libraries, Algorithms, and Applications

T. Mariprasath , Kumar Reddy Cheepati , Marco Rivera

This is an essential resource for beginners and experienced practitioners in machine learning. This comprehensive guide covers a broad spectrum of machine learning topics, starting with an in-depth exploration of popular machine learning libraries. Readers will gain a thorough understanding of Scikit-learn, TensorFlow, PyTorch, Keras, and other pivotal libraries like XGBoost, LightGBM, and CatBoost, which are integral for efficient model development and deployment. The book delves into various neural network architectures, providing readers with a solid foundation in understanding and applying these models.

Quantum Service-oriented Computing: A Proposal for Quantum Software as a Service

Javier Romero-Álvarez , Jaime Alvarado-Valiente , Enrique Moguel , José Garcia-Alonso , Juan M. Murillo

This Rapids book is an analysis of quantum computing, covering everything from its foundational principles to practical applications in the development of quantum services. It offers a technical and complex overview to provide the necessary knowledge to any researcher, scientist or developer who wants to get into service-oriented quantum computing. This book will serve as a guide for all researchers, scientists and developers by providing them with an understanding of the current limitations and problems in quantum computing-oriented software development, and how to address them with software engineering techniques and tools applied to quantum computing.

Random Number Generators on Computers

Naoya Nakazawa , Hiroshi Nakazawa

This monograph proves that any finite random number sequence is represented by the multiplicative congruential (MC) way. It also shows that an MC random number generator (d, z) formed by the modulus d and the multiplier z should be selected by new regular simplex criteria to give random numbers an excellent disguise of independence. Further, a combined MC generator (d = d1d2,z) of new criteria readily realizes periods of 252 or larger, requiring only fast double-precision arithmetic by powerful Sunzi's theorem.

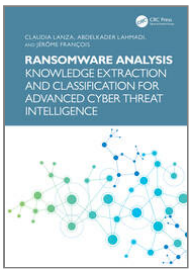
Ransomware Analysis

Knowledge Extraction and Classification for Advanced Cyber Threat Intelligence



Claudia Lanza , Abdelkader Lahmadi , Jérôme François

This book presents the development of a classification scheme to organize and represent ransomware threat knowledge through the implementation of an innovative methodology centred around the semantic annotation of domain-specific source documentation. By combining principles from computer science, document management, and semantic data processing, the research establishes an innovative framework to organize ransomware data extracted from specialized source texts in a systematic classification system.

Ransomware Evolution

Edited by Mohiuddin Ahmed Edith Cowen University, Australia

Ensuring cyber safety from ransomware attacks has become a national security priority for many nations across the world. The evolving variants of ransomware attacks present a wider and more challenging threat landscape, highlighting the need for collaborative work throughout the entire cyber ecosystem value chain. In response to this, this book aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution, trends, techniques, impact on critical infrastructures and national security, countermeasures, and open research directions in this area. It will serve as a valuable source of knowledge on the topic.

Soft Computing Applications for Advancements in Power Systems

Edited by Vijay Kumar Sood , Krishna Murari , Om Hari Gupta , Anupam Kumar

Series: River Publishers Series in Power

This book discusses real applications of soft computing (SC) in power systems. These SC techniques, inspired by the human mind and biological behavior, have proven to be excellent tools to overcome the challenges faced in power systems and related areas. The techniques are robust and provide low-cost solutions while also offering an effective solution for studying and modeling the behavior of renewable energy generation, operation of grid-connected renewable energy systems, and sustainable decision-making among alternatives.

Web Application PenTesting

A Comprehensive Guide for Professionals

Yassine Maleh

Series: River Publishers Series in Digital Security and Forensics

This is an essential resource for navigating the complex, high-stakes world of cybersecurity. It bridges the gap between foundational cybersecurity knowledge and its practical application in web application security. Designed for professionals who may lack formal training in cybersecurity or those seeking to update their skills, this book offers a crucial toolkit for defending against the rising tide of cyber threats. Whether you are an engineer, project manager, or technical leader, this book will empower you to fortify your web applications and contribute effectively to your organization's cybersecurity efforts.

Energy Transition in the Oil and Gas Industry

Edited by Cenk Temizel , Ali Baser , Onder Saracoglu , Tolga Tural , Luigi Saputelli , Ole Torsæter

The oil and gas industry is in the midst of a paradigm shift, moving from developing solely petroleum-based energy to producing alternative energy forms. This book offers a comprehensive overview of renewables and their applications in oil and gas industry during the current energy transition period. It includes the latest methods and workflows in renewables and oil and gas processes as well as integrated and hybrid approaches currently used. Addressing energy holistically from a technology and engineering perspective, this book offers engineering professionals in the energy sector a wide-ranging view of current and near future changes taking place in this critical industry.

The Practical Handbook of Well Control

Edited by Rahman Ashena

The Practical Handbook of Well Control teaches readers to safeguard well safety and integrity in drilling engineering. Offering an applied and scientific point of view, it covers fundamental aspects of well control and includes procedures and well control/kill methods. It features a wealth of questions to commonly encountered problems and comprehensive answers at the end of each topical discussion to test reader comprehension. This handbook serves as a valuable reference and workbook for field drilling and workover engineers in the energy sector and will be especially useful in passing IWCF and IADC exams.

Energy, Matter, and Change

An Introduction

William B. Tucker

This textbook serves as an introduction to the field of chemistry, aimed at secondary school students, and it assumes no prior knowledge on the readers' part. As an introductory text, the book emphasizes fundamental skills that are necessary for chemistry, and science generally. This includes an emphasis on good writing and a focus on problem solving, with problems incorporated throughout the text. To help prepare students to pursue chemistry further, all information presented is in accord with the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry's style and technical guidelines and supported through citations to the primary literature.

Statistical Mechanics of Liquids and Solutions

Intermolecular Forces, Structure and Surface Interactions

Roland Kjellander University of Gothenburg, Sweden

The statistical mechanical theory of liquids and solutions is a fundamental area of physical sciences with important implications in other fields of science and industrial applications. Statistical Mechanics of Liquids and Solutions: Intermolecular Forces, Structure and Surface Interactions is the second in a series of two on this subject. While the first volume introduced equilibrium statistical mechanics in general and statistical mechanics of liquids and solutions at an introductory level, the present volume presents an advanced treatment of the subject and penetrates much deeper into liquid state theory.

Edited by Pallavi Jain SRM Institute of Science and Technology, India, Chandrabhan Verma King Fahd University of Petroleum & Minerals, Saudi Arabia, Anirudh Pratap Singh Raman , Kamlesh Kumari , Prashant Singh Atma Ram Sanatan Dharma College, India

The detection of cancer at its earliest stages is paramount for successful treatment and improved patient outcomes. In recent years, the field of nanotechnology has witnessed significant advancements, and one material that has emerged as a potential game-changer in cancer detection is graphene. Graphene's high surface area, excellent electrical conductivity, and ability to interact with biological molecules have paved the way for innovative approaches in diagnosing cancer. Moreover, graphene oxide, a derivative of graphene, has gained significant attention in the field of cancer detection.

Advances in Natural Dyes for Environmental Protection

Degradation and Remediation

Edited by Syed Maqbool Geelani , Rouf Ahmad Bhat , Fernanda Maria Policarpo Tonelli

Discusses the environmental pollution caused by dyes, presents advances in natural dyes, considers their advantages over synthetic dyes, and offers solutions to the difficulties related to the use of natural dyes. It also offers effective remediation strategies for the management of both natural and harmful synthetic dyes in the environment. It discusses dyes derived from plant, animal, and microbial sources; conventional and non-conventional dyeing technology for textiles; and eco-friendly technology for dyeing processes. It details the global market and challenges natural dyes face along with the limitations of physical and chemical methods.

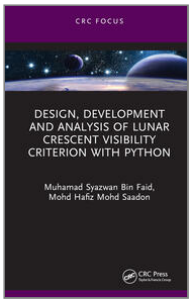
Design, Development and Analysis of Lunar Crescent Visibility Criterion With Python



Muhamad Syazwan Bin Faid , Mohd Saiful Anwar Mohd Nawawi , Mohd Hafiz Mohd Saadon

This book explores the development of an analysis tool for lunar crescent visibility criterion using an integrated lunar crescent visibility database. The analysis tool, called HilalPy and HilalObs, was developed in the form of a Python library, so that it can be integrated into other software and webpages to enable deployment into various operating systems. This book will provide useful insights for the future development of lunar crescent visibility criterion, particularly for calendrical purposes.

Holography

Principles and Applications

Raymond K. Kostuk University of Arizona, Tucson, USA

Series: Series in Optics and Optoelectronics

Holography: Principles and Applications provides a comprehensive overview of the theory, practical considerations, and applications of holography. This book conveys a foundation for others to use holography and holographic concepts in a variety of important applications. Special emphasis is placed on the analysis of the imaging and diffraction efficiency properties of holographic optical elements, solar conversion systems, and augmented reality eyewear. A comprehensive overview of holographic materials is also given as this area is critical for implementing successful holographic designs. The important areas of digital and computer-generated holography are also presented.

Luminescent Thermometers deals with all the aspects of the subject from principles of methods to their applications in different areas. The book familiarizes the readers with the fundamentals of luminescence thermometry, materials used for the development of different luminescence thermometers viz. metal organic frameworks (MOFs) including lanthanide doped MOFs referred as LOFs, quantum dots (QDs), rare earth doped phosphors and upconversion phosphors. Further some advanced and next generation approaches for luminescent thermometers such as carbon-based materials, nano-composites, double perovskites and garnet systems are assimilated.

Microplastics in Environment

Source, Potential Risks, Analytical Challenges, and Remediation Strategies

Edited by Ganga Ram Chaudhary , Moondeep Chauhan Amity University, Punjab, India, Bunty Sharma Molekule Inc. Florida, USA

"Microplastics in Environment" comprehensively explores the growing concern surrounding microplastic pollution. From their emergence as a significant environmental pollutant to their potential risks and various remediation strategies, this book delves into every aspect of microplastics' impact on ecosystems and human health.

Physiological Optical Imaging

Gennadi Saiko

Physiological optical imaging is a group of emerging technologies that aim to provide healthcare practitioners and biomedical researchers with information about tissue physiology or pathophysiology using approaches different from traditional medical imaging (PET, ultrasound, MRI, X-ray, or CT scan). This book provides a comprehensive review of this group of technologies, combing a current medical literature review with an overview of cutting-edge technologies, the physics behind them, and common features across different technologies.

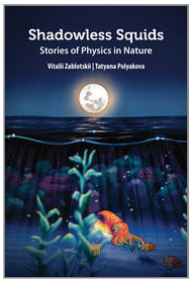
Shadowless Squids

Stories on Physics in Living Nature



Vitalii Zablotskii , Tatyana Polyakova

This book invites readers on an enlightening journey into the fascinating world where animals intersect with the laws of nature. It answers intriguing questions about animal cognition, their understanding of natural laws, and their mysterious capabilities, such as uncovering how animals predict natural disasters, why crocodiles' eyes are flat, and the incredible physics behind a cat's perfect landing as well as exploring the adventurous flights of spiders and the challenges faced by cheetahs during hunts.

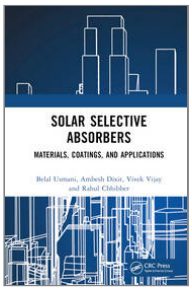
Solar Selective Absorbers

Materials, Coatings, and Applications



Belal Usmani , Ambesh Dixit , Vivek Vijay , Rahul Chhibber Indian Institute of Technology Jodhpur, Centre for Energy, India

The book covers different harnessing technologies for solar energy, electromagnetic radiation including design principles and different types of spectrally selective coatings. It emphasizes experimental methods for synthesizing these coating structures and characterization techniques to quantify the absorber characteristics, suitable for solar thermal application(s). It also provides a compact review of the literature on solar (spectrally) selective absorber materials and coatings. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in solar energy/solar thermal conversion and materials science.

Sustainable Green Synthesised Nano-Dimensional Materials for Energy and Environmental Applications

Edited by Sathish-Kumar Kamaraj Instituto Tecnológico El Llano Aguascalientes, Mexico, Arun Thirumurugan Universidad de ATACAMA, Chile, Shanmuga Sundar Dhanabalan RMIT University, Melbourne, Suresh Kumar Verma KIIT University, India, Shanavas Shajahan Khalifa University, UAE

There is a growing interest in applying the UN's sustainable development goals to a variety of sectors. One can use certain principles of green chemistry in the emerging fields of nanoscience and nanotechnology. The green chemistry approach focuses on the creation of nanodimensional materials that have a low environmental impact, are cost-effective, and have no negative consequences on the environment. This book aims to summarise the different alternative green chemical routes. Furthermore, the book describes the use of nano-dimensional materials for sustainable energy generation and environmental remediation applications.

Edited by Jayato Nayak Mahindra University, India, Sankha Chakrabortty KIIT Bhubaneswar, India, Suraj Tripathy Kalinga Institute of Industrial Technology, India, Maulin P. Shah Enviro Technology Limited, India

Advanced Bioseparation of Industrial Wastes: Sustainable Recovery of High-Value Metal Ions examines resource recovery from a variety of industrial waste streams, including sludge and wastewater, with an emphasis on both the fundamentals and the more advanced concepts involved. Chemical leaching, waste treatment, and other processes for metal extraction are broken down into their component parts in great detail. Several important metals, such as lithium, copper, gold, platinum, nickel, zinc, chromium, uranium, cobalt, rhodium, and indium, could be salvaged from recyclables.

Advances in Water and Wastewater Treatment

Theoretical and Experimental Approaches

Edited by Pranav Deepak Pathak , Himanshu J. Patel , Anuja R. Jadhav

Discusses the various techniques and methodologies for the utilization of advanced materials for water and wastewater treatment examining their feasibility for sustainable development. It covers techniques involving adsorption by advanced adsorbents, membrane filtration, advanced oxidation techniques, constructed wetlands, activated sludge process, ion exchange, chemical precipitation, coagulation, and clarification. It covers various research, reviews, and experimental studies for elimination of several contaminations using advanced techniques that include sustainable circular economy development, membranes prepared from different materials, adsorption, electrocoagulation, etc

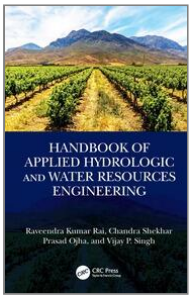
Handbook of Applied Hydrologic and Water Resources Engineering



Raveendra Kumar Rai , Chandra Shekhar Prasad Ojha , Vijay P. Singh Texas A&M University, USA

The Handbook of Applied Hydrologic and Water Resources Engineering examines the planning and design of water supply systems, flood control works, drought mitigation measures, navigation facilities, and hydraulic structures, feasibility and environmental impact studies for various water-related projects. Based on the experience gained through consultancy in dealing with various water resources issues and problems, teaching, and research. It serves as a useful resource for graduate students and faculty members in civil engineering, agricultural engineering, and water resources engineering, as well as practicing engineers working in civil, environmental, and agricultural fields.

Resilience and Sustainability for Energy and Water

New Advancements, Opportunities, and Framework

Edited by Cristobal Noe Aguilar , A. K. Haghi , Amritanshu Shukla , Ann Rose Abraham , Swati Gokul Talele

Outlines novel strategies and trends in resilience and sustainability plans, highlighting best practices and presenting case studies from the energy sector and the water industry. It gives a brief introduction of resilience and sustainability and describes some of the basics of energy and water for a sustainable future. It also explores the theoretical and practical intersection between resilience and sustainability to show how the green movement can help us achieve a better future. It reviews resources available for strategic resilience and sustainability mechanisms for reshaping communities and organizations.

They All Come Out

G. M. F. Bishop

Series: Sir Halley Stewart Trust: Publications

First published in 1965, the original blurb reads: "At the present time more and more public interest centres on crime, prison and prisoners, ... it is essential that something is done to reduce crime, and particularly, in Mrs Bishop's opinion, to reduce the number of men and women reconvicted and sent back to prison. Every year a large number of prisoners are released into society, and undoubtably the biggest problem facing them is their rehabilitation. .... In order to help, it is necessary to understand something of the problems and difficulties a prisoner has to face when he is released, and it is with this need in view that this book has been written...."

The Heart of the Bible

Volume One: The Literature of the Hebrew People

Jeannie B. Thomson Davies

Series: Sir Halley Stewart Trust: Publications

Originally published in 1933, from the preface: "The aim of this particular venture is to present the writings now collected in the volume called the Bible in an order approaching that in which they came into being. The hope is that a considerable amount of both the Old and New Testaments may be read in a fresh setting, so that questions about inconsistencies in the Bible, or about its varying levels of morality, or about its uneven value for religious education can no longer be fired as poison darts to attack its life and influence…. This is an attempt to combine reading the Bible with learning to understand it." Today it can be read in its historical context.

Delinquency and Child Neglect

Harriett Wilson

Series: Sir Halley Stewart Trust: Publications

Originally published in 1962, this was the first comprehensive study of a group of families often referred to as 'problem families'. Harriett Wilson shows that they are not a homogenous group, and furthermore, that they do not possess any unique personality traits. On the contrary, the disabilities which are found among the families who took part in this investigation are also found in the general run of the population. The main disabling factor turned out to be the social isolation to which these families are subjected. This isolation affects not only the personality of father and mother, but it also has a profound effect on the character formation of their children.

National Wages Policy in War and Peace

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Industrial Relations

National Wages Policy in War and Peace (1958) examines the thorny issue of inflation prevention, looking at a host of Western economies in the wartime and postwar period. It looks at the experience of national wage policies under a variety of different economic and social conditions, and concludes that a centrally administered national wages policy cannot be relied upon as a means of preventing inflation. It indicates that this may be achieved with the minimum interference with free collective bargaining if all parties, Government, trade unions and employers exercise their power with responsibility.

AI for EVERYTHING

Artificial intelligence (AI) is all around us. From driverless cars to game winning computers to fraud protection, AI is already involved in many aspects of life, and its impact will only continue to grow in future. Many of the world's most valuable companies are investing heavily in AI research and development, and not a day goes by without news of cutting-edge breakthroughs in AI and robotics. The AI for Everything series will explore the role of AI in contemporary life, from cars and aircraft to medicine, education, fashion and beyond. Concise and accessible, each book is written by an expert in the field and will bring the study and reality of AI to a broad readership including nterested professionals, students, researchers, and lay readers.
